FEASTED AND TALKED.

Alumni Did—Their Reunion and Banquet—Their New Officers.

The closing event of Commencement week was the alumni reunion and banquet Wednesday evening. It occurred in Agricultural Hall. There were present alumni of the Auld Lang Syne, alumni of the more recent periods, and the members of the newest class. The occasion was informal, and the programme practically extemporized. E. E. Wilson presided and made a speech of welcome to the new class. He also offered advice to them. He pointed out that the state and federal governments had spent much money in educating the new graduates, and that what was expected in return was a high standard of citizenship and future loyalty to the Alma Mater.

Prof. Berchtold introduced the new class to the association, and Miss Sybil Cummings, on behalf of the class, responded to the address of Mr. Wilson. This ceremony was followed by impromptu addresses and, Dr. Frank Cauthorn read a poem entitled, "The Spirit of the Maine" which was loudly applauded for its martial melody. He also made a speech. Rev. Joseph Emery was however, the chief orator of the occasion. He talked feelingly of old days at the college, of those who survive, and of those who have passed over, and dealt most interestingly with reminiscence. An original poem by Lionel Johnson was read by Miss Gertrude Ewing and Miss Lulu Spangler gave a vocal solo. The exercises closed with refreshments.

At the business meeting of the alumni in the afternoon, E. E. Wilson was elected president, Frances Belknap, secretary, and Harry Buxton, treasurer.

HELP FOR HEPPNER.

Corvallisites Raise Nearly Six Hundred for Stricken City.

At a public meeting held Thursday evening, $220.50 was contributed within about twenty minutes by Corvallisites for the relief of Heppner sufferers. The meeting was held at Fireman's Hall, and about 20 business men and citizens were present. B. W. Johnson was made chairman, Robert Johnson secretary and Walter Wiles treasurer. For a few minutes there was desultory discussion concerning the amount that the town should be expected to contribute. Somebody suggested that about $200 would be a fair donation, and by general consent the figure was agreed to. Then contribution was asked for, and the Knights of Pythias lodge led off with a contribution of $25. Barnum lodge, of Odd Fellows followed with a similar amount and the Odd Fellows encampment gave $10. The sum of $46, left over from the Fourth of July fund of two years ago was turned in by the finance committee that raised it at the time, consisting of J. M. Nolan, J. H. Harris and W. H. Currin. A. C. White and S. L. Kline, each gave $10, and while the meeting was still in progress two ladies appeared at the door and handed a contribution of $10 for Miss Pauline Kline and a smaller sum for another lady. The meeting closed after a session of but half an hour, securing pledges and cash aggregating $220.50.

At the same meeting, a finance committee was appointed to make a canvass for funds. The committee is, J. B. Horner, W. H. Currin, J. M. Nolan, H. Harris. The committee took the matter up yesterday morning and at noon had raised the fund to about $550. Of the latter amount, a contribution of $40 came from Philomath, where it was raised through the efforts of Dr. Leggan. A similar contribution is expected from Monroe, where A. Wilhelm & Sons have become interested in the movement. Included with the list of contributions printed below is that secured through the Masonic fraternity which is working independently in the movement, and has so far secured donations among the membership aggregating about $75. The lists are still to be kept open, and any who may desire can have opportunity to subscribe. Subscription papers will be found in the hands of either member of the committee to wit: J. H. Harris, Prof. J. B. Horner, W. H. Currin, or J. M. Nolan. Subscriptions may also be left with Walter Wiles, who is treasurer of this committee. All moneys collected will pass into the hands of reliable boards of commission, who will see that the fund is spent for the purpose for which it is contributed. The contributors and their contributions are:

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

And it Gave Both the Dr. and the Dentist a Jab.

He requested that his name be withheld, if his late adventure was deemed of sufficient import to be related in the Times. The gentleman is a new-comer and has not fully made up his mind to settle here, so it is probably best to humor him to the extent of granting his wish. He is 72 years old, recently from Kansas, and may be excusable for not being familiar with the ways of Webfoot kids, along about 12 years of age. Two such boys drawing a small wagon were about to pass the old gentleman in the vicinity of the Applewhite residence. The Kansas looked good natured and one of the boys addressed him: "Hello boss, won't you have a ride?" To the youngsters surprise the old gentleman got into the wagon on his hands and knees. One boy winked one eye and the other boy winked another eye. "All ready!" shouted the jolly old chap. The team started but immediately became frightened at an imaginary object and ran away. They continued down the street at frightful speed heedless of the rider's cries to "Hold on!" "better hold on your self," rejoined the boy on the near side, but the admonition was not necessary. Presently the outfit collided with the high portion of the crosswalk. The team of course broke loose from the wagon and ran on to a safe distance. When the front wheels of the vehicle met the obstruction, the old gentleman pitched headlong onto the walk with rather serious results. A passer-by assisted him to his feet. His face was diffused with blood and dust. He spat out a section of his false teeth and put his hands up to see if all parts of his facial anatomy were in tact. They were not. His nose had seemingly been dislocated. After shaking his fist at the boys and giving the wagon a parting kick he allowed himself to be conducted to the near by home of a friend. Having cleansed himself to some extent he took his teeth to a dentist shop and carried his nose to a physician's office. Mr. Blank is able to be about, although he displays much evidence of having been the victim of misplaced confidence and he don't claim that he wasn't.

Her Charity.

A sweet little girl of six tripped into the TIMES office yesterday afternoon, and inquired for the manager. "What do you want?" was asked. I want to give him some money to send to those poor people at Heppner," she replied. "How much do you want to send," The little hand reached into a basket in which reposed a little purse and took out $1.20, all of which she proposed to send the sufferers. It was explained that the money should be taken to the finance committee, and she tripped out of the office on her errand of mercy, more generous in her charity than all the others, because she hunted the opportunity to give away her all. The little one is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Starr.
