WEST LINN PLANS FOR STREET LAMPS

The people of West Linn are now discussing the advisability of giving a franchise to a power and light company for street light service. The walks in some parts of the city are rather dark at night and while some lights are already installed more are needed. At the next meeting of the council there will be some thing done along this line. Gladstone has recently set a good example. Before long West Linn will have cluster lights.

FOWL MARKET HAS BRISK RUN OF TRADE

Although the local market for turkeys and ducks is unsettled, it is probable that Oregon City people will pay about 26 or 27 cents for their Thanksgiving bird. Merchants here are paying around 20 cents for turkeys alive. There is considerable call for heavy hens but the market for small chickens is weak. Live ducks are selling at wholesale 13 cents and live geese 12 cents. Everything points to a large supply of turkeys for the Thanksgiving trade. Requests are coming in from the country asking what price dealers will pay for the festive birds and in almost every case the same price is quoted.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders. You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications. A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. For Sale by Huntley Bros. (Adv.)

Purses and Economy.

A visiting Englishman thinks he has discovered the reason for American extravagance and English thrift. He says that the difference in the spending temperament of the two nations is due entirely to the change purse which Englishmen carry. "No one whose money is constantly jingling in his pocket can possibly be economical," says the observer from overseas. "On the other hand, the man who has to open a change purse to get at his small coins is under constant restraint. The extra effort necessary to get at his small coins will cause him to forego many opportunities for spending which his American cousin would eagerly accept."—New York Tribune.

APPLE HEADS LIST OF EATABLES TODAY

All over the country today is apple day. In every eating house, restaurant, dinner, and other place where eatables are to be had, the luscious apple of Oregon and other producing states will be in evidence. On the tables the apples will be converted into every known dish to which the fruit is a relative and every effort made to bring it to the attention of the people of the east, particularly. The dinners on all through trains will make a feature of the apple today, while in local houses are planning to give it a prominent part in today's menu.

them or to renew them. This, it is believed, would have the same effect upon the city that the election would have were the supreme court to sustain it.

No Saloons. By this plot, the dry forces hope to give the city no saloons and to gain for the people what the declaration of the votes at the last election showed was wanted—a saloonless city. They believe that the city would be doubly protected. It would be dry if the supreme court sustains the election in this and other cities that voted on prohibition. It would also be dry were that decision against the prohibition forces and the city council stood by a determination not to grant licenses to any saloon until the people had another chance to express themselves two years hence.

Humor in Battle.

A Laugh That Snapped the Tension and Saved the Day. Many a time has that sense of humor which is the heritage of the sons of Uncle Sam been as a sheet anchor to them. Danger deadly enough to make the bravest pause has lost its terror when touched by this saving grace.

"I remember well how a timely pleasantry in a moment of deadly peril turned utter defeat into victory for us at Port Republic, considered by Stonewall Jackson the most desperate of all his desperate battles," said an old veteran of the "Stonewall" brigade of the Confederate army.

"General Shields' line of battle, composed of the flower of the Union troops then in the Shenandoah valley, stood with its right flank resting on the Shenandoah river and its left clutching firmly to the steep shoulder of the Blue Ridge mountains; stouter there like the mountain ridge itself, not to be moved, not to be flanked. High on the slope above and in front of the left wing a well posted battery of eight powerful field guns poured destruction into the Confederate lines.

"Stonewall Jackson must have those guns. Not only was this necessary to victory, but also to save himself from complete defeat, for to attempt to withdraw his men in the face of that deadly shell fire meant rout. Already two Georgia regiments had hurled themselves against the battery and then reeled, crushed, to the rear. General Taylor's Texans, veterans of San Jacinto in the Mexican war, had twice stormed up the steep slope to the muzzles of the guns, only to stagger back, leaving half of their officers on the field.

"To us, lying in reserve, in full view of that bloody mountain side, there galloped up an aid from General Jackson.

"Charge that battery and take it!" he shouted to our commanding officers, pointing to the bristling guns. "General Jackson says he must have those guns—he must have them!"

"A murmur ran down our line. None, neither friend nor foe, ever accused the Stonewall brigade of being afraid. But when we looked up at those grisly guns, yawning black mouthed, beneath their smoky canopy; when our eyes swept up that fatal slope, now gray with southern dead, we came about as near knowing fear as ever a soldier wishes.

"And just then there came from a bank and ragged private in the front ranks the drawing words: "Say, boys, let's we-all-I-I chip in an' buy them air guns for Ole Jack!"

"A roar of laughter rolled rioting down the line, snapping the tension. The commanding officers, seizing the opportune instant, started the charge. The gray lines, close on their heels, swept up the slope, laughing, shouting, falling, yelling, dying—to victory!"

"A little timely humor had saved the day for the Confederate army!"—New York Times.

Asparagus Analyzed.

Asparagus belongs to the family of plants—Ulliacae—that includes onions, leeks and garlic. Each of those vegetables contains a small quantity of sulphur in the form of an oil. The presence of the sulphur is more noticeable in onions than in asparagus, but if shoots of asparagus are left in water for a few days the odor of onion develops and becomes quite strong. The food value of asparagus is slight, and much of it is lost in the process of boiling. The London Lancet declares that after boiling for twenty minutes asparagus has virtually no food value.

GRAY FADED HAIR OR BEAUTIFUL, DARK, ATTRACTIVE—CHOOSE, MADAM!

Says Sage Tea Mixed With Sulphur Restores Natural Color and Lustre

Grad, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur; but what's the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," at drug stores here for about 50 cents. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth; gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the sage and sulphur tonight, and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur," and the folks using it are enthusiastic.

JUNIOR MODES ARE MARKED BY AN AIR OF DEMURE QUAINTESS

Afternoon and party dresses, suits and practical work-a-day frocks for the boarding school girl are all constructed on simple lines this fall. The straight lined frock of serge for school wear is smartly relieved by the usual sash or bit of bright color brought out in one of the other details: the belt buckle or the buttons perhaps. For afternoon or party wear, rather than more elaborate trimming, the dress may show a touch of drapery, a peplum, an effectively draped sash or one of the exquisitely brocaded silks or ribbons that are so modish just now or a clever combination of two or more materials. Buff ruffine trimmed with blue is the effective combination shown in the school frock (8021) here illustrated. It is a well cut design and could easily be made more dressy by adding a sash. This dress may be copied in size 16, with 3 1/2 yards of 42 inch material and 1/2 yard of contrasting silk or material for trimming. One of the large softly colored plaids so becoming to small folks is used in 8026. It is a long waisted model with the skirt attached to a low necked underwaist. This design would be effective in one of the plain faced materials; also with accessories of plaid or figures. For size 12 it requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. No. 8021—sizes 14, 16, 17 and 18. No. 8026—sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14. Each pattern 15 cents.
