FIRST ARREST OF ELECTION

JOE GABER HELD ON CHARGE OF CIRCULATING CARDS FOR THE WETS

SAID TO VIOLATE OREGON LAWS

Claim Made That He Broke Prohibition on Distributing Unsigned Boost for the City Saloons.

"It shall be unlawful to write, print, or circulate through the mails or otherwise any letter, circular, bill, placard, or poster, relating to any election or to any candidate at any election, unless the same shall bear on its face the name and address of the author and the printer and publisher thereof; and any person circulating or publishing, or causing to be circulated or published any such letter, bill, which fails to bear on its face the name and address of its author and of the printer or publisher shall be guilty of an illegal practice and shall on conviction be punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $1,000.—Section 3519, Lord's Oregon Laws.

Charged with violating Lord's Oregon laws in circulating cards on which were "wet" arguments and which were without the name and address of the author or printer, Joe Gaber was arrested Monday and placed under $100 bond.

It is affirmed that Gaber stood on the approach to the suspension bridge and handed out cards to passers-by and then walked down Main street, putting them in stores and handing them to the persons on the street.

The arrest was made late Monday afternoon upon a warrant made out by Chris. Schubel. The man was placed under a $100 bond which was furnished by Walter Hunsacker.

CLACKAMAS EXCEEDS ALL, EXCEPTING ONE

Only the county of Multnomah in all Oregon exceeded Clackamas in the number of voters registering since the new law went into effect June 3, 1912, according to Secretary of State O'cott.

The total number in the state, who have registered, is over 64,000, according to reports turned into the secretary's office at Salem by the various county clerks.

Multnomah has over 11,000 newly registered voters, making her exceed all other counties by far. The smallest number is in Gilliam, which has only 79 registered voters.

WATER BOARD BUCKS COUNCIL

STEADY REFUSAL TO OBEY ORDERS AROUSES IRE AND GETS ACTION

OUSTER SUIT SOON TO BE FILED

Relator Serves Notice That He Will Ask Circuit Court to Remove Old Members From Office—Injunction

Quo warranto proceedings will be brought in the direct court of the county against the former water board by John F. Albright, member of the city council and relator on the action.

The suit will be filed by R. P. Tongue, prosecuting attorney, by his deputy, Lily Stipp. The city will be represented by William Stone, the city attorney. Though service was made upon the former board, it was later decided not to bring the action in the court until Wednesday.

The suit involves the removal of the former board from office and the issuing of a restraining order that will prevent it from performing any of the duties of the members of the board of water commissioners. It recites all of the evidence that has been brought out during the dispute between the city council and the board and the latter's steady refusal to produce the water main to the elevator.

The complaint recites that "notwithstanding the action of the city council in removing defendants from the board of water commissioners of Oregon City, the defendants do now unlawfully hold as the board of water commissioners and exercise the duties, functions, and rights of said office, and wrongfully and unlawfully enter said office."

The plaintiff asks that the court remove the board from office and that it retain the members from entering into the discharge of the duties of the office and exercising any of the "emoluments thereof appertaining" and "that they be restrained from further exercising any of the rights or duties of the same and that the plaintiff recover his costs and disbursements herein."

Though the complaint is the recitation of grievances that the city council believes it has against the board in refusing to lay the main to the elevator in spite of repeated orders and furnish pressure to raise and lower the machinery that operates the platform.

RIVER CHANNEL IS IN FINE CONDITION

The river channel up the river from Portland, past Oregon City, and as far south as Salem has been in excellent condition during the low water period this summer, according to a letter from the Oregon City Transportation company to Major J. F. McOndoe, corps of engineers, United States army. The letter is partly as follows: "As the extreme low water period of 1913 has about ended, we wish to congratulate your office for the manner in which navigation was made possible to Salem for the entire season.

"We also wish to say our boats have had less trouble than at any low water season for the past four years. When the gauge at Salem was below zero, our steamer Oregon was taking 35 tons over the shoalest bars, and we feel that if the policy adopted this year is carried out in the future, our boats will be able to go through with 50 tons without lining.

J. D. Renner writes to The Enterprise that he is not a candidate for council, and desires the fact made public.

WILSON TELLS MANY MATTERS HUERTA TO GET OUT ARE SUBMITTED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3.—President Huerta must resign the presidency of Mexico without loss of time and must not leave as his successor General Aureliano Blanquet, his minister of war, or any other member of his official coterie whom he might be expected to control. This ultimatum from Washington was conveyed to President Huerta through his private secretary, Senor Rabago by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, acting under instructions from the state department.

Senor Rabago presented the memorandum to his chief late Sunday, but up to this evening President Huerta had returned no answer, and, as far as could be learned had guarded his contents from almost all of his official and intimate counselors.

Next Wednesday will be the big bargain day for news. The trouble with some would-be generous men is that they always leave their money at home in their other clothes.

