LIFE IN ICELAND.

It is Not the Crude Existence That Many People Imagine. Most people think of the Icelanders as being like Eskimos, a crude, unlightened people, looking more like animals than people and living in snow huts, dressed in furs, whereas the Icelanders are handsome, cultured people, highly educated, with fair faces and brilliant eyes and a very dainty fashion of dressing.

As to their diet, it is somewhat wanting in variety on account of the lack of many food staples, but all their dishes have a certain odd richness that is very delicious to a stranger. It is largely because of the amount of oil they use. They cook many things in oil—a clear, sweet fish oil, though substituting olive oil makes the dishes quite as tempting. They try to use their native products, as everything else has to come so far and the steamers call only once in ten days from England and Denmark, and the imported goods are expensive for Icelanders who are not very well off, though never poor.

Their own products are fish in vast quantities; lamb, the chief meat; eggs, wild ducks, sheep's milk, cheese and butter; turnips, of which they raise and eat more than of any other vegetable; potatoes, onions and beets, beans and occasionally peas; spinach, cabbage and Brussels sprouts; no fruit to speak of and rarely any beef—it is imported from Denmark and Scotland. Pork is rarely eaten and then in the form of imported bacon.

But out of this meager list of staples they evolve some truly delicious dishes, for the island people are all good cooks and have a native knack that is like the French. They can make anything they cook taste good, no matter what the ingredients may be.—London Family Herald.

NITROGEN IS A LOAFER.

This Gas is Too Lazy to Do a Thing Except "Being Around." Nitrogen in its normal condition—as it occurs in the air we breathe, of which it forms over 75 per cent—is a singularly lazy member of the family of elements. The average human loafer is ambitious by contrast. He will at least whittle a stick by way of occupation and scramble up with some alacrity if asked to "have something."

Nitrogen gas just puts in its time "being around." And it doesn't do anything else. No ordinary stimulus can stir it to action. We breathe in gallons of it every day, but we breathe it all out again absolutely unchanged except that it is a little warmer. And this despite the fact that the body has to have a regular supply of nitrogen and that we spend much money on expensive food to get it.

In the outer world, too, elements of all sorts go wandering by, and nitrogen sits like a dummy uninterested and quite unresponsive to any advances they may make. To be sure, a few years ago the industrial chemists succeeded, by using powerful electric currents, in wakening up the atmospheric nitrogen, and now there are several large factories in which nitrogen activated in this way is being turned into explosives and fertilizers. But in the laboratory and on the street it has continued to be the inert element par excellence.

In view of the very important part that nitrogen combined plays in the world, chemists, with the necessary idealism to make them great, have long suspected that if just the right conditions could be provided this difference of nitrogen to its fellow elements would disappear.—New York Post.

Rough on the Plumbers. "Are there any plumbers in heaven, dad?" asked a small boy. The gentleman addressed had just received a "small" bill from one of the plumbing fraternity as he answered, promptly and emphatically: "No, my boy. Certainly not! But what made you ask?"

EXPENSIVE DINING.

Prices Soar Sky High at the Hotel des Roches Noires. Trouville is in the season one of the most expensive spots in Europe. It contains what is assuredly one of the most expensive hotels in Europe. The individual who takes his wife and family to the Hotel des Roches Noires for, say, a month in the winter season and does them really well—that is, gives them the best which the house has to offer—when he comes away—if he has paid his bill—has left a small fortune behind him.

The idea that an Englishman because he is being charged a high price is being cheated is absurd. Nowadays—whatever it used to be once upon a time—an Englishman in a really smart hotel in France is looked at askance. French people on pleasure bent are much more extravagant than we are. They do not seem to care what they spend.

I remember dining once at Trouville when a basket of nectaries was offered by the head waiter. They were quite nice nectaries, but that head waiter wanted 25 francs apiece. Five dollars for two or three mouthfuls seemed to me too much, but those nectaries all went. There was scarcely a Frenchman in the room who did not treat himself to one. At the next table to mine was a man with his wife and his daughter. They had three apiece. $45 for dessert as a windup to an extremely expensive dinner!—Richard Marsh in Strand Magazine.

who want to know of their present or future business and personal affairs, need only to write any question they want answered, take it to the theater and Madam Tankley, the renowned seeress, will answer them free without the question or answer reaching the ears of a man. Poor man, how some of them will wish they could attend.—Adv.

OPENS UP NOSTRILS, CLEARS HEAD, ENDS COLDS OR CATARRH AT ONCE

Instantly Relieves Swollen, Inflamed Nose, Head, Throat—You Breathe Freely—Dull Headache Goes—Nasty Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head, catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heats the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous drooping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless. Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear. For Sale By HUNTLEY BROS. CO. (Adv.)

Local Briefs

Mrs. H. S. Mount, who underwent an operation the fore part of the week by a local hospital, has improved greatly during the past few days.

Miss Sue Garland, of St. Paul, Minn., is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, who live in Greenpoint. Her trip through the Pacific coast states is rather extensive as she has made several long visits.

