BALLOON WENT UP.

And Came Down—Brass Band and Special Trains—The W. O. W. Carnival.

Corvallis is having its W. O. W. carnival. The show began Wednesday afternoon, and is to end at 11 o'clock this Saturday evening. The chief feature is the Arnold show which serve to attract multitudes of people. Ever since the arrival of the latter the town has been full of strange faces. The rains of Thursday served as a dampener on the attendance during the day, but in the evening the crowds in the carnival grounds were far larger than on the opening evening.

It is probable that, rain or shine, the attendance today will be by far the greatest of all. It is to be hoped so for the sake of the Woodmen, who have expended much time, labor and trouble in an effort to make the affair a success.

The carnival opened Wednesday afternoon with a parade that occupied several blocks. It consisted of Woodmen of the World, uniformed and otherwise, of the queen's carriage, the Philomath and Bellfountain brass bands and the movable features of the Arnold shows. The route was north on Third south on Main, out to Fourth and thence North and west on Madison to the Carnival grounds on Sixth. There in a mammoth tent, occurred the ceremony of crowning the queen, the presentation to her of the keys and hospitality of the city, all witnessed by a tent full of people, after which occurred the regular performance of the Arnold shows.

A parade programmed for Thursday afternoon, in which Woodmen and the cadet battalion were to take part, did not take place on account of the muddy condition of Main street. The day brought a special train from Dallas and Monmouth drawn by the little motor locomotive used on the Independence and Monmouth railroad. It brought about fifty people. In the early evening another special arrived from Albany, bringing a large number of people. The arrivals together with townspeople and visitors from the country filled the big tent Thursday evening and the shouts of vendors, murmur of conversation, the playing of bands, the Turkish bagpipes and drum and a thousand other noises made a babel of sounds which carried out with precision the carnival idea. During the evening occurred the competitive drill by the Woodmen teams, won by the delegation from Monmouth, over the Corvallis men as a close second. The judges in the contest were Captain Hardin, commandant at OAC, and Captains Beattie and Johnson of the cadet battalion.

Yesterday the attendance was the largest of any Carnival day. The weather was more favorable, and many people were in from the country. In the morning occurred the balloon ascension, which was very successful. The balloon with Prof. Miller in the basket, rose swiftly from the Carnival grounds shortly after 11 o'clock. It rose steadily on a slightly easterly direction until it attained an elevation of 3,000 feet. At a point that seemed almost directly over the Whitehorn block on Main street, the parachute was cut loose and balloon deserted by the aeronaut. The parachute quickly filled, and the descent was easy, graceful and successful. It moved in several directions as it came down, and seemed to be under the control of the balloonist. It finally landed in the street near Abbots barn, two or three blocks north of the business portion of town. The event was witnessed by vast crowds, who formed a dense mass around the carnival grounds, and occupied vantage points on the roofs of buildings in various parts of town.

The carnival comes to an end this Saturday evening. The day is expected to be by far the greatest one of the carnival.

At the carnival grounds the Arnold shows offer much to interest. There is a huge Ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, a main tent in which there is a platform on which acrobats, trapezists and wire rope people do difficult stunts, besides a long list of sideshows, each of which contain an attraction. Among the latter are glass blowers, a band of darkeys who do plantation songs and dancing stunts as they did before the war, a half dozen Turks who do things in the queer way they are done in Turkey, a band of Japanese acrobats who are as good as anybody ever saw, besides other attractions to interest and instruct.

My Friend from India, tonight.

WITH SULPHURIC ACID.

Burned His Hand—On the Same Day Two of his Classmates Died Violent Deaths.

Fred C. Stimpson an OAC sophomore was severely burned while handling sulphuric acid in the chemical laboratory Thursday afternoon. In an intricate test for tartaric acid, sulphuric acid was boiled down to a sluggish oily thickness, when the upturned evaporator emptied its boiling contents over the young man's hand. Almost like syrup, the acid clung to the skin which was cooking as rapidly as if it were in a fire. Unable to remove the burning substance, he rushed across the laboratory to the hydrant where relief was first obtained. Sodium bicarbonate and olive oil were promptly administered; and now the young pharmacist carries a burden in a sling on the side where his own good right hand ought to be.

It may be stated incidentally, that on the same afternoon Mr. Stimpson learned a worse fate which had just befallen two classmates who graduated with him from the Amity public schools three years ago—Koy Coiter having been kicked to death by a horse, and William Brown having been drowned in Hood river.

