CHILD CAUSES FAMILY ROW

HUSBAND SAID TO HAVE MADE THREATS AGAINST WIFE OVER ITS POSSESSION

SHERIFF AND COP RUSH TO SCENE

Children Say They Hear Conversation Indicating Quarrel and Run All Way to City Aid—Gun Play

"Give me the child or I will kill you." There are the words that Joe Reese is charged by the police to have uttered to his wife as the two were standing just north of the west approach of the suspension bridge. The husband was arrested by Sheriff E. T. Mass, assisted by Officer Lee French, Friday evening about 8:45 o'clock charged with making threats to kill.

The couple were married about five years ago, according to the wife, and came to this city early in the summer. Up to about seven days ago there had been no serious domestic trouble but then there was a quarrel he says, and the wife left.

There is a two-year-old child of the couple who lives with the parents of Mrs. Reese and it is over this baby that the trouble is said to have arisen. After the separation it is thought that even more trouble came between the two which finally led to the husband making the alleged threat.

The wife claims that she planned to leave for her home in Hillsboro Saturday and was walking along the road from the west end of the bridge toward Bolton. When she was almost opposite the skating rink she was accosted by her husband, it is said. It is at this time that it is thought that he pulled the gun and, pointing the weapon at his wife, made the threat with which he is charged. However, their quarrelling was overheard and Sheriff Mass and Officer French were summoned from this city.

Reese is now in the county jail awaiting a hearing which will be held Saturday morning in Justice Siever's court.

ADAMS IS SUGGESTED FOR MAYOR'S OFFICE

L. Adams, owner of one of the largest places of business in the city, has been suggested for mayor. Several of his business friends made the move Friday afternoon when they quietly suggested that he allow his name to be used in a boom that they were willing to start for him before the fun of the campaign opens.

Mr. Adams' name is the second to be mentioned as the days shorten before the election. Linn E. Jones has been named for a second term while other business men believe that the race would be warmer if two of the city's leading merchants were in the ring.

If he will permit them to use his name, petitions will probably be circulated within the next few days for Mr. Adams as a majority candidate at the forthcoming election.

BARCLAY DOWNED IN DECISIVE CONTEST

For the first time this year, the football team of the Barclay school went down to defeat to the score of 26 to 0 when it met McLoughlin institute on Canemah field Friday.

There was no time during the game that there was the slightest doubt as to the final outcome. From beginning to end the superior team work of the institute brought out the fact that there was no hope for the other school.

The line-up was:

McLoughlin	Position	Barclay
Storey	R. E.	Stedman
Stanich	R. T.	Sanders
Budorich	R. G.	Wilson
Forester	C.	Lovett
Murphy	L. G.	Vehmus

HUNTERS DOWN ON GAME LAWS

DECLARE IT IMPOSSIBLE TO ENFORCE AND ENTAILS A HARDSHIP ON THEM

WANT BAG LIMIT MUCH REDUCED

Believe State Could Better Cut Down Number of Birds Than Make a Distinction Between Sexes—Too Severe

From up and down the Willamette valley, the sportsmen and hunters are raising a protest against the new state game law. The hunting season has now been under way for two weeks and the new law has been tested in all sections of the state, and many sportsmen are dissatisfied with its provisions.

One of the chief objections, as stated by the hunters, is the severity of the law. They claim that the provision that makes it unlawful to shoot from a public road is extremely objectionable, excepting such highways as are heavily traveled. Several persons have been held for this offense and fined the limit, not to mention the confiscation of their dogs and guns.

Another part of the law that is attacked by the sportsmen is the provision regulating the killing of the female bird. They claim that it is almost impossible to distinguish the difference between the two when they fly up quickly from the brush. A prominent sportsman presents the argument that whenever the male bird is driven from cover the female is always close by.

This same sportsman has found several dead hen pheasants in his search for game and is convinced that the law does not restrain sports hunters in their lust for the mere killing of game while to many others he concedes the chance of a mistake. In any event the results are to be deplored.

It is argued that the law should be amended to limit the bag to five birds of either sex in case the season prevails every other year, and three of either sex if the season is opened annually.

HOOD RIVER RECALL PETITION IS FILED

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Oct. 17.—The recall petition that has been in circulation in Hood River county for the past two weeks for the signature of voters to recall the county judge and commissioners of Hood River county, was filed with County Clerk Hansen with over 400 signatures. A meeting of the citizens of the valley will be held in the near future to name candidate for county judge and commissioners to be placed on the ballot at the November election.

MUST MOVE HOME OF PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

At last a place has been found for the home of the publicity department of the Oregon City Commercial club. For several hours Friday afternoon, the members of the committee in the club were stirring excitement in the city and county circles looking for various sites for their home.

