LIQUOR MEN TO MAKE TROUBLE

BEATEN IN OREGON CITY, THEY TRY TO DEFEAT CHARTER OF WEST LINN

ARE WORKING OVERTIME AGAINST IT

Both Sides to Meet at Session of Improvement Club on Thursday Night to Discuss All of Its Phases

Liquor interests are working night and day in West Linn to defeat the city charter that is proposed at the coming election and have taken every step to line up the people against the measure at the polls, it is charged.

Evidence is in the hands of some of those who favor the measure that the interests that have been driven out of Oregon City are trying to get locations on the west side, it is said. "As the proposed charter will be submitted to the people this month, it contains a clause that prevents the presence of saloons and makes the town dry."

It also provides that the people may, by an initiative petition of 15 per cent of the voters, call for an election at which the people may vote the city wet if they choose to do so. The efforts of the saloons are said to be directed against the charter from the first, because of its prohibition clause and they are believed to be exerting every influence against it for that reason.

Thursday night, December 11, the West Side Improvement club will meet in the city hall of West Linn to talk over the charter provisions and it is expected that a lively debate will follow. The friends and enemies of the measure are to have the opportunity to be heard and the discussion will, probably be rather heated before the meeting is over.

The charter election is scheduled for December 29 in West Linn at which time the people will vote on the measure that the city council and the charter committee have submitted to them.

COMES THROUGH WITH MONEY TO MEET DEBT

Nick Hondrus, the Greek who was arrested on a complaint charging him with attempting to leave the state while bills were outstanding against him, managed to pay up the money that he owed Monday morning and was released from the county jail.

When he was searched, he had no money on his person. It is said that he wore a belt with the $2000 that he is known to have had safely tucked away in it. When the officers started the search, he slipped the belt to a companion and the officers lost track of the money. After spending Sunday in the county jail, he sent word that he would pay part of the debt but he later decided that he would pay all of it and get out. Most of the debt was for medical services.

Hondrus received $2000 for injuries that he received while at work in the Willamette paper mill and was planning to go back to Greece when he was taken.

FATHER BECK'S WILL IS FILED

INSTRUMENT APPEARS IN COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE TO BE MADE OF RECORD

DONATES ESTATE TO HIS CHURCH

Pastor is Made Administrator of Estate by Court After Resignation of Archbishop—Gives Personal Effects

By the provisions of his will, Father F. S. Beck, former chaplain of the St. Agnes Baby Home, has given the largest share of his $6500 estate to the Catholic churches and colleges of Clackamas county. Part of the amount was given to the baby home of which he had been chaplain for so many years and the rest went into other channels where it would be of benefit to the cause of the church.

McLoughlin Institute receives $1000; $1000 to Archbishop Christie, for the priest seminary in Portland; $1000 to the Archbishop for the Portland cathedral; $850 to the baby home; $500 to the convent at Mt. Angel; $250 to the institution at St. Mary's; $250 to the St. Mary's Home for boys; $250 for the St. Mary's Home for girls, at Oswego; $250 to Father Placidus Fuerst of the abbey at Mt. Angel; $1000 to the Pater Provincial of the Order of Capuchins at Lucerne, Switzerland; $500 each to his cousins, Misses Juliette and Sophie Bossard and Anna Staffelbach, of Oberstadt, Switzerland.

Archbishop Christie was appointed administrator of the estate but Monday resigned in favor of Father A. Hillebrand, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, who was appointed by the county court in his stead.

A great deal of his personal effects were given to the Sisters of Mercy at the baby home and to other organizations. In this list is an excellent library.

Now that paper is being made from cornstalks, let some genius proceed to convert yesterday's newspapers into cattle food.

PLAN TAG DAY FOR LIBRARY

CHILDREN OF SCHOOLS GET INTO MOVEMENT TO GATHER MANY VOLUMES

FOUR TOWNS ARE TO PARTICIPATE

Sixteen Hundred Children Take Full Advantage of Opportunities and Scheme to Collect for Institution

The children of Oregon City, Gladstone, Willamette and West Linn are arranging for a book tag day, the proceeds to be used by the Oregon City Library for the purchase of children's books. This tag day will be held on or about January 1st, 1914, and the children will have almost the entire management of the work. Tags will be printed in the shape of a book, appropriately labeled for the occasion, and sold for ten cents each. Everybody is surely willing to help to the tune of so small amount, but with everybody working through the children for their own good, results are sure to come. The Oregon City Library is now a County Library without County aid. Everyone in Clackamas County has the right to acquire a card and secure books. The children of Oregon City and their cousins in the neighboring cities all know of this right and 1600 of them are now drawing books.

The Live Wires will have a crab dinner at noon Tuesday in the rooms of the Commercial club when the members meet to discuss matters of current interest that have happened during the week or suggestions that may be made for municipal improvement.

Several questions are scheduled to come before the meeting at the conference Tuesday noon. Committee reports will probably be made and the question of improving the Pacific Highway will again be discussed. As the club took the first stand in the matter, it will have to outline further plans for the campaign that it expects to conduct.

