CORVALLIS.

A MOST CHARMINGLY LOCATED PROSPEROUS CITY.

Keeping Step to the Music of Progress—Sketches of her Leading Industries and Mercantile Establishments.

By W. A. Stamats.

In placing before the readers of THE TIMES a summary of the commercial and industrial progress of Corvallis and many of its business houses, we are proud indeed of the record which we are privileged to submit and account it a pleasure to do so. Every citizen of Corvallis may congratulate himself that he is a resident of one of the neatest, healthiest and most progressive little cities in the state of Oregon a town with a commercial and industrial expansion, limited only by the energy of our people in taking advantage of the opportunities that lie at our door.

Corvallis is the County seat of Benton County and located at the junction of the S. P. and C. & E. railroads. It is the distributing point for a rich agricultural district and has had and is still enjoying a steady growth and a solid development. It is the seat of the Oregon Agricultural College. It has two banks, two live semi-weekly newspapers, the Times and the Gazette, two creameries, two planing mills, a foundry and numerous other industries. The streets are broad and well kept and bordered with ribbons of green and embowered with shady trees. Cozy cottages and handsome homes are found in the resident district which form the border of substantial brick business blocks, giving the city the general appearance of solidity and commercial activity. Civic and fraternal societies are well represented while the many church organizations are in a flourishing condition. The public school system is of the best and the people take a pardonable pride in their temples of wisdom.

Nature has smiled upon her location to make her famous for beauty and health. Its manufacturing advantages are of the most desirable character the Willamette river being navigable to this point the greater part of the year, and having the best of railroad facilities. Corvallis' best days are yet to come, and the summit of her prosperity has been far from reached. Naught but words of confidence and enthusiasm are heard on every hand and here the oraker and the pessimist find no hearing.

Standing on the solid rock of past achievements, and with every indication of still more wonderful development, Corvallis with just pride in herself and faith in her destiny, passes onward to gather the fruits of her industry and enterprise.

Willamette Valley Banking Co.

No class of financial institutions is of more value to its city than well regulated and properly managed banks. In fact nothing is of greater importance to the material welfare of a city than adequate banking facilities. Prominent among these institutions in this city is the Willamette Banking Co. This bank was established here last September with Thomas Leese, president, William Scarth and J. C. Dudley, vice presidents, W. Wilkinson, cashier. They also have banks at Birtle and Russel, Manitoba, and Toledo, Oregon. The bank is a private institution and has a responsibility of $100,000. Following fixed financial principles its management has been unexcelled, the policy being to keep the business of the bank entirely under its control and its resources available at all times. It does a general banking business, buys and sells exchange, makes collections, accepts deposits, makes loans in accordance with established usages and does all other business coming under the scope of legitimate banking. It has as correspondents the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the London & San Francisco Bank, Ltd., at Portland, San Francisco,

Seattle, Tacoma and London, England; First National Bank of Chicago and J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York. The personnel of the bank is of itself a sufficient guarantee of its absolute reliability and straightforward business methods.

Nolan & Callahan—Dry-Goods.

Among the leading business firms of Corvallis is Nolan & Callahan. They began business here nineteen years ago in a modest way and by fair and honorable dealing with customers have built up a large and prosperous business. In their store is always found the newest and best selected stocks of dry-goods, clothing, hats, ladies' and gent's furnishings, and everything new, fine or fashionable in footwear. Among their specialties may be mentioned the W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes, the famous broad-head dress-goods, Royal Worcester corsets, Hawes $3 hats, Uitz & Dunn's shoes for ladies and the "Walkover" and Hamilton, Brown Shoe Co. shoes for men. They also carry a fine line of ladies ready to wear suits, cloaks, capes, etc. All goods sold by the firm are sold upon merit and warranted to prove as represented. Good goods at the lowest possible prices has been their motto, and it has won. The members of the firm are J. M. Nolan and Thomas Callahan. They are recognized leaders in low prices and are always to the front when the city's best interests are at stake.

Huston & Bogue—Hardware.

From the farmer's point of view the first in importance among the business interests of a town or city is the hardware and implement house. Here he buys all his shelf and heavy hardware, stoves, ranges, tools and tinware as well as all kinds of implements used in planting, cultivating and harvesting his crops. Chief among the dealers in this section is the firm of Huston & Bogue. The firm is composed of Robert H. Huston and W. Bogue, two of the best known business men in the county. They carry a large stock of shelf and heavy hardware, paints and oils, tin and granite ware, pumps, pipe, plumbing supplies, fine cutlery, all kinds of tools, guns, ammunition, farm machinery and vehicles. They handle the Studebaker and Bain wagons, the McCormick harvesting machinery and Buckeye pumps. They also run a plumbing and tin shop in connection and are prepared to turn out on short notice roofing, spouting, copper and sheet iron work, do steam fitting, install heating plants, etc., and at moderate cost. These gentlemen stand among the foremost business men of this county and we can commend them to the general public.

J. D. Mann & Co.

The furniture trade of this city is extensive, permitting the whole of the surrounding territory, and standing high among the dealers of this section is the firm of J. D. Mann & Co. These gentlemen carry a large and complete stock of plain and fancy, parlor, bedroom and kitchen furniture and their prices are always in accordance with the times. They also handle carpets, matting, rugs, the latest design in wall paper, pictures and picture frames, as well as stoves, tinware, graniteware and housefurnishing goods generally. They also handle second hand goods and are in the market at all times for household goods of value for which they pay the highest market price. They occupy three rooms, one for new furniture, one for hardware, tinware and stoves including the famous Charter Oak stoves, and the third for wall paper, carpets and floor covering of all kinds. The members of this firm are J. D. Mann, D. M. Smith and O. J. Blackledge, and during the four years they have been in business they have built up a very satisfactory trade, which is increasing and are well and favorably known.

