THE REAL ISSUE. It isn't so much the wages you get For the long day's toil and tug and sweat. It isn't so much the number of plunks You get for the sale of yourself in chunks; It isn't how many simmons bright You find in your envelope Saturday night— It isn't that that counts with you. It's what you get With what you get For the work you do!

If your wage is big as that of the boss And your balance shows on the side of loss When you've paid your weekly current bills For food and clothes and squills and pills And what you waste in various ways If all of it goes and none of it stays Then you know it's true: It's what you get With what you get For the work you do!

MAY AND CANNOT. YOU may lead a horse to water, But you cannot make him drink. You may send a boy to college, But you cannot make him think. —W. J. Burtschen.

THE LAST LOVE WORD. THE roses for Love's sweetheart, And for her dear sake Love, self denying, All the thorns will take, "Sweet be her dreaming, When my heart shall break!"

HEAVEN for Love's sweetheart, For Love the lowly seed; Rose wreaths for her forehead, For Love the chastening rod; The darkness be his portion— Hers be the light of God. —Frank L. Stanton.

Gems In Verse THAT LITTLE HAPPY THOUGHT. HELPFUL little happy thought went hastening on its way All in the early morning of a long "I've neither hands nor feet nor tongue," it mused, "but I'll not sorrow, "I've neither hands nor feet nor tongue," it mused, "but I'll not sorrow, For boys and girls are plentiful, and so I'll merely borrow." Now, little Nell was skipping by to visit little Jane. Presto, the little happy thought was beaming in her brain. And so she turned and hurried back and stayed at home instead. Reading with merry, tripping tongue to poor blind Cousin Ned. Off went the little happy thought and saw some idle feet Drumming their heels against the steps upon a quiet street. And soon those feet were carrying upon an errand hot. Their smiling owner, who had whined and said he'd "rather not." If "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do," Why, then, a little happy thought can set them working too. And, judging from a-many things I notice every day. That helpful little happy thought is still upon its way. —Minnie Leona Upton. The classified ad columns of The Enterprise satisfy your wants.

Margate Bathing Customs. Almost as uncut pomp as attended the Duchesse de Berri when she took her daily dip in the sea was displayed toward the ordinary bather at Margate a century and a half ago, when Benjamin Beale, the Quaker, invented the bathing machine. According to an old guidebook, the company desiring to bathe assembled at the bathing rooms in the High street, where they waited their turns. When a machine was vacant a bell rang, and an attendant solemnly conducted the bather to the seashore, watched him while in the water and brought him back to his admiring friends. The charge for half an hour's dip, including the "guide," was 1s. 3d.—London Globe.

Handel's Big Earnings. Handel made more money from his works than any composer before his time. For a "Te Deum" and a "Jubilate," written to celebrate the treaty of Utrecht, he was awarded a pension of £200 a year. This was doubled by George I. soon after his accession and confirmed by George II., so that Handel drew the pension until his death in 1759. Altogether for these two compositions Handel received £18,800. Although he lost thousands of pounds running opera at Covent Garden, Handel died worth £20,000—a sum, allowing for the difference in the value of money, equal to £60,000 nowadays.—London Mail.

A CHIC COAT BLOUSE AND A SMARTLY DRAPED SKIRT

There are but few among the new skirt models that do not show the bouffant hip. It is brought about in several ways by the tunic, peg-top drapery or the pannier, as shown in 8059. In this instance a soft satin is used with trimming bands arranged to hold the drapery in place. Another feature which makes this skirt distinctive is the box-plated lower section. A plain yoke may be substituted for the draped hip if preferred with equally smart results. 8059a is one of those coat blouses which are so popular at the moment. They are most effective, especially when the material used is in decided contrast to the skirt. A softly colored brocade or moire with a plain dark skirt is an attractive suggestion. To make 8059 in size 36 it requires 2 3/4 yards of 42 inch material. The skirt (8059) requires for size 24 6 1/2 yards of 42 inch material. Long waisted effects in children's fashions still hold first place. They are quaint and becoming. 8032 is fashioned of blue ratine belted in Roman stripes. This coat may be made in size 6 with 2 yards of 42 inch material. No. 8050—sleeves 32 to 42. No. 8059—sleeves 32 to 32. No. 8032—sleeves 2 to 10. Each pattern 15 cents.