DOWNEY SUES TO STOP COUNCIL

ASKS COURT TO RESTRAIN IT FROM MAKING LEVY AND COLLECTING MONEY

CLAIM CHARTER OF CITY ILLEGAL

Issues Submitted to People by a Resolution Instead of an Ordinance as Is Required by Law

James Downey, the owner of the waterworks in the town of Willamette and the principal taxpayer of that town has brought suit for himself and all others similarly situated, through his attorneys Dimick & Dimick and Clarence L. Eaton, against J. E. Jack, as assessor of Clackamas county.

The complaint alleges that a proposed charter for Willamette was filed with the recorder on September 15, 1913, and that the council of Willamette failed, neglected and refused to order its submission to the people by ordinance and failed to require that notice and other legal requirements should be given by ordinance as is required by the statutes of Oregon governing Willamette.

It says the council attempted to act by resolution and that the charter is void and was not legally adopted. The proposed charter contained a provision authorizing the council to levy a five mill tax and if the people desired another five mill, making in all ten mills.

The levy for 1913, however, was to be three mills and the charter provided that no ordinance need be passed making the levy, the charter purporting to authorize it. It is alleged that the charter is void and that the tax is illegal.

A restraining order is prayed for from the court enjoining the entry and extension of the alleged illegal assessment of three mills upon the rolls. For the last three or four years when ever the Willamette council has attempted to levy a tax, suit has been brought by some citizen of Willamette against its collection and so far the plaintiffs have prevailed, owing to failure to strictly follow the provisions of the law. The defense will probably be conducted by Gilbert L. Hedges, county attorney, who is by law made the legal representative of the county officials or by Livy Stipp, city attorney for Willamette.

Doctor Grabs Case Of Transfers For Boxes Of Pills

"Come quick," was the appeal from the phone from Gladstone this morning to Dr. W. C. Schultz. The doctor to grab his hat, and a Portland-bound car which happened to be passing. The car was crowded and the doctor, unable to find a seat, sat his grip down on the platform and stood up during the journey.

At last Gladstone he was in sight and the physician, his mind on the patient, picked up the grip, got off the car, and hurried away in the direction of the sick man's house.

After a walk through the mud and a hurried rap on the door, the doctor was admitted to the bedside of the patient. The man of medicine decided the ailments of the sick and reached for his pill box, for the liquid which would relieve the patient. He opened the grip and there before him was—not the array of little bottles and boxes—but two or three bunches of transfers, some car tickets, a pair of well supplied conductor.

It took over two hours for the doctor to regain his lost possession.

JURY RELEASES ROAD OF RESPONSIBILITY

CANBY, Ore., Dec. 8.—(Special to the Enterprise)—An inquest was held Saturday morning by Coroner S. Wilson over the body of Peter Selford who was killed by Southern Pacific train number 15, Sunday morning about 2:30 o'clock near this city. The verdict released the railroad company from all blame.

The body was taken to Portland and turned over to the brother of the dead man, Olf Selford, and the funeral will be held Tuesday in that city.

Selford was walking down the track with his partner, Bert Ellison toward Slider's wood camp where they worked. Ellison had left the track and was walking on the county road and Selford on the right-of-way. It is probable that the headlight on the locomotive dazed Selford so that he was unable to get off the track in time.

The "big stick" the average man fears is his wife.

EMPLOYER IS LOST

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 8.—Some within the confines of the Arctic is drifting Vilhjalmur Stefansson's staunch little vessel, the Karluq, is frozen in an ice-pack. But the leader of the expedition is not a vessel and is unaware of its whereabouts, according to a dispatch received today from the explorer by George J. Desparats, deputy minister of marine affairs and acting minister of navigation and fisheries.

Stefansson's message says that, believing the Karluq safe in the ice in longitude west 147, 15 miles off shore he took a party ashore with him to hunt. The next day heavy gales sprang up and then a fog. When the weather cleared the Karluq was not sight and had undoubtedly been carried away by the wind which drove the ice-pack off shore.

CROWD HEARS ELKS MEMORIAL

FOUR HUNDRED PERSONS LISTEN TO SPEAKERS AS THEY TALK OF LODGE

JUDGE CHARLES GALLOWAY SPOKES

Holds Audience Interested at the Activities of the Order, Its Aims and Purposes—Eulogy Delivered

Over four hundred persons filled the Elks temple in this city Sunday afternoon to listen to the impressive services held in honor of the members of the lodge who have died. The memorial address was delivered by Charles V. Galloway, a member of the Salem lodge.

The services were opened by Henry O'Malley, exalted ruler of the Oregon City lodge and by a hymn, sung by the members. The invocation was by Rev. C. W. Robinson and was followed by the song, "Not Dead, but Sleeping," which was sung by the Oregon Male quartet.

In his address, Mr. Galloway held his audience spellbound for nearly an hour. He took up the benefits of the order, he told of the history of the lodge, and at last spoke of the spirit of brotherhood that was left between the members.

Rev. C. W. Robinson delivered the eulogy and benediction and the meeting was closed by a song by the audience.
