Laborer Has No Relations, But Card Shows He Had Been Ill and Consulted Doctor in Portland Before

Charles Heimberg, aged 36 years, blew the top of his head off Friday morning at the home of J. M. Hollowell in Gladstone, near Oregon City. He came to the Hollowell ranch and secured work, and Thursday night was instructed to get up at 6 o'clock and light the kitchen fire.

Hollowell left his home before daylight for Portland with a load of farm products, and about 6 o'clock Heimberg arose and placed paper and kindlings in the stove, but did not light the fire. He took a shot gun and a single shell from a corner of the kitchen and went out into the woodshed and ended his life. The shot was heard by Mr. Hollowell's son and daughter, who found the body.

Heimberg has no relations so far as known and has evidently been working as a laborer in Oregon and Washington for several years. A book in his pocket shows that he has been employed by the Southern Pacific company at points on the West Side division during the last year, and that he worked for the Wheeler Lumber Co. Heimberg was five feet nine inches tall and weighed 175 pounds. He had complained of not feeling well and had a card from Bing Chong, a Portland Chinese doctor in his pocket. Coroner Wilson made an investigation and will bury the man in the county cemetery Saturday.

Some people pay a dollar a pound for candy to get it in fine boxes; but if you just want the candy and take it in a plain white sack you can buy it for 50c a pound at Huntley Bros. Co. If you don't agree with us that fits the equal of the dollar kind, we'll refund your money. The introduction price today is only 35c per pound; 20c per 1/2 pound.—Adv.

FRANCHISES RUSHED THROUGH COUNCIL

Gladstone has passed through the first readings two telephone franchises in the shortest session of the city council on record.

That city has established a record for quick work in its council meetings and transacted some of the most important business that has come before the city fathers there in exactly one minute and thirty seconds after the minutes had been read and approved. The application for franchises made by the Home Telephone company and the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company were passed through the first reading and will come up again for final consideration on the second Tuesday in November.

Under the terms of the franchise, one per cent of the gross receipts will be turned over to the city. In addition, the city will receive the use and benefit of all of the free telephone service that it may need.

Andrew Lang, a young man from Molalla, is in the county seat. He was hunting several days ago out in the country near that town when his gun was accidentally discharged. The bullet plowed along his right side, carrying along about three inches of flesh down to the rib. The wound is not serious although had the bullet struck in a quarter of an inch further it would have caused his death.

Volturno Burning at Sea and Hero of the Rescue Ships, Grosser Kurfuerst, Arriving at New York.

Photos by American Press Association.

The Grosser Kurfuerst of the North German Lloyd line was the hero rescue ship of the international fleet that saved a total of nearly 550 passengers and crew from the ill fated Volturno of the Uranium line, which burned at sea while bound from Rotterdam to Halifax. The upper picture shows the midship section of the Grosser Kurfuerst crowded with the 105 rescued passengers, all men, as the ship reached New York. The lower picture shows the Volturno burning, with some of the passengers still aboard. This picture was taken from the Grosser Kurfuerst and gives a good idea of what the doomed ship looked like while the rescue vessels were saving those who had not previously been burned or drowned. The Kronprinz is standing by.

VAN BRAKLE WILL BE IN FIGHT TO FINISH

DOCTOR BACKED BY OSTEOPATHS

MEMBER OF STATE BOARD HAS DECLARED HIS STAND IN LOCAL CONTROVERSY

HEALTH OFFICER IS QUALIFIED

Believes Present Official Can Hold Place Under State Laws and Has Passed Through Ordeal Himself

Until the court of last resort in the state has declared against him, Dr. J. A. VanBrakle, the osteopathic health officer of the county, will hold his position in the county service. The doctor plans to fight every step that the regulars make and he has the support and co-operation of the society to which he belongs in the state. Until, however, an effort is made by the old line physicians to oust him from office and he has to take a stand in defense of his position, he will continue to perform the duties of county health officer here.

Dr. F. E. Moore, one of the members of the state board of medical examiners, said over long distance phone in Portland yesterday: "In the absence of a decision from the supreme court of the state, Dr. Van Brakle will continue in his present position. The opinion of the attorney general is simply an opinion at best. The doctor is fully qualified to perform the duties that devolve upon a county health officer in this state. I have been on the state board of medical examiners and have examined the doctors of the state for the past six years. I have had reason to compare the requirements that are held against the medical men and against the osteopaths. I know that the requirements of the osteopath do not suffer by the comparison."

"Too Dr. Van Brakle is particularly well qualified for the position that he holds and has had the training that makes him thoroughly capable of filling the place under the county court. I was back at the American School of Osteopathy during the time that he was talking his training there, and I there became acquainted with him and had the opportunity to observe the work that he was doing.

Thorough Education.
 "He has had a thorough medical education and his training has been such that I feel no court after it has gone into the subject thoroughly would oust him from office. The requirements for medical practice are more severe in the case of osteopaths than they are in regard to the regular physicians. Under the law any man on the street who happens to want to become a doctor can take the examination and force this board to give it to him. If he successfully passes it, he can practice medicine as well as can any of those who have had their training in a medical college.

Must Have Diploma.
 "On the other hand, an osteopath cannot even take the examination until he has shown a diploma from a recognized school of osteopathy. The course itself covers every feature that the regular doctors get in their course of study with the exception of materia medica, or the mixture and use of drugs. It includes surgery and the use of the knife which is a well established feature of the course.

Old Decisions.
 "The decisions that the doctors have evidently submitted to the attorney general are antiquated decisions. They have come from courts during the early history of the profession when it was not on nearly as firm a footing as it is now and when every step of the way had to be fought through the courts for the recognition that we now have in every state of the union.

"If they had submitted the recent decisions of the courts where osteopathy has had a better chance to show its worth, the result might have been different. The newer decisions, those handed down in recent years are favorable. The original ones are more or less against the profession. The only decisions that they can offer are the ones that were given by the courts years ago and that can now have no bearing upon the case at issue in Clackamas county."

JUSTICE BINDS TWO OVER TO GRAND JURY

Jim McDonald and J. R. LeDoux, who were arrested Thursday charged with stealing 450 pounds of brass from the plant of the Crown-Columbia Pulp & Paper company, were heard before Judge John Selvers Friday morning.

They were bound over to the grand jury and placed under $1000 bonds each which they were unable to furnish.

It is reported that they have committed to the one robbery conviction Wednesday night, but deny any connection with the series of water front thefts that have been going on for the past few months.

The cloudier the day, the more need to look and be pleasant.

RESERVOIRS ARE UNDER WAY

STATE ENGINEER HAS ISSUED MANY PERMITS FOR USE OF PUBLIC STREAMS

Water Appropriation Show Great Development of Irrigation and Reclamation of Land Areas in State

During the past quarter 15 permits for the appropriation of water have been issued by the state engineer, of which number 11 are for the construction of reservoirs. According to these permits it is proposed to irrigate 18,690 acres, develop 21,716 horsepower, as well as for municipal and domestic use. The construction of the works described in these permits would cost approximately $2,300,000, of which amount $550,000 is estimated the cost of constructing reservoirs.

Only two permits for the appropriation of water have been issued during the quarter, in Clackamas county, a R. Cummings & Son for the irrigation of 28 acres with the water of Molalla river in section 29, township 3 south, range one east; Howard Whipple of Portland, for generation of 341 horsepower, including municipal use, with waters of Cedar Creek in section 35, township two south, range 5 east.