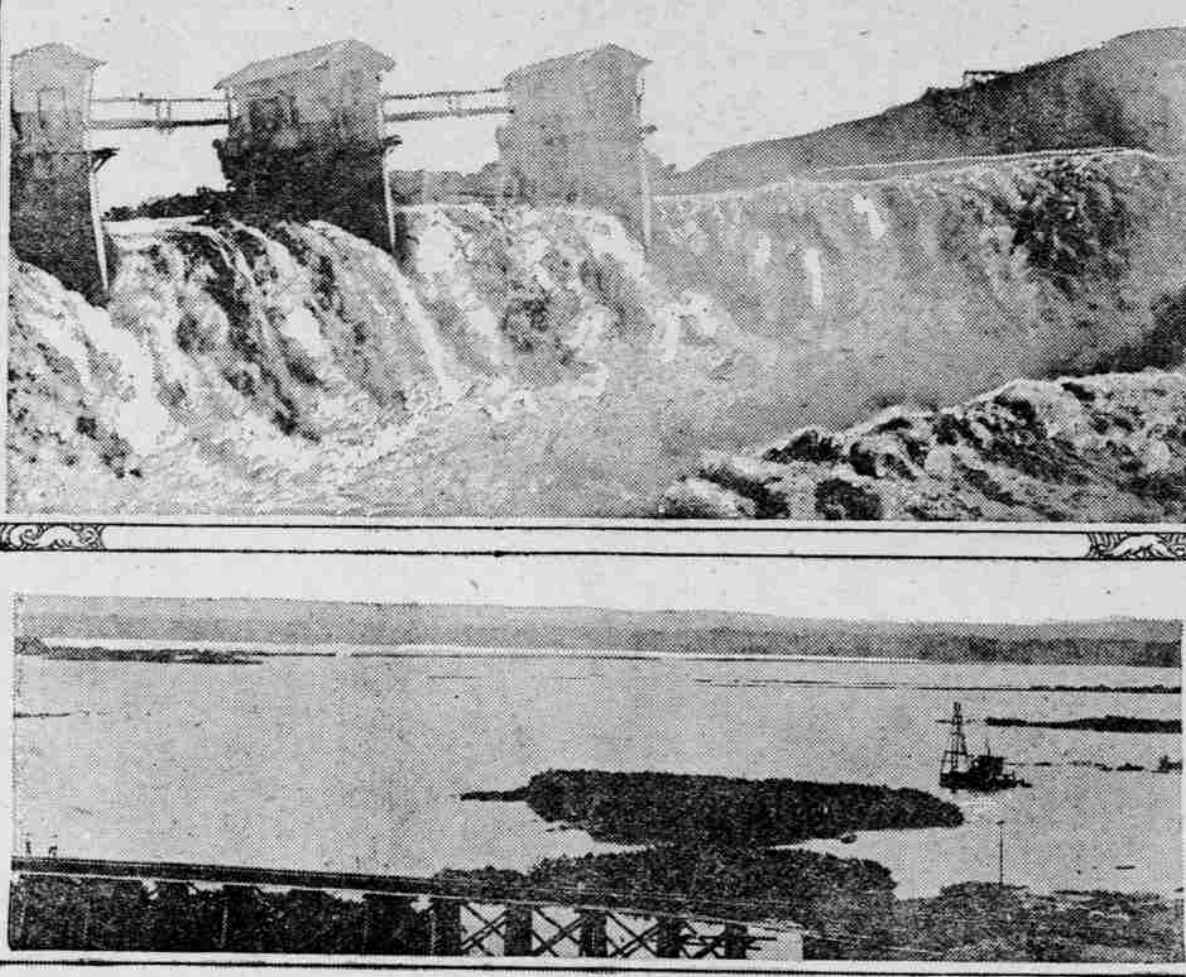

The excitement followed as the result of the order of the Weinhard estate for the removal of the building. For several years, the estate has allowed the club to use the grounds without rent upon condition that the building would be moved at once whenever the land was needed.

Now the estate wants the ground for the site of the postoffice. The county court was asked to allow it to be moved to the court house yard but has not consented and probably won't. The city council Friday night, however, will allow the club to place it at the head of Eighth street in the center of the street until another place is found.

CONVICT ASSAULTS FELLOW PRISONER

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 17.—Joe Marinos, a big Montenegrin, came near wreaking his vengeance on P. Edmondson, a big negro, when the two were put into the bullpen at the state penitentiary today. For reasons unknown to Warden Lawson, the two convicts bitterly hate each other. Both have been unruly, so today Warden Lawson ordered them put into the bullpen, built in one corner of the prison yard. As Marinos followed the negro into the pen he leaped upon his back and struck him two blows with a huge hand made dirk. The knife cut through the flesh below the shoulder, but did no serious injury.

