Cut Both Ways.
"I want my hair cut and no talk," said a great man with an I own the earth air, as he walked into a barber's shop and sat down.

"The"—commenced the man in the apron.

"No talk, I tell you!" shouted the heavy man. "Just a plain hair cut. I've read all the papers and don't want any news. Start away now!"

The man in the apron obeyed.

When he had finished, the man who knew everything rose from his chair and surveyed himself in the glass.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "It's really true, then? You barbers can't do your work properly unless you talk!"

"I don't know," said the man in the apron quietly. "You n-est ask the barber. He'll be in presently. I'm the glazier from next door."

WEED WAS UNDER AGE.
Justice Court Decides That He Is Not Compelled to Pay Road Poll Tax.

Upon information filed by John Green superintendent of streets and collector of road poll tax for this city T. D. Weed was tried Monday in the Justice Court charged with refusing and neglecting to pay his poll tax. The defense set up that Weed was under 21 years of age and was not liable for road poll tax. City Attorney George L. Story prosecuted the case and Weed was defended by Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges. Green attached the wages of Weed, who clerks in A. Robertson's grocery store on Seventh street.

A little over one year ago a marriage license was issued to Weed upon the affidavit of Judge William Galloway that Weed was over 20 years of age and this affidavit was introduced by the prosecutor to prove that Weed was now over 21. Judge Galloway was called as a witness and explained that the intention of the affidavit was that Weed was in his twentieth year. Justice Stipp ruled that the affidavit was ex parte evidence and as such was not admissible in court. Failing to prove that Weed was past 21 years of age, the court discharged the defendant and dismissed the case.

Treasurer's Notice.
I now have money to pay county warrants endorsed prior to January 1, 1901. Also road warrants endorsed prior to May 1, 1903. Interest will cease on such warrants on the date of this notice.

ing old friends and relatives.
Mrs. C. Walter and children have returned to their home at Glencoe, after spending a fortnight with her mother, Mrs. Weisenborn.

The Revs. Kratt and Elehler, of Portland, visited quite recently with Rev. C. Waehle.

Mr. G. Raetter, our former merchant, came out from the city this evening on business.

Mrs. Anna Freeman, after a month's sojourn with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Waehle, has returned to her home at Springfield, Ore.

Miss Della Schroeder, who has been quite seriously ill in Portland, has almost recovered and returned home.

Viola News Notes.
VIOLA, July 27.—(Special.)—Another pioneer has passed away. Seth Austen was born in Ohio, June 10, 1833, came to Oregon in 1852, died in Viola at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elmora Mattoon, on the 26th day of July, 1903, aged 70 years, 1 month and 6 days.

His wife died 14 years ago, while living at his farm on the Mollalla. Their five children, Willard, Bert, Harry, Nellie, and Elmora are all still living. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. W. Exon at Viola cemetery, July 27. A large number of friends attended the burial services.

Mr. Ansten was well known throughout Clackamas County, being an old pioneer, having first settled in the Molalla section, but of recent years has been living on a claim far into the Cascade range on the Clackamas river, which was becoming noted for its hot springs and which some day in the near future will be come a great medical resort.

Mrs. Capt. Adams, of Portland, with her three children, are tented near the home of Mrs. Sevier.

Mrs. Newton Walker is visiting friends in Portland.

W. C. Ward, the forest ranger, came home this week for supplies.

J. W. Exon and William Brown were peddling beef last week. Mr. Brown is thinking of starting a new meat market wagon, which will make regular trips weekly during the harvest.

Ed Miller lost a valuable heifer last week.

Eye Exercise.
An exercise which, if perseveringly practiced, will greatly strengthen the eyes and which has entirely restored many cases of impaired vision, so that spectacles and eyeglasses were discarded. Is to turn the eyes upward and downward alternately, as far as possible, twenty times, says a writer in the New York Herald. Don't pause in the upward glance. The motion is incessant, but not hastened. Next turn the eyes to the right and to the left, repeating as before. Turn them to the upper left corner and the obverse, or diagonally—that is, to lower right corner. Repeat. Turn them to the upper right corner and its obverse. Repeat. Conclude the exercise with rolling the eyes around, first to the right, then to the left, in the extreme limit of the muscular extension, being careful, however, not to strain the muscles.

If the exercise is repeated at convenient several times during the day, it will soon strengthen the muscles.

BRUTAL COLT TRAINING.