FOR SUMMER SCHOOL.

In Corvallis—Prof. Tartar May Conduct One—Several Want It.

Prof. Tartar is considering the proposition of conducting a summer school at the public school building in Corvallis during the present vacation. He has been requested to do so by a number of patrons, who want pupils tutored for removal of conditions received in examinations during the past school year, or for kindred reasons. One or two pupils want drill in Algebra so they may be able to enter college next year, while still others who were out of school during a portion of a term in the past year want opportunity to bring up arrearages before the opening of school next fall.

Prof. Tartar will be at the public school building during the school election next Monday, and may be seen at any other time with reference to terms. If enough pupils apply, the proposed summer school will open Monday, June 22nd. The school will be in session but the half of each school day, a full day's session for summer work not being deemed advisable.

MONEY TO LOAN.

A Catsup Bottle and a Man's nose—Boys and a Ferryboat—Other Local News.

Among the weddings that are to occur soon are those of Miss Roxana Thompson and Dr. Clark, Miss Orla Thompson and Arthur Stimpson, Miss Mildred Linville and W. L. Patterson, Miss Olive Hamilton and C. M. McKellips. Of the above all have been students at O. A. C. with the exception of Dr. Clark and C. M. McKellips.

Bay Rickard is seriously ill at his father's home with catarrh of the stomach. Three physicians have been engaged in the case during the past week. The patient has never recovered completely from a similar attack, with which he suffered several weeks ago. Last week he was about starting to Portland for medical treatment, when he was again violently attacked with his malady. He has since been confined in bed. His condition was slightly improved yesterday morning.

Rev. Humbert and family are to go to Eugene to reside. Rev. Humbert has been placed in charge of the financial arrangements of the Divinity School at Eugene, and Mrs. Humbert has been elected to the chair of Christian Missions in the same institution. They are to leave Corvallis for their new field of labor about August 1st. No arrangements has yet been made for a successor to Mr. and Mrs. Humbert in the pastorate of the Christian church in this city, which they have most acceptably filled for several years.

An agency for lending money on city property has been established in Corvallis. The interest rate is under six per cent. The duration of loans is from three to 10 years, according to the wish of the borrower. If the borrower desires, payment in full may be made at the end of one year. The company that does the lending is the Equitable Saving and Loan Association, of which Charles W. Ladd of Portland is president. The local agent is W. A. Wells. The plan enables persons with fixed incomes and a small amount of ready money to build and own homes.

The authorities are having trouble with the City and County gravel ferry boat. The boat is not locked to the bank, and it is the habit of boys about town to make use of it at pleasure. They take it back and forth across the river, and have a deal of sport out of the pastime. The other afternoon when gravel teams appeared on the west bank and wanted to cross, the boat was on the opposite side. The small boat was also on the opposite side, and the boys who had taken both over were nowhere to be seen. There was a wild waste of profanity and much wear and tear on the patience before the team finally got across. The authorities are preparing trespass notices for posting and it is the purpose to prosecute future offenders.

A bottle of catsup flung by a woman, a clenched fist, a bloody nose and a subsequent arrest were features in a miniature street tragedy Thursday afternoon. The bottle of catsup was a part of the City Restaurant, and the clenched fist was also an appurtenance of that establishment. Oliver Felger had dined in the hostelry and on account of alleged uncivil remarks had invoked the ire of the wife of the proprietor. Persons across the street suddenly saw Felger emerge from the front door as the bottle of catsup, welded by Mrs. Lederle, struck him in the back. Felger turned round and found himself face to face with Mr. Lederle. A few words passed, Lederle's right shot forward and landed on Felger's nose. Felger fell under the weight of the blow, and after picking himself up, he left the place. He was subsequently arrested and fined $5.

Next week is Commencement at the college. The program is: Saturday, June 13, 8 p. m., college chapel, debate, Pierian and Zeta chapeau literary societies, for the cup. Sunday, June 14, 10:45 a. m., armory, Baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Allen Wilson, of Indianapolis. Monday, June 15, 2 p. m., campus, exhibition drill by the cadet battalion, followed by a competitive drill for the gold medals; 8 p. m., armory, recital, department of music. Tuesday, June 16, 1 p. m., college campus, senior class day exercises. Wednesday, June 17, 10 a. m., armory, graduating exercises; address by Gov. George E. Chamberlain.