STATE TO VOTE ON BILLS AND LOCAL ISSUES AT THE POLLS TODAY

TOWNS TO CONSIDER PROHIBITION
More Than a Score Will Decide to Line in Wet or Dry Columns of State When Votes Are Counted

Twenty-six towns in the state will today vote on the question of prohibition. Besides the five measures that are to be submitted to the people of the state today, there are local issues that vary in importance with the counties that are concerned.

Two appropriation bills for the support of the University of Oregon, a bill creating the office of county attorney instead of district attorney, the Workmen's Compensation act, and the sterilization bills were passed by the last legislature of the state and submitted to the people on a referendum demand.

In addition, this county will vote on a tax for the creating of a county library out of the city institution, raising money to enable the authorities to place branch libraries in all of the cities and towns of the county under the supervision of the county court.

The question submits to the people whether or not the county court should levy a special tax for the support of such a library plan. The appropriations for the university deal with funds for the erection and repairs on buildings and total $175,000. Local interest centers in the county attorney act as E. L. Hedges was appointed under its provisions for this county by Governor West before the referendum was called.

Milwaukie is to vote on the prohibition issue there today, as is Oregon City. The question of raising the salary of the county school superintendent is also to be placed on the ballot.

Multnomah county votes on a new bridge, Hood River on the recall of its county court, Clatsop on $400,000 worth of good roads.

The precincts of Oregon City are on the east by J. Q. Adams street, north by Fifth street and west by the river, first precinct; south by Fifth street, east by J. Q. Adams street by river, north by Tenth street, second precinct; south by Tenth, east by J. Q. Adams, west by river, north by city limits, precinct four; everything east of J. Q. Adams to limits, precinct three.

The eighth grade of the Barclay school held a mock election yesterday afternoon, under the direction of Professor Freil. Regular sample ballots were used. The judges were Gladys Biler and Arthur McDonald, Grace Silcox and Gladys January acting as clerks. All the measures on the ballot carried, the "drys" having the plurality of 21 to 9.

HALLOWEEN IS PROPERLY CELEBRATED AT MILLER HOME

APPROPRIATE DECORATIONS USED

Birthday of Neal Goodwin Remembered by His Friends—Eighth Grade Has Mock Election at School.

(By Meta Finley Thayer)
Unusually attractive in all of its appointments was the Halloween party given by Mrs. Edna Miller Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tabor, at Glen Echo. The rooms were profusely decorated with jack-o'-lanterns, pumpkins and autumn leaves. Ghost stories, music, toasting marshmallows and popping corn over an open fire were features of the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Miller was assisted by Miss Mae Zigler, of Portland, and Miss Hazel Taber.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the Tabor home were: Miss Nellie Swafford, Miss Belle Gray, Miss Hazel Waling, Miss Mollie Rose, Miss Myrtle Henderson, Miss Ana White, Miss Ivy Ford, Miss Elva Blanchard, Sadye Ford, Miss Alice Bailey, Miss Zigler, Miss Hazel Taber, Harold Swafford, B. N. Hicks, E. Elliott, Richard Hoyt, of Hillsboro, George Frisbie, of Portland, Asel Taber, George Thomas, C. R. Holland, E. D. French.

The twenty-fifth birthday of Neal Goodwin was appropriately celebrated Saturday evening when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Goodwin entertained about twenty-five friends in his honor at their home in Gladstone. Decorations were black and orange, and refreshments in keeping with the Halloween season were served. Mrs. Edwards assisted Mrs. Goodwin in entertaining the guests.

The Bobbie Burns society held a meeting last evening for the purpose of formulating plans for their annual concert.

Most people enjoy hearing their enemies roasted more than they do hearing their friends praised.

GIRL SUDDENLY LEAVES HOME

PARENTS START POLICE OUT ON SEARCH FOR THEIR LOST DAUGHTER

THREATENED TO LEAVE BEFORE

Neighbors Claim She Often Said She Would Runaway or Kill Herself When She Became of a Legal Age

Without giving the slightest hint that she would not return to her home 17-year-old Rosetta Robertson went out to the barn on her father's farm to do the chores and failed to come back Sunday afternoon. As a result, the mother is nearly prostrated and the entire countryside is searching for the missing girl. The family lived on the Abernethy on the outskirts of this city.

According to the neighbors the girl was badly overworked, being forced to do all the heavy work around the farm. It is said that she was never allowed to dress in any kind of clothes except such old rags that the mother had cast off as unfit for wear. One woman, who is acquainted with the family, affirms that the girl was seldom properly clothed and that, when neighbors offered to give clothes to her, the mother would reply that they would be destroyed.

Rosetta was never allowed to meet any one outside of her own family except on rare occasion when she would be sent to a neighbor's to do a chore, according to a next door family. The same person continues that on these occasions the visits of the girl were short, and that, in case she would be away from home longer than her mother thought necessary, a sound thrashing with a broom handle awaited her.

One woman, living nearby, says that Rosetta told her that, on her eighteenth birthday, which is November 28, she would either run away or drown herself to escape the "terrors" of her home.

The missing girl is one of ten children, all but two being at home. She has gone through five grades of the Oregon City schools and can read and write fairly well.
