As it has been with the coal trust, so in time will it be with the steel and other combinations. When a man or a body of men have the power, natural selfishness will lead them to exact tribute to the last limit. We have all seen it exemplified in the widespread misery the toal combination has just wrought. It is going on in the same way in the case of the steel trust, Standard Oil and scores of other combinations. Men cannot resist the temptations of innate greed. The trusts will exact and exact, will turn the thumb screws tighter and tighter until by and by people will discern as they have in the case of the coal trust that prohibitive tariffon monoply goods is the implement by means of which the multitude is robbed, and then, one by one, the tariffs will go. It may not happen today or tomorrow, but it will happen.

At one time, the tariff may have been sincerely designed as an aid for labor. Time has shown that the labor organization is the sure and only protection of workingmen's wages. Congress sees it, acknowledges it, and seals it with a complete and unrestricted removal of the duty from coal.

HIS RECOMNENDATIONS.

The message of Governor Chamberlain is an able and elegant state paper. It is clear and direct in statement, broad in conception, and is clothed in polished diction. Every recommendation that it embodies is a sensible proposal. It insists that there should be but two instead of four Normal schools, and that money devoted to the extra two has a very large membership, and should be applied to the common schools, a proposition absolutely axiomatic. It declares that real estate bears more that its just share of taxation and that personal propsideration of the legislature, and TWB Smith viewer Ecker road 3 20 make it deserve an honorable place WF Whitby Ino Whitaker among the deliverances of Oregon's R Scott chainman former chief executives.
