PARSONS MADE CAPTAIN

IS ELECTED BY TEAMMATES TO FOOTBALL HONORS

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, Dec. 2.—Johnny Parsons of Portland was the choice of his teammates for captain of the 1914 football team at a meeting in the men's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Parsons is a junior in college, and has just finished his second year on the Oregon team. He is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Parsons was selected last year by the critics for all-northwest right half, and again this year received a unanimous vote for the position from all experts. He has been termed rightly as being 40 per cent of Oregon's offensive strength. Although a 155 pounder, he is the hardest man to down that has been turned out of the university in years.

Parsons has always been a right half. He was selected for the all-Senate eleven at right half while playing that position on the Lincoln High team of that city in 1908. In 1909 Johnny made good at right half for the Salem, Ore., high team, and in 1910 was one of Virgil Earl's Washington High school champions. He made the all-Portland team that year at right half.

A severe attack of typhoid fever prevented Parsons from trying for the Oregon team of 1911, his freshman year, but when he did put on togs at the beginning of last year he made good on his preparatory school record with a vengeance.

BORLESKE WANTS ACCEPTED LIST OF OFFICIALS

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, CORVALLIS, Or., Dec. 2.—The northwest conference needs an accepted list of officials, with a uniform fee, and written contracts. The conference also should settle upon a definite schedule, which would be followed out by these officials, thus avoiding all of this unnecessary trouble which invariably occurs before every big conference contest.

Thus Stanley Borleske, who refereed the final game here, diagnosed the greatest trouble he has found in the conference circles since he returned from the University of Michigan where he made a name for himself as captain of the 1912 squad.

BASKET BALL STARTS

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD FOR O. C. H. S. TEAM

Now that the football season is practically over, with the exception of one remaining game next Friday, Oregon City High school athletes have turned their attention to basketball. Active practice has been started, several games are in view, and although the season is only several days old, everything is in full swing and points toward a successful year for the local boys.

Three men are left from last year and three others are good prospects. J. Beattie, who was guard last year; C. Green, last year's center, and C. Beattie, guard, will probably be the stars of the winter. Other men who will probably show up well this coming season are: Farr, who was sub-guard last year; Kellogg, a former guard on the second team, and Allison, who has come from the east with a good record.

AMERICAN JOCKEY LEADS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A London dispatch says that the close of the English flat racing season finds "Danny" Maher, the American jockey, again at the head of the list of winners with a total of 115 firsts. It's a far cry from a discredited jockey, with only a few dollars and a smirched name, to the greatest rider of race horses in the world and possessor of a fortune of more than $1,000,000, but this chasm of finance and reputation has been bridged by Maher within the space of about a dozen years.

SPORTING BREVITIES

Jack Johnson has now turned wrestler. On the night of November 25, at Paris, he twice threw the German wrestler, Urbach. The colored giant must be after two championship titles.

Duffy Lewis, the Boston outfielder, is going to place himself in the hands of a trainer and take lessons in the art of springing. Duffy says he wants to star on the bases. He is wintering at Manager Bill Carrigan's farm in Maine.

Billy Orr, former Sacramento infielder and last season utility of the Athletics, is going to play winter ball in San Francisco.

"Pop" Arlett, who has had tryouts with several Coast League clubs, including the Beavers, has added a splitter to his pitching repertoire. Johnny Wuffli batter against Arlett and says he is a greatly improved twirler. "Pop" will get another trial with the Seals in the spring.

San Francisco fans are afraid that Ewing's new park will not be completed for the opening game next spring. Work is going on very slowly according to the San Francisco papers.
