LESSONS FROM THE GRANGE.

Delegates representing the Grange organizations of the state have come and gone. The convention here was well attended and in every particular successful. A delegation of more capable men very seldom assemble together. These representatives of the great agricultural organization will carry to the different sections of the State a fund of knowledge and useful information such as can only be obtained from the mingling of many minds. There are short cuts and labor saving methods to be adopted by the farmer, the same as by the merchant or the manufacturer. What one man has failed to learn in practical farming, his fellow craftsman may instruct him.

Experience is necessary to success in any vocation, but the experience that is had at a substantial loss—that is secured by misfortune and calamity may often be avoided by good counsel.

The representatives assembled here were evidently broad minded men and women who will not underrate the importance of their mission, and who will carry home to their neighbors valuable ideas of husbandry and thoughtful suggestions on getting along on the farm.

We hope they will carry home also for their own enjoyment, pleasant recollections of Oregon City and Oregon City's people.

PUBLIC SPIRIT NEEDED.

This is the first business day of the first summer month. When you greet your merchant friend with your customary "how's business" salutation, he probably answers "fair." But it isn't, as nearly as we can observe, just what it should be. Don't forget that Oregon City's business prosperity is Clackamas county's good—that yours and your town's prosperity walk hand in hand.

Did our eyes deceive us or was it really an Oregon City merchant whom we saw making purchases of some small articles, not carried in his store of a Portland firm. He could have bought the goods at about the same price and but a few doors from his place of business in Oregon City. This man should be given a lesson in reciprocity.

We need here a little public spirit. It is not a matter of pride to come lugging from Portland every week an armload of bundles and boxes.

Every one should support his own town to the full extent of his ability. Its prosperity should be his pride.

Oregon City business men may, with good reason, object to your running large bills with them, the while you take your ready cash to our big neighbor town to hunt for bargains.

Suppose we cease paying tribute to strange merchants and do business with our neighbors awhile.

Barbers and Clerks Win.

The barbers and clerks won from the teamsters at baseball yesterday afternoon by a score of 8 to 7. The game was close and exciting. The score was tied in the eighth inning and in the last half of the ninth "Red" Williams got a single and Van Hyse brought him in. The line up follows:

Teamsters	Barbers and Clerks
R. Lee	P. Stokes
O. Boylan	C. Frost
W. Wilson	ss "Red" Williams
Bert Greenman	1b W. E. Marshall
M. Hamilton	2b E. E. Taylor
Nickles	3b Van Hyse
Cox	4b Hornshuh
Miles	5b Turnidge
Burris	cf Haniford

William Pike, of Peters' Mountain, who was charged with indecent exposure, was bound over by Justice Stepp in the sum of $200, in default of which he was committed to the county jail.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Neva Griswold, of Salem, is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Rita Rakestraw, of Portland, visited Oregon City friends yesterday. Attorney Franklin T. Griffith made a business trip to Vancouver Friday, and club tail bait, as by the use of the fly too many little trout are hooked.

Sheriff J. R. Shaver left Saturday for Molalla, to remain until after election.

The friends of St. Paul's church are invited to a tea next Thursday afternoon at Rose Farm.

Mrs. J. W. Norris, who has been visiting in Seattle for the past ten days, is expected home today.

Miss Elma Albright has returned home after a two week's visit with relatives in Portland.

Miss Ethel Graves and Miss Jessie Bibee left Saturday for McMinnville for a few days visit with friends.

Miss Greata Strickler returned to her home in Portland yesterday, after a two day's visit with friends in this city.

Resident Director Norman R. Lang returned Saturday, with his family, from a sojourn of several months in California.

The receipts of the office of County Recorder Henry E. Stevens for the month of May were $279.40. For the same month in 1902 they were $230.

William Bissell returned this morning from Canby, where he has been on a fishing trip. He caught six large trout. Mr. Bissell says that fishing is fair in the water of the Molalla River near Canby. He uses salmon eggs.

Wilfred White returned yesterday from San Francisco, where he has been attending Mark Hopkins' Academy of Art during the past winter. He will leave about June 15 with H. A. Rands for a surveying trip in Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bolehin arrived this morning from Minneapolis and will locate in this city. Mrs. Bolehin is a sister of Dr. T. E. Beard and to William Board, of Maple Lane. Mr. Bolehin was in the grocery business in Minneapolis.

Receiver George W. Bibee and family left Friday for Sheridan, Yamhill County, and attended memorial services there Saturday. Hon. Charles V. Galloway delivered the Memorial address. Mr. Bibee will remain at Sheridan to vote and they will return to this city tomorrow.

Some Sound Arguments.

It is a fine art to produce a piano that possesses all the desirable qualities and none of the poor ones. It involves the assembling of the right woods, metals, felts and leathers, and the proper seasoning, shaping and proper proportioning of them the exact regulation of the thickness of the sounding board to give it the proper resonance, the right tempering and winding of the steel strings to give them the finest tone, the nicest adjustment of the action, and we might truthfully say, millions of other matters of minute detail.

Now, if the sound of a piano possesses all the desirable qualities, it follows of course that it has been properly constructed. Such a piano is a gem. It will be as much satisfaction 20 years hence as it is now. Come in and let us explain to you the construction of our instruments and their sound qualities. Ours are the very finest made, and include such perfectly constructed pianos as the Weber of New York, the Chickering of Boston and the Kimball of Chicago. Pianos whose sound qualities are not equaled the world over.