Mrs. Henry Holman, of Beaver Creek, underwent an operation Thursday at the Oregon City hospital and is reported as doing nicely. She has been confined to the hospital for over a week, the operation having been postponed several times. Dr. H. S. Mount and Dr. Guy Mount are attending to the case.

George L. Dillman, consulting engineer for the Western Pacific railway, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. McBain, left Thursday evening for his home in San Francisco. Mr. Dillman is well known in his profession and was prominent in the building of the road.

E. S. Follansbee underwent an operation Thursday morning at the St. Vincent's hospital for hydro-thorax. This is the second time he has been forced to go to a hospital for this trouble this month, having come home from his first trip only several days ago.

Fred Stuz, of Mulino, who was injured the forepart of the week in a logging camp near that town, was brought to the Oregon City hospital Thursday. He is not seriously injured and will probably be able to return to his work in a short time.

Mrs. Edward Foster, a former resident of Kansas, visited her son, Edward Foster, who is bookkeeper for the Clackamas Southern in this city the middle of the week. She is considering making this her permanent home.

T. J. Honiger, who lives about four miles east of this city, was in the county seat today. He owns a farm of remarkable fertility which produced five tons of hay to the acre and averages over 70 bushels of oats.

D. C. Robbins, who was injured Saturday and confined to his home for several days, was able to return to his work at the Oregon Commission company Thursday although he is still somewhat crippled.

Dawson Fairchild, who was injured sometime ago in the mill of the Willamette Pulp & Paper company is still in the local hospital, although the condition of his foot is growing better.

C. A. Rosecrans, who lives on the Abernethy about four miles from Oregon City, was in the county seat Thursday. He recently sold his farm at Maple Lane.

Mrs. M. Bell, who was injured some time ago on the corner of Sixth and Main streets by a wagon, is still confined to her bed and is improving slowly.

W. L. McCabe, of Star, Ore., arrived in this city Wednesday. He will probably stay for a couple of days.

O. J. Bennett, of the Bennett Manufacturing company of Portland, was in Oregon City Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Davis, of Sumpster, Wash., were in Oregon City the middle of the week.

Mrs. J. H. Proctor, of Portland, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Oregon City.

H. Bronson, of Portland, was in Oregon City Wednesday and Thursday.

Fred Vohs, of Highland, drove into the county seat Thursday.

Charles H. Otten, of Portland, spent Thursday night in this city.

W. E. McWaddell, of McMinnville, is visiting in Oregon City.

JENNINGS LODGE. Dr. T. H. White and wife from Sitka, Alaska, visited with their cousin, Mr. W. B. Jennings, of Lywin, Jennings Lodge, during the past week and many reminiscences of boyhood days were enjoyed, accompanied by a pitcher of cider and apples, amid the glow of the burning logs in the old-fashioned fireplace.

On Sunday evening Judge and Mrs. H. H. Emmons gave a dinner at the Commerce Club in Portland for a bride-elect, Miss Mable Morse, whose engagement to Harry M. Hayles was announced recently. Other members of the dinner party being Miss Sarah Kanilski, Mr. Hayles, Mr. George Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gregan.

The regular Parent-Teachers' meeting was held at the school house on the afternoon of Nov. 14th. After the regular order of business, the reports from the delegates to the recent Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association, were given. Mrs. Bertha M. Hart giving a most excellent verbal report of the first two days of the convention and gave many gleanings from the various subjects which were spoken on and of the speakers at the convention. Mrs. Jones spoke of the happenings of the third day of the election of the new state officers.

"Story-telling at Home" was the subject for the afternoon, and a profitable half hour was spent in discussing the kind of stories that are best to tell children. Mary Jane Painton told the story of the ginger bread man in her sweet childish way. The Association will give a social at the Batdorf hall on the evening of Dec. 5th. A program of music and readings and a speaker from Portland will be among the attractive features followed by refreshments. The next regular meeting will be held on Dec. 12th at the usual place at 3 P. M. Mr. Alvin Reed, of the Eugene University came down to attend the football game in Portland was calling on Lodge friends. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith are pleasantly located on the Lowell place near Covell. On Saturday last Miss Mollie Rose entertained with a theatre party for Miss Mable Morse and her bridesmaids, Miss Ethel Thompson and Helen M. Painton. Additional guests being Miss Nettie Kruse, Miss Nellie Swafford and Miss Ivy Ford, who later enjoyed a beautifully appointed dinner at the Hazelwood.

At one of the recent openings several of the smartest street frocks were fashioned of striped velours. This material would be especially appropriate to 7660, rendering its simplicity still more effective. The required touch of brightness could be introduced in the broad girdle and the trimming bands on the skirt and blouse. There is just a bit of fullness on the shoulders and at the waist-line. In size 36 this design may be copied with 5 yards of 42 inch velours. Frills and furberlows that crush and soil easily have no place under the heavy winter coats that must soon make their appearance. A simple frock of serge will be found most agreeable. An excellent model for that dull blue serge which is still so popular is 7648. The drop-shoulders and the small revers are sufficient trimming. A sash or girdle of bright satin or silk would be effective and give the desired touch of contrast. Size 36 requires 5 yards of 36 inch material. No. 7660—sizes 34 to 42. No. 7648—sizes 34 to 42. Each pattern 15 cents.
