POTATO TRADE IS QUIET IN TONE There is a very quiet tone in the potato trade. The highest price shown for Oregon offerings in the San Francisco market Saturday was $1.40 a cental with the bulk of the sales ranging from $1.25 to $1.35. The freight and handling charges between the Willamette valley and the San Francisco market amount to 40c a cental, therefore the net price here is not more than $1 and generally 90c unless the extreme figure is obtained in the south. This means that buyers here are not able to pay more than 80c to 90c a cental for supplies and obtain a profit of even 10c a cental themselves. This is generally considered the smallest profit that buyers can figure upon without really suffering a loss from rejection and the striking of an occasionally lower market.

Idaho stock is still selling generally 5c a cental better than the Willamette valley stock on the San Francisco market because of the better quality and pack of the former.

HERE THE UBIQUITOUS BUTTERFLY COMPLETES A SASH One of the daintiest, most feminine of trims now favored is the butterfly. Of lace or ribbon it nods from the chic tailored hat; of sequins and net it completes the evening coiffure or trims the gown. In making a sash the temptation is very great to have a butterfly bow in front or back, as the new ribbons and silks with their bright Oriental hues are perfectly suited to butterflies. An afternoon frock displaying the utmost simplicity and demureness in its long, straight lines is shown in 7620. The skirt has three broad tucks near the feet, each headed with several smaller tucks. These effectively break the lines of the skirt and serve as trimming. A surplice closing makes the blouse attractive, and here the tucks are again used as a finish. Flowered silk crepon is the material, showing a bright flower on an old blue ground. The sash is of crepe de Chine. This design may be copied in size 36 with six yards of thirty-six inch material. Another design attractive in its simplicity is shown in 7711. The blouse is slightly draped, and there is an under-bow of net. Black satin trimmed with the tiny lace trilling and a butterfly sash was used in the illustration. Size 36 requires for this model four and three-fourths yards of thirty-six inch material. No. 7620—sizes 34 to 42. No. 7711—sizes 34 to 42. Each pattern 15 cents.
