

HUNDRED HURT.

IN SPECTACULAR STREET CAR COLLISION IN SAN FRANCISCO.

One Car Struck Amidship by Another at Full Speed, and Splintered. Costly War Among the Telegraphs—Other News.

San Francisco, May 30.—A serious street-car collision occurred about noon today, in which nearly 50 people were injured, eight of them being seriously hurt. The accident was at the point where the Haight-street cable cars cross the Fillmore electric car line tracks. The collision was partly due to the misunderstanding of new rules recently promulgated by the United Railway Company regarding right of way at the crossing.

The Haight-street car, in charge of Gripman Diehl, was going westward at the time, carrying fully 100 people, many of them on their way to the cemeteries to do burials. When Diehl got to the first corner at Fillmore street he stopped his car and later got the conductor's signal to proceed. He looked up the Fillmore-street steep hill and saw an electric car about one-third the way down. Thinking he could clear the crossing, and also that the car would stop, as had been customary at the bottom of the hill before crossing the cable, he went ahead.

He perceived his error a moment later and put on full speed, but the electric car, coming down with terrific force, struck the cable car squarely in the middle, tearing loose the whole side and sending splinters and broken glass in every direction. The passengers inside were hurled from their seats, and the floor became a struggling mass of bruised and bloody humanity.

Aid quickly came and a number of poles were taken out who were literally covered from head to foot with blood, yet escaped unhurt. Several were treated at neighboring stores, and six were taken to the Emory hospital.

Two scores of people were slightly hurt. Gripman Diehl was practicing a green hand. He entered the service of the company May 8, and after serving ten days' apprenticeship was put on a car.

Motorman Keller, of the electric car, after consulting with his superintendent, refused to make a statement for publication.

Philadelphia, May 21.—Fifteen hundred miles of telegraph line put out of business, 15,000 miles of wire grounded, 60,000 poles chopped down and $750,000 worth of telegraph property destroyed is the record of today's developments in the Pennsylvania-Western Union fight.

History shows no record of one corporation striking another a blow so tremendous as that dealt today to the Western Union by the Pennsylvania. It was deliberately planned and mercilessly delivered. In one fell swoop came this sensationally drastic culmination to the fight A. J. Cassatt began more than a year ago to retaliate on George J. Gould, who had dared to invade Pennsylvania territory by pushing the Wabash railroad into Pennsylvania.

The blow fell almost simultaneously in six states—Pennsylvania, New York, Virginia and West Virginia. Fully 8,000 men distributed along nearly 2,500 miles of railroad, were in the work of destruction. New axes were stored at convenient points. When the order came every section gang turned in to demolish the Western Union property. Thus the work was cut up into sections averaging about two miles of railroad.

Special orders were given concerning the important Western Union line to New York. It was to be broken directly west of Delaware River Bridge. At 1:30 the work of destruction was started. "Steve" Jones, section foreman, was in charge. Five poles in a bunch fell at 1:37, and the through 39-wire line of the Western Union went out of business for good.

By tomorrow night the Pennsylvania officers expect to have every Western Union pole and wire down every mile of railroad to which today's order applied. The twelve poles will be loaded on construction trains and carried away. Then a bill will be rendered the Western Union for the cost of removing its poles and wires.

The cost of tearing away this telegraph system is $50,000, which the railroad expects to recover later.

An expert estimates that the value of the system is from $700,000 to $800,000. It is doubtful if the junk can be sold to realize the cost of clearing it up.

Los Angeles, May 29.—Gladys Mallard, a 11-year-old girl, has been detected in making systematic attempt to poison F. F. Ward and wife and five visitors of the Ward's by arsenic and powdered glass. The bill was adopted by Mrs. Ward. Last Monday Mrs. Ward entertained visitors. All were taken ill after eating strawberries. A physician who had been called thought par. green had been used on the plants. The child was not suspected. She then resumed her poisoning plot. The next day she put poison into the asparagus and tea, and on this occasion Mrs. Ward nearly lost her life.

Suspicion was aroused and Gladys was questioned. She protested that she knew nothing until an officer was called and had put handcuffs on her. Then she broke down and confessed. She said she wanted to see how poison acted on human beings as she used to kill wild cats that way. The child is very pretty and was adopted by the Ward in San Diego.

MRS. CECELIA STOWE, Orator, Entre Nous Club. 176 Warren Avenue, CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902. For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Cecelia Stowe WINE OF CARDUI. Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.