J. H. Harris—Dry-Goods.

Corvallis does not lack for good mercantile establishments and the above named concern can, with all propriety, be regarded as one of the finest and most commodious in the county. By judicious purchasing and exquisite taste Mr. Harris has obtained a stock of goods designed to attract the best custom and his ample experience enables him to constantly have a line of goods conforming closely to the needs and requirements of the community. He carries a large and complete stock of dry-goods, shoes, furnishing goods, carpets, rubber goods, trunks, valises, etc., and his prices are as low as first-class goods can be sold for. Among his specialties may be mentioned Knippendorf & Dittmann Co.'s shoes. He has recently put in a clothing department where a full line of up-to-date clothing of the latest styles and fabrics are carried. Special mention should be made of his dress-goods department which is unusually complete and embraces the finest of silks and satins as well as the more inexpensive weaves. The store is well appointed, fronting on two streets, and the stock nicely arranged showing that the business is directed by gentlemen of experience and ability. Mr. Harris is a responsible man of business and always ready to please his customers and give them full value for their money.

R. M. Wade & Co.—Hardware.

Hardware is as necessary as lumber for building purposes and almost as necessary as fuel for culinary purposes. A good hardware store in any town is a wonderful incentive to its growth and development. Such a store can be found in Corvallis in the one owned by R. M. Wade & Co., W. H. Currie, manager. This firm began business here twelve years ago and carries a large and complete stock of shelf and heavy ranges, including the Universal and Garland makes, cutlery, rope, barbed wire, a full line of saws, paints and oils, refrigerators, hose, kitchen specialties, etc. They also handle the Deering binders, mowers and rakes, the Oliver plows, J. I. Case threshing outfits, Clark's and Parry's buggies and the Rushford wagons. Low prices and high quality is the watchword of the house. In all transactions R. M. Wade & Co. will be found to be most prompt and liberal, and business relations entered into with them will be profitable and satisfactory to all concerned.

T. W. Dilley—Bicycles.

At this bicycle repairing and general jobbing emporium, conducted by T. W. Dilley, can be seen a fine selection of wheels of various makes, including the Snell, Mitchell, Day and B. & H., which are sold at factory prices. He also has a well stocked bicycle livery, where wheels can be rented for a small sum, and has sewing machines both for sale and rent. Mr. Dilley has been in business here for five years and makes a specialty of bicycle repairing and has gained a wide reputation and an extensive patronage. All work is done promptly and the greatest care is taken that only perfect work shall be turned out. He also carries a full line of bicycle sundries, he makes bicycles to order when required and is equipped for doing repairing of all kinds including guns, sewing machines, umbrellas, etc. If you need a new wheel or new parts or have anything which needs repairing, go to "Dilley the Fixer."

Dr. W. H. Holt

The science of healing is advancing by leaps and bounds these days and osteopathy, the drugless science, is rapidly making its way among thinking people as a curative agency. The antiquated and stubborn idea that drugs comprehend the curative art is fast giving way before the successful treatment of the skilled in osteopathy. To cure without medicines is certainly Nature's method and the claims of osteopathy are every day being substantiated by its wonderful results. Dr. W. H. Holt is a graduate of the Kirksville School of Osteopathy and has been practicing here since December 1901. He treats all diseases, both chronic and acute, and pays special attention to mental and nervous diseases. He receives valuable assistance from his wife, who is also an osteopath. He is equipped with an improved Static machine with an X ray and ozona attachment which he uses very successfully in all pulmonary complaints and also has a Betz hot air machine for rheumatism and all joint troubles. The doctor cordially invites suffering humanity to call at his office and learn of the methods he employs. Consultation is free.

Franklin Iron Works.

This manufacturing enterprise was located here about twenty years ago and is now owned and operated by W. H. & R. B. Franklin. They do all kinds of light and heavy casting, both in iron and brass and make a specialty of flanges, boxes and set collars. They also make metal pulleys and saw-mill machinery as well as making anything from specifications. The machine shop in connection is provided with a full complement of modern machinery, tools and appliances that are best adapted to the requirements of the business, such as lathes, drills, drill press, planers, etc. They are the inventors and will shortly have on the market a gasoline engine which embraces some entirely new features and which experiments have demonstrated will be a success. It is capable of great power and speed, a three-horse power engine, running light, having made 1000 revolutions in a minute. This establishment is contributing in no small measure to the trade and manufacturing influence of the city, and is valued for the part it is doing in the productive industries of the community.

Henkle & Davis—Drygoods.

The drygoods, clothing and furnishing store of Henkle & Davis has been a well known landmark in this town for the past twenty years and the straightforward business principles which the firm have observed for a score of years still obtain. They carry a well selected line of drygoods, clothing, hats and caps, notions, boots and shoes, as well as a full line of gent's furnishings, trunks, valises, etc. They are good buyers, always willing to give their customer the benefit of their years of experience in good goods at the lowest possible prices. The members of the firm are G. W. Henkle and Z. H. Davis.

D. C. Rose & Son—Cigars.

To those who enjoy a pull at the weed we desire to make mention of the superior line of cigars being placed on the market by D. C. Rose & Son. This firm was established twenty years ago, and their products are favorably known throughout this section. They use nothing but the best of tobacco, and are manufacturing honest goods, and for a ten cent cigar their Oregon is unsurpassed while habitual smokers will tell you that Speckled Trout, Key West and Nickel Leaders cannot be beaten for 5 cent goods. Dealers and smokers of
