STATE UNIVERSITY AND OAC FOOTBALL GAME IN CORVALLIS

Both Teams Preparing for the Struggle—An interesting game Promised—Current Football Comment.

What will unquestionably be the most interesting football game of the season, at least in a local way, will be played on OAC field next Saturday afternoon. The players will be the State University and OAC eleven. The State inter-collegiate championship may hang on the result, although Albany college, which recently played the Eugene men a scoreless game, may yet be a factor in the bestowal of champion honors. The outcome of the game will be watched by college men all over the Northwest with absorbing interest. What will be, can only be guessed at and speculated on. It has been five years since the college defeated the University. Two of the four intervening years the college was not playing the game. In each of the other two seasons, in one game played at Eugene and another at Corvallis, the collegians were badly beaten.

That the college has a better team now than it has had since five years ago, is certain. What its real strength is however, nobody not even Coach Herbold, really knows. In Willamette it met a weak aggregation. At Seattle it encountered a team of excellent players, and showed up well. The deduction, is that it is at least fairly strong. It has however, two faults. It is composed largely of men of small experience, and is one of the lightest teams in the state. It is outweighed by the State University team, two or three pounds to the man. The men are however wide awake, and it may be set down as certain that the Eugene players will have to work for such honors as they may win.

Eugene has an excellent team. Its scoreless game with Albany was not so much Eugene's weakness as Albany's strength and skill. This is shown by the victory Eugene won immediately afterward from the excellent Whitman College aggregation. Thus it appears certain that in next Saturday's game it will be a contest in which Greek meets Greek, with a clever exhibition of scientific football by both elevens.

Albany Democrat: Albany College defeated Willamette University at foot ball last Saturday afternoon in a fast game of 27 to 0. The latter had been greatly strengthened, five changes having been made, while on the Albany team some of the subs were played through the game. Members of the Willamette team stated that Albany played a better game than the OAC, notwithstanding the smaller score. The University men took their defeat very philosophically, however, and congratulated themselves upon being able to hold the Albany team, which is considered superior to the OAC team, down so well and are gratified over their marked improvement.

Albany Democrat: The U of O people had better wait until their football team has played another game with Albany before boasting too much and making silly explanations. It is not a fact at all that in the former game with Albany they played like babies. They were simply in the hands of one of the finest football teams in the state, a team without much practice then.

The Albany Herald plays the Northwest football championship to a finish on paper, as follows: A Seattle correspondent in the Evening Telegram writing from the University of Washington says: "that but three teams have a chance for the Northwest championship. They are the University of Washington, Washington Agricultural College and University of Oregon," but adds, "Albany College is making some claims but is not seriously considered as a prominent factor in the contest." The Albany College team will unless something unforeseen happens easily win the championship. The team played its first game of the season, with scarcely a week's practice, at Eugene and prevented the U of O from scoring. With over half the second team men they walked all over old Willamette, 27 to 0, and the latter team had been greatly strengthened after their crushing defeat at Corvallis. Every player is a star and will bear watching from the time the whistle blows. As Griffiths the husky tackle, says, "everybody runs, no body walks." Seattle will probably have an opportunity to find out the facts before the season closes.

The Medical College football team of Portland, which defeated Forest Grove last Saturday, is composed of some crack players. Among them are Fred Ziegler, former captain of U of O, Charles Templeton, Brady, and Spencer, former U of O men, and Ralph Fisher, a former Stanford captain. They will play the U of O tomorrow at Eugene.

A Typical South African Store. O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays Riverr, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past 12 months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by Graham & Wells.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 28.—With gaunt faces and eyes lifted heavenward, an army of fanatics, chanting weird religious hymns, entered Yankton Assinobia today, filling the inhabitants with fear and pity. The pilgrims form part of the colony of Duokhbors, of Russian zealous, who located in the Canadian Northwest two years ago, which has gone on the march, leaving crops half harvested and deserting their horses and cattle.

Sixteen hundred men women and children entered Yankton this morning, carrying their infants and sick on stretchers. The body marched to the immigration sheds, where agents of the government met and interviewed them. Through interpreters the Duokhbors told the officials that they did not know where they were going their only mission was to convert people and find "Jesus."

The male members of the party refused proffered shelter for the women and children and the sick, but after much persuasion were induced to leave the weaker ones behind, while they continued their march through the city. The men and women were living on weeds and raw potatoes, and look emaciated after their long tramp from the village.

Four hundred more Duokhbors are now exiles out of town, and many more are leaving the villages. One child died tonight on the march. When word was brought in of their proximity this morning a meeting of the Council was hastily called, and several special constables were hastily sworn.

No violence will be used by the defending party, which is under command of the officers of the Northwest mounted police who are stationed there, but trouble is feared, for while the original mission of the Duokhbors was of a peaceful nature, some apprehension is felt that they will be driven to acts of violence by sheer necessity.