Our business footing, too, is on a sound basis. We sell at small margin of profit and on the smallest payments and easiest terms of any piano store on the Coast.

You will find it greatly to your advantage to make your piano purchase here. Eilers Piano House.

The largest, lowest price piano concern on the coast. Large stores, Washington street, corner Park, Portland, Ore. No. 653 Market street, San Francisco, Cal. No. 605 Sprague Avenue, Spokane, Wash. 9th and J. streets, Sacramento, Cal.

Schiller's Toss Saturday's Game.

Oregon City won the interstate league game from Schiller's Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 5. Manager Shark goes to Portland tomorrow night to attend a meeting of the managers with the object of revising the schedule of the season's games. The present schedule takes Oregon City away from home two Sundays in succession and this is not satisfactory to the team.

The use of water for Lawn, Garden and street sprinkling, for the season of 1903 will be governed by the rules in force last season. Consumers are required to pay EXTRA CHARGE for such use, during the first ten days in June. By order of the BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. Hedges Takes a Trip.

It is even stated that he will not return alone but this rumor cannot be verified.

THE COLORADO APACHE.

As an Accurate Man Tracker He Has No Equal.

As a trailer the Colorado Apache has no equal. He possesses the acute instinct of the hound combined with an accurate sense of vision. A turned leaf, a flock of gravel cast aside, the displacement of a pebble from its bed—all are clear, readable pages.

They ask few if any particulars of the man they are to follow. They will, as they progress on his track, gather up for themselves one by one little items as to his personality, which are nearly always verified in the end.

When following a trail over the iron capped rocks and stony arroyos of Arizona, his face is a picture of intense concentration. Not a syllable escapes him. His pace varies from no visible cause. At times he almost runs; then, with a rapid glance behind, he glides along slowly and with eyes glued to the ground possibly for hours. Here and there may be a few stretches of sand, but dry sand leaves after the footstep only an indentation, closing after the pressure, so that to the inexperienced eye it might have been a horse or a mule that made it and not a man.—"Man Trailing With Human Bloodhounds" in Outing.

Trick Candies.

"The trick cigar has its counterpart in confectionery," said a candy manufacturer the other day. "The callow youth who delights in giving explosive cigars to his men friends demands something similar for the candy consuming sex, and we have to meet the demand."

"The possibilities of a cream chocolate or a piece of nougat are limited, but we have a few contrivances. We make of a very hard candy an imitation of a tooth with a gold crown and hide it in a cream chocolate. You can imagine the rest—a party of women munching candy, one of them discovering something hard and finding a gold crowned tooth loose in her mouth!"

"Similarly we imitate a bone collar button in a hard white candy, hide a candy shoe button in a piece of nougat, put a bit of cork in a caramel or fill a candied cherry with red pepper. So long as the salty experts don't weed out these alleged jokers the candy man has to put up these trick candies for them."—New York Times.

Honey.

According to a writer in Health, honey is a valuable medicine and has many uses. It is excellent in most lung and throat affections and is often used with great benefit in place of cod liver oil. Occasionally there is a person with whom it does not agree, but most people can learn to use it with beneficial results. Children who have natural appetites generally prefer it to butter. Honey is a laxative and sedative, and in diseases of the bladder and kidneys it is an excellent remedy.

It has much the same effect as wine or stimulants, without their injurious effects, and is unequalled in meat and harvest drinks. As an external application it is irritating when clear, but soothing when diluted. In many places it is much appreciated as a remedy for croup and colds. In preserving fruit the formic acid it contains makes a better preservative than sugar sirup, and it is also used in cooking and confections. Honey does not injure the teeth as candies do.

Ancient Rules For Carving.

Our ancestors fully recognized the value of good carving, and many were the rules by which a carver was expected to be governed. The ancient "Book of Kervynuz," among other things, admonishes him to touch venison only with his knife and to "set never on fych, fleesh, beeste ner fowle more than two fingers and a thumb." Fingers he was naturally obliged to use since forks were a luxury of later date and were not in vogue until James I.'s reign. Here Gervase, the favorite of Edward III., has three silver forks for eating venison, but this was regarded, no doubt, as a great and special luxury.

Cuckoo Customs in England. There are or were not long ago in different parts of England remnants of old customs marking the position which the cuckoo held in the middle ages. In Shropshire till very recently, when the first cuckoo was heard, the laborers were in the habit of leaving their work, making holiday of the rest of the day and carousing in what they called cuckoo ale. Among the peasantry in some parts of the kingdom it was considered to be very unlucky to have no money in your pocket when you heard the cuckoo's note for the first time in the season.

Cholly's Good One.

"Oh, Miss Perkins, I have a conundrum for you. What is the difference between a jilted fellow who pretends he doesn't care and a dish of Dutch cabbage?"

Miss Perkins—Well, go on. What's the answer?

Cholly—One's souah gwapes and the other's sauaukwant. Ha, haw! Isn't that doosid clevah?—New York Press.

Not Sure of Him.

"Why are you so sure that he loves you?"

"Because he stays away from me in hopes he can overcome the fascination of my presence. And there is but one thing that bothers me—I fear he will succeed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Neat Bull.

An Irishman, prosecuting another man for assault, was asked to explain the accused's black eyes.

"Ah," he replied readily, "before he had time to hit me I hit him back."

It runs in the family—a woman's tongue.—Philadelphia Bulletin.
