SEASON OPENS APRIL 14

PORTLAND TO PROBABLY PLAY VENICE FIRST

PORTLAND, Dec. 6.—Although no announcement has been made as yet, there is every reason to believe that Portland fans will get their first glimpse of 1914 Coast baseball on Tuesday, April 14.

With the Beavers opening in Sacramento on March 31, this will give them a two weeks' stay in the south before coming home. This was the program carried out last season, when Portland opened at San Francisco on April 1, played the following week with Oakland, and then opened here on April 15, with Los Angeles as opponents.

Two years ago Portland played three weeks in the south before coming here against San Francisco, while the same program was carried out in 1911, when the Beavers spent the first three weeks of the season away from home before opening here against Los Angeles.

WASHINGTON WILL PROBABLY NOT PLAY IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 6.—From present indications the championship Washington football team, which has won the title for six consecutive years will not be seen on a local gridiron next year.

The heads of the different organizations of the Northwestern conference have partially completed their football schedule, the first one they ticked, but the attitude of Ralph Horr, graduate manager of the University of Washington, will keep the team out of Portland unless something new develops.

ENTRIES MADE

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 6.—A number of entries have already been received for the annual Christmas swim, which will be held under the auspices of the Multnomah club, as usual. The course will be the same as that covered for the last three years, the swimmers starting just below the Hawthorne street bridge on the west side, continuing for a distance of 100 yards down the river.

P. A. BASKETBALL TEAM WINS AT ESTACADA

ESTACADA, Ore., Dec. 6.—The Portland Academy basketball team of Portland, defeated the local team by the score of 28 to 20. Layton of the visiting team, scored eight field baskets, while Martin, of Estacada, made eight goals after foul and four field goals. The lineups: Portland Academy, Wagner, f.; Bobarth, f.; Layton, c.; Ekstrom, g.; Coe, g.

Estacada: Graham, f.; Lale f.; Martin, c.; Barthel, g.; Fellows, g.

OREGON BEST—NO CYCLONES OR FLOODS

Born in the big woods of Maine, reared on the prairies of Nebraska, and transferred to various parts of the country in serving my company, I have had the opportunity of suffering and enjoying the different seasons and climates of many states, but for peaceful, healthful elements, devoid of extremes and disasters, the State of Oregon, west of the Cascades, takes first place in the race for comfort and happiness.

True it rains in the winter time, but no downpour as many believe, rather a pleasant mist that moistens the skin and throat, softens the arteries and prolongs life and health. The hot nights and debilitating heat are unknown; no murderous earthquakes, no cloudbursts, no floods, no terrible cyclones and tornadoes to cause anxiety for loved ones, occur in the Willamette Valley. The soil is fertile, water power and fuel in abundance, and the wonder is that there is plenty of room here yet. Oregon offers all that can reasonably be asked for the young and ambitious, and a peaceful, quiet, healthful home for the old.

ANNA HELD AT HEILIG

The American tour of Anna Held for the season of 1913-14 is intended by John Cort, who projected and manages it, to set a new high standard of excellence for "light entertainment" as cultivated Americans have come to appreciate it.

The "Anna Held All-Star Variety Jubilee," which comes to the Heilig Sunday for three days is one of the most costly and complete productions of its size ever sent on tour in this country. Distinction of beauty, of talent, of individual stars and a sane delight, mark this attraction as the sum and crown of selected amusement. The most available talent of three continents has been enlisted in support of Miss Held, and she herself—will show to the women of this country the most extensive, costly and varied wardrobe that Paris—the city of "delectable vanity"—every contrived for the embellishment of either society belle or stage beauty.

The presence of George Beban, as principal support with Miss Held, is the best warrant of the excellence of the presentation. Mr. Beban and his little group of players in "The Sign of the Rose," stand for all that is tenderest, most beautiful and best in miniature drama.

Charles Ahearn and his ten indescribable burlesquers make up another feature of this unusual production; and the human being who cannot laugh heartily at this whirlwind satire on the "speed Mania" of today, certainly does not "belong" in this community.

The "Anna Held All-Star Variety Jubilee" is making only the principal cities of the United States and Canada, and it is already amazing and delighting the discriminating public.

PLENTY OF SUNSHINE; ROSES ARE IN BLOOM

Oregon City, Oregon
Nov. 14, 1913.

I believe few Eastern people have the remotest idea of what Oregon is like; especially in regard to climate. My conception was that there was nothing but fog and rain for eight months of the year. I supposed the rainy season set in about the 15th of September, and continued until late spring, but I have been very greatly surprised to find things very different.

I came here from Colorado, the land of sunshine, I believe it is called; and

I must say I have never spent so pleasant an autumn or early winter. We have had a few rainy days, but they are always followed by days and days of sunshine, and it certainly seems strange to see roses in bloom when I have always been accustomed to snow in late November.

As to fruits, grains and vegetables, I think the Willamette Valley takes the lead. Butter and eggs bring fabulous prices, and cows and chickens do well here, where one can raise green feed the year around for their cows.

According to Dr. Wiley, woman preceded man in creation, why didn't she seize the ballot when she had a chance?

"Thanks for the lobster" is the latest catch phrase in Paris. We're certainly glad that they have come to appreciate us at last.

A returned missionary says they have had woman suffrage in Central Africa for 500 years. Yes, and just look at 'em!

A St. Louis man has written a grand opera in which nobody is poisoned, stabbed or betrayed. That must be a eugenics opera.

With the perfect man dead at the age of twenty-nine, some of the rest of us can become resigned to our physical imperfections.

On the other hand, however, those of us who don't have to worry about the income tax are made mighty easy by the outgo tax.

And just because the tariff bill has become law don't think, Mr. Man, that you are going to get off any cheaper this coming Christmas.

One great trouble about keeping boys on the farm is that so few of the big league games, including the world's series, are played in the old pasture field.

It is charged that there are too many kissing plays on the stage. Probably the excess is all the more noticeable because there are so few kissing plays at home.

Emmy Destinn, the grand opera star, sang in a cage with fourteen lions. Probably these lions, unlike human lions, were too polite to chat through the performance.

Marconi's repeated experiences with automobile smashups may yet inspire some kind of wireless invention to show when the other car is coming around the corner.

It is said that electricity will now do forty-eight things about the house and kitchen. If the mistress will do the rest the cook will doubtless press the button except on her day off.

An ambassador enjoys great privileges. For instance, Mr. Page had the ineffable pleasure of wearing his dress suit at the wedding of British royalty, although it took place in daytime.

Scientists have discovered that pigskin is a pretty good substitute for human skin. Here and there you may run across one who seems to have been wholly equipped with the substitute.

It may help to console New Yorkers to learn that in London fourteen persons were killed in the streets by vehicles in one week and thirteen in the preceding week. And the English are slow!

The Indian race is not dying out. An Oklahoma Creek is the father of fifty-one children, of whom thirty-three are alive. If there are any white fathers who have a better record than that they have not yet been heard from.

Some of the continental countries have adopted the twenty-four hour system. Hope it does not reach this country. Think of waking up in the early morning hours and listening to a clock striking twenty times or more.