Isthmus of Panama at Last Sliced In Two and Atlantic and Pacific Oceans Connected by Canal.

Photos by American Press Association.

With the dynamiting of the last restraining dike in the Panama canal on Oct. 10 Culebra cut becomes flooded and the Atlantic and Pacific oceans actually connected. After the rocks and debris from the slides had been dredged from the cut the canal will be completed and ready for the first formal passage of the old battleship Oregon. These pictures show the spillway of the great Gatun locks on the Pacific end of the canal and a portion of the canal at the Atlantic entrance which is ready for service.

To Get Prizes, One Carrier Signs Own Name to the List

If there is one thing that brings out the originality of a boy more than another, the Enterprise Live Wire Carriers' contest must be it. There is one boy who has been working before school, at noon, and after school not to mention after supper. The result that he is ahead of all his fellow carriers and has had remarkable success.

But the thing that crowns him as the most original and hustling boy was a contract that he brought to the office with his own name on the signature line. He said in a perfectly serious tone that he wanted to take the paper and had subscribed as a regular customer.

When they get into successful operation, the end men will have no mercy on the middlemen.

One thing Americans can be thankful for is that they are not Mexicans. Cooperation of country producers and city consumers, to the advantage of both, will be worked out ere long. To a Latin-American, a coup d'etat is the acme of successful statesmanship and government.

POLICEMEN WIN IN SUIT AGAINST CITY

Jack Frost and S. R. Green, former members of the city police force, won their case against the city before Justice John N. Seivers Friday when the court held that the city would have to pay those officers for their vacation time.

The city council has several times refused to pay the policemen on the ground that they went off of duty when they were supposed to be on their beats. The court found, however, that the two men were working for the city at that time and that the claims, totaling about $78 were due from the city.

It is not believed that the case will be carried to the higher courts. William Stone represented the city while B. N. Hicks was attorney for the plaintiffs.

Heads of departments always want more, more, more.

After years of talk and months of effort on the part of a few, the means of putting the loan sharks out of business, at least to a considerable extent, seems to have materialized. The effort deserves cordial approval and support. The loan shark is a leech on the body politic, without a single commendable quality or feature.

WATER BOARD IS SET

Through Joseph E. Hedges, its secretary, the city water board has again refused to have anything to do with the elevator.

It has positively refused to furnish the water. It has told the city council that it could have all of the board's water whenever it want a drink of water but that there is no water to spare to supply any water power elevator.

The board gently reminds the council that this is the "sneak" line that it has made strikingly similar remarks but that its answer this time is positive and final.

There may, possibly, be a meeting of the city council tonight to devise ways and means to circumvent the refusal of the board to follow instructions.

Following is the letter in full:

October 17, 1913.
To the Honorable City Council,
Oregon City, Oregon.

"We beg to acknowledge the receipt of your notification through your recorder to this board, to connect a ten-inch main on Railroad Ave., to the proposed elevator, at once.

"Replying to the same we have to say that on several occasions, one of which was at a meeting held an hour or two prior to the execution of the contract for the construction of the elevator, we have informed your honorable body that we have no water to spare to operate an elevator; and if we could not furnish it under the conditions called for by the proposed elevator on account of the serious damage that it would cause our service. Notwithstanding this information you proceeded to the execution of the contract providing therein for water power and determined to obtain this from the water system and under conditions that would work irreparable damage to the system.

"Our system is constructed for the purpose of furnishing the citizens of Oregon City with water for family use and with no provision for power purposes, and at present we are just able to furnish our consumers with what water they need and consequently cannot take on a large power consumer without great detriment to the household service. If we had a surplus of water over what is needed for family use we would be very glad to increase our revenue by selling water for power purposes. The conditions, however, being as they are, we are not in a position to, and will not, furnish water for the proposed elevator. These and other reasons have repeatedly been given you as reasons for our declination to furnish the water for operating the elevator.

"We hope that this will make our position clear and that you will govern yourselves accordingly.
Very respectfully,
"BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS,
"By JOS. E. HEDGES,
"Secretary."

A. G. Schmedeman, Rich Clothier, Is the New Minister to Norway

NOT all the newly appointed diplomats come under the head of lawyers or litterateurs. There is Albert G. Schmedeman, for example. He is the new minister to Norway. Mr. Schmedeman is a clothing merchant in Madison, Wis., where he has been a conservative business man for thirty years. Mr. Schmedeman has not only sold clothes successfully, but he has "played politics" just as well. The phrase is used, of course, in its better sense. As a progressive Democrat he has served in various city offices and on several important city commissions.

