HENRY AMBLER, PHILOMATH OREGON

BOX 59. King's Valley.

The wind storm last week blew down considerable fence and a few trees. The rain was needed to put the plow land in good condition for plowing. Early sown grain is looking well, and it is seldom that pasture is as good at this time of the year. Castle, of Dallas, and McDowell, of Salem, each took a band of beef cattle from the valley last week. The price paid was three and a quarter. Spaulding's teams have been engaged for some time hauling in material for their camp, up the Luckiamute. A representative of the order is in the valley, working in the interest of the Artisans. A general good time was enjoyed by the fraternity, Wednesday evening. The young men who became boisterous at church Sunday evening, had better take warning. That old repeated threat of arrest is liable to be carried out, if the annoyance is repeated. An accident that must have proven fatal but for the timely assistance rendered, befell Mrs. Chenoweth last week. She was engaged in boiling cider. A large kettle was suspended above a fire, in the door yard. In some manner, as Mrs. Chenoweth moved about, her dress caught the flame and in a few moments was almost entirely consumed. One hand of the victim was badly burned. But for the prompt assistance of Florence Chenoweth in extinguishing the flames, the consequence must have been far more serious, if not fatal. Uno.

Continued from page 1 any letters. He did not seem to at all realize the enormity of the crime he had committed, and made no inquiries as to the condition of his victim. After striking the girl Vaughn immediately left the school house and went to his home, where he told his mother that there was trouble over at the school house. He then started across the fields towards the river. A few moments later his father, Eli Vaughn, came to the house, and being told what the boy had said, started after him, but the latter disappeared among the willows and his father did not succeed in overtaking him. Then he seems to have wandered about all day. Late in the afternoon he was discovered by Frank Libby crossing a field on Libby's farm about two miles northeast of Jefferson, and going in the direction of the town. Libby started toward him and when within hailing distance called to him. Vaughn stopped at once and walked to meet Libby, who told him that he would have to go to Jefferson with him. Vaughn made no objections, but accompanied Libby to the house, where a horse was hitched up and drove into Jefferson, where he was turned over to Constable Blackwell. The examination of Vaughn was held before Justice S. T. Johnson, District Attorney Hart was present, and the prisoner waived his right to a preliminary examination and was bound over to the grand jury. The people of Jefferson, while horror-stricken at the crime of young Vaughn, conducted themselves with conservatism. A few hot heads may have thought of violence, but the people generally had no intention of interfering with the course of the law. The young man's parents were greatly shocked at the son's crime, and his father displayed a disposition to help the officers in their search in any way he could. Jefferson people say that young Vaughn was of a rather peculiar disposition. He was a close student and faithfully performed his duties as janitor at the school building. But he made no friends and had no confidantes or companions. He never associated with any one. As soon as he had performed his duties he would go home, and never lingered to meet other young people. On the morning of his crime he wrote a letter to the girl. The letter was railing and unintelligible, having no meaning whatever of any kind. Salem, Oct. 24.—Clyde Vaughn, the young man who yesterday attempted to murder 13-year-old Lulu Jones at Jefferson, was this afternoon brought to Salem and lodged in the Marion county jail. He had been hysterical most of the afternoon, sobbing and moaning continually. He was quiet when first brought here, and presented no unusual appearance. Sheriff Barbis and Dr. Byrd visited the prisoner this evening to examine into his condition. To them he told the story of his crime without hesitation, he said that, acting under an uncontrollable impulse, he called the girl from the school room, choked her, dragged her to the basement and there struck her on the head with an axe. He claimed that he is subject to insane spells. Dr. Byrd will not at this time express an opinion as to the boy's sanity, but says that if he is feigning, he is doing a good job of it. Holland, Mich., Oct. 19.—In this city tonight Webster Davis closed his Michigan tour in the interest of Bryan. Thousands of Hollanders greeted him cordially. The opera house proved much too small to hold the crowd that tried to gain admittance and Mr. Davis was compelled to address an overflow meeting. Mr. Davis appealed to the Hollanders to rebuke the national administration for its pronounced sympathy for the British government in its war against their kinsman, the Boers of South Africa. The Hollanders crowded to shake Mr. Davis' hand after the meeting. Mr. Davis started for his home in Kansas City, Mo., tonight in order to make speeches in Missouri. Trenton, N. J., Oct. 28.—The Trenton True American will tomorrow quote ex-President Cleveland as saying: "I am not aware of having made any statement justifying the assertion that I am going to support McKinley. Mr. Cleveland declined to make any statement regarding his position, and the words quoted were in response to a suggestion from the reporter that a recent letter of his reiterating his financial views of 1905 was being construed as meaning he intended to support Mr. McKinley in the present campaign.

