PIONEERS HAVE DRY TIME.

Drought Affects Rivers of Lake Region Long Before White Settlers Come.

"It is well known," said William C. Thompson, relates the Indianapolis News, "that in its early settlement Indiana was subjected to extremes of heat and cold, though possibly not to the same extent as now, and that droughts of considerable severity sometimes occurred, though not with the frequency of recent years. There is an authentic reference to a drought of great severity which affected part of the region surrounding the great lakes and a part of the Ohio valley long before the advent of the white settler. It occurred in the summer and autumn of 1764, just after the close of the French and Indian war, and while the war with the Indian tribes, under the leadership of Chief Pontiac, was in progress. The drought affected especially the Maumee and Sandusky rivers flowing into Lake Erie, and the headwaters of the Scioto, Great Miami and Wabash.

"Francis Parkman, the historian, relates that when a messenger was sent by the British commander at Detroit, then recently wrested from the French, to communicate with Pontiac, encamped on the Maumee a short distance below where Fort Wayne is now situated, the waters of the Maumee river were so low by reason of extreme drought that the British messenger and his attendants were compelled to drag their canoes over rocks and sandbars a good part of the distance from the mouth of the Maumee, near the present site of Toledo, to the headwaters of the stream near Fort Wayne. He also states that the same autumn a detachment of British soldiers could not ascend the Sandusky river in canoes by reason of great drought and low water when they contemplated subduing the hostile Shawnees in the Scioto valley. Here is a record of widespread drought, while the forest and prairie were yet primeval and before the coming of the white settler with those modern droughtmakers, the ax and the drain tile."

The destructive power of the machine gun as compared to the small arm even in large numbers has been the subject of interesting trials abroad, reports of which have reached the navy department here, says the Baltimore Sun.

That one machine gun properly and effectively worked is equal to 200 rifles in the hands of as many soldiers has been amply demonstrated. Each shot from the machine gun works greater injury also to the body struck than the small bullet of the army rifle, and its range is far greater.

In recent trials 50 marksmen were chosen to compete with the Hotchkiss eight-millimeter gun, which has lately been widely adopted in France and Germany. The ranges fired were from 400 to 800 yards. At 800 yards the 50 riflemen, each having five rounds independently, obtained 54 hits, or 22.6 per cent. of the number of rounds fired. Thirty-two men were then chosen from among the 50, and these had to fire each eight rounds in 30 seconds. Under these conditions 34, or 13.3 per cent. of the rounds expended, were recorded.

The machine gun was then brought into action, and in 28 seconds fired 211 bullets, making 145 hits. It was shown from the results that the machine gun was far ahead in hits made and rapidity of fire. No such practical tests of the relative merits of the machine gun and a number of small arms have been made before.

PANTALOONS WITH LINING.

They Used to Be Worn But Are Never Heard Of in These Days.

An old clothing merchant in Chicago, whose sons have been his successors for many years, was in the store the other day for the first time in seven years, reports the Tribune.

"I suppose you have no pantaloons with lining," he said to his eldest boy, who replied that he had never heard of such a thing.

"We used to keep them in stock," continued the father. "As a rule I think most pantaloons with lining were home-made. Your mother made the first I ever saw, and I wore 'em. I think the lining was of some sort of cambric. But there were a few of my old customers who bought ready-made clothes of me, many years ago, and they insisted that their pantaloons should be lined. They had an idea that lining made the fit better. But the tailors I employed hated the work, and always charged more for putting in the lining.

"One of my customers, who wouldn't live long if he had to wear ready-made clothes now, took a fancy to a pair of unlined pantaloons, but refused to make the purchase unless I had lining put in. That was in 1850. My tailor said he never heard of such a thing, but I insisted. He had to take the pantaloons apart—unstitch the seams and then put in the lining. It took him over a week to do the job. The customer got mad in waiting and refused to take the pantaloons. I sued him and got judgment, and he wouldn't speak to me for over a year. I saw him pass the house last week riding with his grandchildren in an automobile. I suppose he would have got hot if I had reminded him of the time when he wore lined pantaloons, and he had straps to them besides, so as to keep them in shape. I remember when a man who didn't wear straps to his pantaloons was not considered well dressed, and that was right here in Chicago."

KILLED BY THE WIND

A PORTION OF SIDEWALK STRIKES A MAN In THE HEAD.

Wind Attained a velocity of One Hundred Miles per Hour—

Astoria, Or., Feb. 15.—During the gale this evening a portion of the sidewalk near the Clatsop Mill was torn up by the wind, and Captain T. J. Rustad, who was passing, was struck on the head and breast by the boards and so badly injured that he died a short time afterward.

The wind today was the heaviest of the season. At times during the day the wind attained a velocity of 100 miles per hour. Reports from the mouth of the river are to the effect that a terrific southerly gale is blowing, but no vessels have been in sight.

Captain Rustad, who was accidentally killed during the gale tonight, was a native of Norway, 62 year of age, and for several years was stationed on the Columbia River lightship, but for the past few months had been in the employ of Hale & Kern. He has a wife and several children living in Norway, and his brother is keeper at the Eddy Hook lighthouse, near Port Angeles.

Baker City, Feb. 15.—Captain Sam White, chairman of the democratic state committee, left for Portland last evening to consult with the secretary and other members of the committee in regard to the calling of the state and congressional conventions of the party. The matter of the time and place was left by the committee in the hands of the chairman, with full power to act, but before coming to a final conclusion Mr. White desired to confer with some of his colleagues. Baker City has made a very flattering offer to the committee, to induce the chairman to call the convention to meet in this city. The indications are that the state convention will be called about April 15.

Paris, Feb., 8.—Rodica and Doodica, two young and pretty Hindoo girls who are linked together like the Siamese twins, have passed through a trying condition.

Rodica caught bronchitis, but Doodica remained perfectly healthy. A physician attached to the circus in which the twins were exhibited declared that Rodica was in danger of dying at any instant and feared that the sister would be infected.

Consequently the girl twins were sent to the Rousseau hospital to see if they could be safely cut apart. It was decided that the operation would be extremely dangerous.

"Yet," the head surgeon said, "if one dies can't possibly bury both."

Fortunately science cured the sick twin and saved the healthy one from infection.

to Cape Martin is only postponed. I will start again as soon as I can get ready. This accident was due to the entanglement of the guide rope with the screw and wires of the balloon. The balloon was not fully inflated when I started. Seeing that an accident was inevitable, I pulled the emergency cord, but pulled it harder than I intended. This made a bigger rent than I wanted. Consequently the airship collapsed too quickly."

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