KING'S DAUGHTERS HAVE GOOD TIME

ARE ENTERTAINED AT HOME OF MRS. WARNER IN MOUNT. PLEASANT—DANCERS

AMONA CLASS HAS TAFFY PULL

Teacher Gives Thirty Girls Lots of Fun Pulling Candy and Having Frlic—Fol De Rols Give Social Dance

Mrs. Arthur Warner entertained a number of King's Daughters at a delightful luncheon Friday at her home in Mt. Pleasant. The table was beautiful with its center of dark red phlox in a dull green bowl. Covers were laid for Mrs. L. A. Morris, Mrs. H. S. Moody, Mrs. J. H. Cary, Mrs. H. S. Mount, Mrs. A. L. Beattie, Mrs. Niles and Mrs. Lawton. The afternoon was spent in sewing for the Christmas bazaar, and the next meeting for this purpose will be held at the home of Mrs. H. S. Mount.

The first dancing party of the season given by the Fol de Rols in Busch's hall Friday evening was a brilliant success. The hall was beautifully decorated with many pennants, Najavo blankets and palms, the corner arranged for the punch service being particularly attractive. The music was furnished by the well-known Praps' orchestra of Portland. A large number attended from Portland and Willamette valley towns.

The Amoma class gave a party Friday evening in the assembly room of the Baptist church. About thirty young girls compose this interesting Sunday school class, of which Mrs. Milliken is teacher. A musical programme was given, and an old-fashioned "taffy pull" furnished a great deal of amusement. The girls were assisted by Mrs. Milliken and Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Niles, of Walla Walla, is visiting friends in Mt. Pleasant. Mrs. Niles formerly lived in Oregon City and is planning to again make this her home.

Mrs. L. L. Picken, who was the guest of Mrs. Victor Marden of The Dalles, during the Rodeo, has returned to her home in West Linn.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Daulton have moved from West Linn and are now pleasantly located in their new home on Twelfth and Main streets.

CLACKAMAS LINE RUSHES WORK

CONSTRUCTION CREWS ARE OUT ON ROAD AND BED IS NOW BEING GRADED

LIVE WIRES ARE ALWAYS ON JOB

Anything of Good For City or the County Meets With Approval of Boosters Who Have Now Done Much

The 1913-14 season of activity on the part of Oregon City's wide awake organization of live business men promises much for the community, but the one brightest jewel in the crown is the great project started by it some two years ago which at this time has reached a point far exceeding the expectations of the committee who launched it.

The Clackamas Southern railroad with rights-of-way from Oregon City to Mt. Angel has completed the laying of tracks to Beaver Creek, seven miles and is now preparing to ballast this portion to be in position to economically handle the large volume of business now offering.

The freight tariffs have been approved and are in the hands of the printers. It is expected that these tariffs will be filed with the Oregon Railroad commission and Interstate Commerce commission within the next ten days and that they will be effective within ten days thereafter when these first seven miles will be put upon a paying basis. The rates are such that no one can afford to use the old methods of transportation once this road is in operation.

The road bed is ready for ties and rails for two and one-third of the balance of the distance between Beaver Creek and Molalla. It is expected that Molalla, having one railroad and seeing the advantages derived, will now rush to the aid of the Clackamas Southern and help complete the competing line, for until a city has competing methods of transportation it cannot grow to its proper point of greatness.

The grading of seven miles of the twelve between Molalla and Mt. Angel is completed and a large force of men and teams is rushing this end with the result that by the time that portion between Beaver Creek and Molalla is all ready for the rails the whole roadbed to Mt. Angel will be in readiness and the steel available under the bonding arrangement which the company made some months ago.

Is there any reason why the Live Wires should not be proud of its work—its child? Is there any reason why the Commercial club should not be proud of its Live Wire organization? Can the residents of Oregon City and Clackamas county who don't belong to this club afford to stay out when such large matters can be and are being successfully handled?

ROAD DISTRICTS ASK ADDITIONAL MONEY

Many of the districts of the county are planning a special tax levy for the construction of roads through their districts and have indicated their intention of calling an election of the district to raise money for the building of better highways.

The special taxes that will be raised in this way are in addition to the funds that the county court will appropriate for the regular road improvement work of the county. H. S. Anderson, the county judge, has sent out the banks to the road supervisors of the county asking them for information as to the work done and as to the plans of their districts for more money and for additional road construction.

The sentiment through these districts has always been for better roads and the people of the county are showing by this sentiment that they want more and better roads throughout the several districts under the supervision of the court.

FORCE CROSS RIVER TO BEGIN ROAD WORK

A force of men camped on this side of the Clackamas river Friday night and work has started on the line of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern to Oswego from the city.

The company plans to construct its logging road to Oswego and then to continue its work on other sections of the road. A party of men were camped on this side of the Clackamas Friday night with the intention of starting the work again on Saturday morning. The men are under the supervision of an engineer and have been at work on the road's gards for several weeks.
