HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take glasses of Sals.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Sals from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine.

INTEREST FARMERS IN BETTER HIGHWAYS

(Western Stock Journal) The office of public roads of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., is making a strong effort to focus the mind of the country on the fact that maintenance and effective repair are of equal importance with the actual improvement of bad roads.

Europe, generally speaking, is ahead of the United States in the matter of road improvement, but Great Britain is struggling with a problem similar to the one that confronts the people of the United States. In England, Scotland and Wales there are no fewer than 2,140 separate authorities who between them administer 175,487 miles of roads or an average of only 82 miles apiece.

Officials of the office of public roads when called upon for assistance by the various states are pointing out that road building is an art based on a science and that trained men and experienced men are necessary to secure the best results from the expenditure of road funds.

Statisticians have found that all of the average expenditure on the improvement of roads exceeds $1,000,000 a day. A large portion of this money in the United States is wasted because of the failure to build the right type of road to meet the local requirements or the failure to provide for the continued maintenance of the improvement.

The various states and counties within the past six months have taken a greater interest in road improvement than ever before in the history of the United States, and there is now a strong movement to conserve the roads of the country where they are improved. Scientific maintenance will be one of the chief features of the work of the office of public roads throughout the present year.
