in Albany-Is to Report at February Term- What Albany Papers Say on the Subject.

The Benton county special committee, appointed to investigate the conditions surrounding the big steel bridge at Albany, and to ascertain what is wanted of Benton county with reference thereto, begins its work today. The committee is E R Bryson, Johnson Porter and Lon Hawley, Mr Portter and Mr Bryson are to be in Albany this morning, and though nothing has been heard from Mr Hawley, it is supposed that he will ous offense under the law. It would be in attendance, no plan of its proceedings and will fugitives. It is up to the officers want Benton to become ' interested certain to hold anything. in the bridge, and then direct investigations in accordance therewith. The members of the committee are thoroughly alive to the At Philomath-Talk There of Grist importance of their mission, and their report is sure to be exhaustive and reliable. It will be made to the Benton county court at the February term.

Albany Democrat: An enthusiastic bridge meeting was held Monday night at Fairmount Grange hall across the Willamette attended by most of the men of Cloverdale, Rousing speeches were made, showing a unanimous spirit to get the toll off the bridge in some way, either by the legislature placing the bridge back on the city, or by the counties taking charge of it. They will work on both plans, having a committee at Salem and committees to confer with the two county courts. $140 was raised in a few minutes to push the work of toll extermination. The address of the commercial committee of the Alco Club was read and two or three statements criticised.

Should the effort to get the bur. den of the toll off fail it is proposed to establish an institution in Cloverdale which will call for the use of the produce of the section there.

advisability of the two counties taging charge of the steel bridge. The Benton county committee consists of Lon Hawley, E R Bryson and Johnson Porter.

This meeting would undoubtedly be productive of good in the way of giving earnest consideration of the bridge question, although it is a roundabout way of getting at the problem, If the two courts had met together directly, without any intermediate committees, they would be in a position to handle the matter more expeditiously.

However, the two courts are to meet together in February to discuss the matter. It is to be hoped they will decide to take the bridge jointly as that is the only solution of the problem.