New Farmer Perkins Used Strategy and a Bull Whip.
There is a right way and a wrong way of breaking a colt to halter. The latter method is described by Sewell Ford in "Horses Nine." Blue Blazes, the colt in the story, was owned by a Michigan farmer. He had been frightened by the first attempt to bridle him and had broken away. He was promptly declared to be a vicious colt.

"We'll tame him!" said Farmer Perkins. Under his coat he hid a stout halter and a heavy bull whip. Then, holding a grain measure temptingly before him, he climbed the pasture fence.

In the measure were oats, which he rattled seductively. Also he called mildly and persuasively. Blue Blazes was suspicious. Four times he allowed the farmer to come almost within reaching distance, only to turn and bolt with a snort of alarm just at the crucial moment. At last he concluded that he must have just one taste of those oats.

"Come, coltie! Nice coltie!" cooed the man in a strained but conciliating voice.

Blue Blazes planted himself for a sudden whirl, stretched his neck as far as possible and worked his upper lip inquiringly. The smell of the oats lured him on. Hardly had he touched his nose to the grain before the measure was dropped, and he found himself roughly grabbed by the forelock. In a moment he saw the hated straps and ropes. Before he could break away the halter was around his neck and buckled firmly.

Farmer Perkins changed his tone. "Now, you ugly little brute, I've got you! [Jerk.] Blast your wicked hide! [Slash.] You will, will you? [Yank.] I'll larn you!" [Slash.]

Man and colt were almost exhausted when the "lesson" was finished. It left Blue Blazes ridged with welts, trembling, fright sickened. Never again would he trust himself within reach of those men; no, not if they offered him a whole bushel of oats.

How to Sell Goods.
"You must know how to talk with a customer so that she will buy," is one of the things the buyer says over and over again in his lectures down in the basement. Even when the girl is behind the counter at work the buyer will often step up and give her a hint. For instance, he will give a new name to an old piece of goods. There is everything in a name. He came up to me one day and said, "Call that line of goods the Marlborough," and it was not long before I had sold the entire stock. The sweller a name is the better, of course. Cumberland pins will sell much better than plain pins even if they are the same thing. French names are much in vogue, too, and they are sometimes coined. Names taken from swell sports are also very good sellers. Another thing, of course, which helps a girl sell the goods is genuine knowledge of them."—Leslie's Monthly.

Animals' Elk Appetite.
Perhaps the most astonishing statistics in Mr. Conghian's book, "Seven Colonies of Australasia," are those that describe what the average Australian eats and drinks. Apparently he has the best appetite, if not the best digestion, of any human being on the planet. He eats every year 264 pounds of meat, which works out an average of two sheep and one-fifth of a bullock for every man, woman and baby in Australasia. He eats more than twice as much meat as the average Englishman, three times as much as the average Frenchman and four times as much as the average German or Swiss. He eats, in addition, about 375 pounds of wheat, 225 pounds of potatoes and almost 100 pounds of sugar. If he is a Tasmanian, he eats a quarter of a ton of potatoes in a year, a quite surprising feat.

A Rare Old Book.
The second book printed in the English language was "The Game and Playe of the Chess," which the title page says was "Fynshid the last day of Marche, the yer of our lord god a thousande foure hundred and LXXIIII." Only twelve copies of the work are now known to exist. In 1813 an Englishman of the name of Alchorne sold his copy for a sum equal to $270 in United States currency. Fifty-six years later, in 1869, the same volume (an imperfect copy) was sold for $2,150. The British museum has refused an offer of $10,000 for its copy, which is imperfect to the extent of having seven leaves missing.

Not the Same.
"It's a merciful dispensation of Providence that makes consumptives always hopeful. It's just heaven's mercy that keeps them from realizing how bad they are."
"Huh! And what is it that keeps some singers from realizing how bad they are? Would you call that heaven's mercy?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Compliments.
Miss Koy—In discussing the "galaxy of beauty" at the ball the other night Mr. Grafton paid me quite a compliment.
Miss Speltz—The idea! That's so unlike him. I never before heard of his paying anything before it's due.—Philadelphia Press.

Agreed.
"My wife and I agree perfectly about some things," remarked Mr. Meekton, with a gentle smile.
"Indeed?"
"Yes; when anything goes wrong I take it for granted that it is my fault and Henrietta always thinks so too."

One might as well attempt to rearrange the rainbow colors of a soap bubble as to undertake the reformation of one's neighbors.—Chicago News.
