The plans for the extension of its good work into the isolated districts were knocked galley-west at the polls last Wednesday, largely, no doubt on account of the voters not fully realizing what the measure meant-because nearly everyone believes in a square deal-but they do not always know what constitutes the deal. One man from out in the country said he voted against all the appropriations because money. Knowing something of his finances, the library tax of 45 cents on $1500 would have cost him about $1 a year, and would have brought reference books and all tumn leaves. Everything about building can proudly furniture is a heavy quarter-sawed oak, finished golden and made on the famous library bureau lines.

The deep ivory tinted walls form a soft-toned background for the pictures that are not-so far the library pic tures consist of beautiful plans, Over the handsome fireplace a really good picture is needed-preferably one depicting western life. In the children's room it is planned to have a copy of Abbey's Holy Grail, and the large reading room some day is to have good copy of "The Evolution of the Book," the original of which is in the Congressional Library.

Children's books are badly needed. At present there is only one book to every ten children in town, and the interest these young patrons are dis playing should not be discouraged. The county library would have placed a large number of books in circulation and all would have been benefitted, including Oregon City, but as the matter now stands, the library requires early consideration, if interest is to early consideration, if interest is to be derived from the money already expended. A number of social organizations about town are planning for a "book day," to be held in the near future when donations will be received for the local library. Gift slips will provided, and the donor will be asked to write his name and the date to commemorate the book day. Any number of interesting plans are still in formulative state, and it promises well for the library. A copy of "Little Black Sambo," which can be purchased for 25 cents will bring more joy to the heart of some small patron than a leather-bound limited edition of Sesame and Lilies would to the general public, and no one who wishes to contribute need be deterred by the smallness of Believing that some means should be provided so that a pleasant home can be offered young, unmarried wo men employed in the various manufacturing establishments of Oregon City, the Live Wires of the Commercial club are endeavoring to obtain funds and other aid for the opening of a lodging and boarding house for these employees. A commtitee has been appointed to have charge of the scheme, and members of this board are now engaged in investigating sim-

is Foreseen

Oregon City is going to have a Y. M. C. A. that will be installed in its of the Carver railroad, otherwise own home by the fore part of next known as the Portland & Oregon City summer, and that will have have a membership that will insure its per-manancy, if the plans of Oregon City tions of the line's bridge across the churches are carried out.

Some time ago a committee was appointed from all the churches in the city, and several meetings were held. but the "dry" campaign needed the undivided attention of the church workers, and as a result the matter was dropped for a time. But now that the city has been voted "dry" and the issue settled, their attention has again been turned to the old subject.

Definite plans have not yet been made, the inter-denominational Y. M. C. A. committee intends to "get busy" at once and before long Oregon City will boast of an active organization.

This will not be the first attempt to organize a Y. M. C. A. in this city. Some time ago an active association was brought together, a building was secured, nd everything looked bright for the new enterprise. But as time went on the interest waned, the members lacked interest, and the business men failed to support the organization as the workers anticipated.

Now things are thought to be differ-nt. With the past experience and with the consolidation of all the churches in the city, those back of the plan expect to build up an organizathat will prove to be a credit to the city and a benefit to the men, both young and old, in all this section of the county.

MILWAUKIE IS "WET"

Additional returns from the last election received at the county clerk's office Thursday show that Milwau-icle voted "wet," 231 ballots being for license to 181 against. In Macksburg, in addition to the referendum election, there was ballotting as to whether or not stock should be permitted to run at 'large. The vote was against this, 83 ballots being cast for "no," while 17 voted for a continuance of the practice.

NEW GRAND JURY

The autumn grand jury will convene Monday of next week to consider matters that have been accumulating for it, and will meet under the direc tion of Gilbert Hedges, the new county attorney, who goes into office by virtue of the will of the people express-@ ed at the referendum election. The first day or two will probably be taken over with organization, and with mapping out the work before the inquisitors; and by Wednesday it is expected that witnesses will be called for testimony. Current rumor has it that there are number of important cases that will be brought to the attention of the inquisitors. Among these, it is said, will be new evidence in regard to a given as to what saloonmen would do murder case which some years ago stirred the entire state, and on which current on the street in regard to officers of the law have been quietly HAVANA, Nov. 6. General Felix working since the former inquiry was Diaz was stabbed by a Mexican at dropped. Other rumors have it that the grand ury will be asked to look into incidents connected with the last two elecviewed by the inquisitorial body, and it is expected that their time will be