BOOMING CANNON TO BE HEARD TONIGHT FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN. Bryan, Cockran and Hill on the Same Platform—Signal Fires to Stretch From New York to San Francisco. New York, Oct. 24.—William Jennings Bryan, David B. Hill and W. Burke Cockran will speak from the same platform in Madison Square Garden on the night of October 27. Mr. Bryan returns to this city on that date from his tour of the state. The presence of the three foremost orators in the democratic ranks on the same platform will be one of the remarkable features of a series of mass-meetings which promise to eclipse in every way the reception given Mr. Bryan Tuesday night by Tammany Hall. It will be the first time that the leaders of the different divisions of the democracy have come together. Mr. Hill as leader of the old line democracy and Mr. Cockran representing the gold democrats have not spoken in Manhattan during the campaign. The meeting in Madison Square Garden will be one of six that will be held in the city that night under the auspices of the National Association of Democratic Clubs. These meetings will be national in character and will be participated in by democratic clubs from many states. Special trains will bring the members of the clubs to this city. In all of the large cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific mass-meetings under the direction of the National Association will be held simultaneously with those in New York. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 clubs in the association and about 2,000,000 members. Every little town in the country has at least one of these clubs, and every one of them will have a meeting and a pyrotechnical display that night. At the hour the meetings begin, 8 P. M., a cannon salute will be fired in cities on a line east and west between New York and San Francisco, and the boom of the detonations will be heard all the way across the continent. At the same instant illuminations will be made high in the heavens at intervals close enough to make a line of fire 3,000 miles long from ocean to ocean. Besides the meeting in Madison Square Garden there will be two meetings in Madison Square Park, one of the stands being at the Worth monument and the other on the east side of the park at Twenty-fourth street. In Cooper Union there will be a fourth meeting under the direction of the German branch of the Association of democratic clubs. This meeting will be addressed by several of the leading German Americans of the country. Outside of Cooper Union there will be an overflow meeting, which will also be addressed by German orators. In the Broadway Athletic Club there will be a meeting for Italian democrats. The interior of the club will be arranged to furnish seats for a crowd of 4,000. Only Italians will be admitted at this meeting. Mr. Bryan will not only address the Madison Square Garden meeting but he also will speak to the Germans in Cooper Union and to the Italians in the Broadway Athletic Club. A feature of the mass meetings will be electrical and pyrotechnical displays. The exhibition of fire works in Madison Square and from the tower and roof of the Garden will be on a scale which has never before been attempted in this country. The electoral display in and out of the Garden will also be made on an extraordinary scale. The two stands in the park will be illuminated by 3,500 varied-colored incandescents, and the whole square will be made brilliant by labyrinthian festoons of electric lights. As a preliminary to the events of October 27, which are intended to make the close of the national cam-prison in this state the most memorable in the history of the country, the tower of Madison Square Garden was illuminated from top to bottom last night. The illumination will be continued every night until October 27, with the exception of the night of the 26th, when the great Roosevelt demonstration is to take place. There will be many speakers of prominence aside from Bryan, Hill and Cockran. One of them will be United States Senator George L. Welton, of Maryland, a republican, who is supporting Bryan. He will make his first appearance in New York on that night in this campaign. Webster Davis will be one of the English speaking orators at the Cooper Union meeting. For Malaria, Chills and Fever THE BEST PRESCRIPTION IS Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle—hence you know just what you are taking when you take Grove's. Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called Tasteless Chill Tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.
