The members of the city council and some of the protesting property owners at once objected to the charge that they were against the entrance of the new road into the city. They wanted the council to provide proper guarantees to the people and the Water street property owners do not like the idea of the road passing in front of their homes. They hope that the line can come into the city-by some other

When peace reigned in Mexico, and when the foes of today were in peaceful harmony, with their enemies of the present, so far as outward appearances went, there were many banquets at which those who now are fighting each other, were at that time drinking toasts to the long life of the Diaz regime. At the time this photograph, Felix Diaz, at whose right sits the present Mexican dictator, little thought that Huerta would prove to be his Judas.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY

The Oregon Immigration commission has just issued its foreign book-lets which may be seen at the public-ity offfice of the commercial club. The set contains three volumes, one book of 64 pages, one of 92 and an album of 194 pages and are printed in the German, Swedish and Norgegian languages. The album contains 18 photos of Clackamas county, which is seven more cuts than is shown by any other county. This is due to the de partment's having secured photos and seeing to it that Clackamas county had its share of publicity. These books will be sent out in sets to those who do not read the English language.

The allegations of the compaint, in addition to the usual jurisdictional ones are that the parties were mar-ried on April 22, 1908 at Menomines, Michigan and that the defendant deserted the plaintiff at Oregon City on September first, 1912, at the same time taking with her the two children of the marriage, Clover, aged five years, and Evelyn, aged three years. Clarence L. Eaton appears as attorney for the plaintiff.

Minnie M. Hune also asked a decree from Chester Hune on the same grounds. They were married July 3, 1912.
