

LOCAL LORE.

(Advertisements in this column charged for at the rate of 1 cent per line.)

—Mrs. Amelia Schubert arrived Wednesday from Monroe, and is the guest of friends.

—All persons indebted to me are hereby requested to call and settle at once. J. K. Berry.

—The Corvallis Business College holds both day and evening classes. Its short, thorough classes meet your wishes. Enter at any time.

—The Baptist church pulpit will be filled on Sunday by visiting brethren of the Presbyterian Presbytery. Come and hear them. A book, a seat and a hearty welcome assured you. All services as usual.

—Invitations are out for the wedding of Ed Tully and Miss Rose Applegate, which is to occur at the bride's home in Yoncalla, Douglas county, next Thursday. Both are former students at OAC, and well-known in Corvallis.

—Thirty head of sheep recently disappeared from the farm of Walter Smith, south of town, and their whereabouts cannot be learned. Some search has been made, but so far without results. Elsewhere Mr. Smith calls attention to the matter.

—Rev. E. L. Fitch and family left Wednesday for Oakland, Douglas county to reside. Mr. Fitch having been sent by the late conference of his church as presiding elder of Roseburg. The departure of the family from Corvallis is regretted by many friends.

—The Rowley residence property changed hands Wednesday. The purchaser is J. McOlelland, recently arrived from Iowa, and the price about $2,800. With the residence goes more or less furniture. Mr. McOlelland is to be joined later by his brother also from Iowa. The sale was negotiated by J. L. Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. Rowley are shortly to leave for Arizona to join their son, Dr. W. T. Rowley.

—Lionel Johnson, who graduated from OAC a few years ago has been a Corvallis visitor for the past few days. After leaving college he served in the Philippine war. Later he engaged in the newspaper business in the Malheur country. Two years ago he sold his newspaper, and has since served successfully as a reporter on the Boise Idaho Statesman and the Oakland, California, Equator. He is now traveling correspondent for the Portland Oregonian.

—Homestead filings continue to be made at the county clerk's office. The fees for filings are as follows: If made at the land office, the fee for 160 acres is $22, if situated in the railroad limits, and if outside the railroad limits, $16; if made at the county clerk's office on land within Benton county, the fees are $24.50 and $18.50, according to whether within or without railroad limits, these figures having been the charge for many years; if the land lies in another county and the filing is made with the Benton county clerk, or vice versa, the cost on 160 acres of land is $20.

—Albany Democrat—Marvin D. Brandeberry and Miss Edna Howard were united in marriage at the home of the bride at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Nelson of the Congregational church. The ceremony was private. The groom is a popular young man, a son of J. N. Brandeberry of the lumber yards, and the bride is one of Albany's most accomplished musicians and a worthy young lady. They have the best wishes of many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Brandeberry left on the afternoon train for Portland and other places. Upon their return they will be located at the present home of Mrs. Howard Gilbreath.

—Thursday afternoon at her home on College Hill, Miss Mabel Withycombe gave a linen shower in honor of Miss Martha Fischer. The game of hearts was a feature of the afternoon's entertainment in which Mrs. E. C. Hayward received first prize. Mrs. Clara Gatch Wheeler, consolation. During the afternoon several vocal selections were gracefully rendered by Miss Lulu Spangler. A dainty menu was served. Miss Fischer was the recipient of many very beautiful handkerchiefs and other pieces of linen. Miss Withycombe's guests were, Miss Carrie Danneman, Miss Gatch, Miss Spangler, the Misses Cooper, Mrs. Hayward, Miss Bertha Davis, the Misses Jacobs, Mrs. Cordley, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Edna Irvine, Mrs. R. O. Kiger and Miss Martha Fischer.

—Camille Hutton, at the age of 15, was married in Spokane the other day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Hutton, and is doubtless remembered as a little girl in Corvallis by old townsmen. She was born in this city. Her marriage at Spokane is the subject of a sensational write-up in the Spokesman-Review. It was in the nature of a mild elopement. Her home is at Coeur d'Alene City where she was engaged to a merchant named Stewart. Camille and her step parents were down to Spokane for the Fair, where they were guests of friends named Stewart, in whose family there was a young man. Camille was programmed to go to a dance with the young man. Instead, just before the hour of departure, she went down town, joined the Coeur d'Alene Stewart, and they were married. A note left behind explained all.

—Sam Irvin, of the bay, is in Corvallis on business.

—James Skipton has re-entered the Marion county sheriff's office as a deputy.

—Mrs. J. E. Henkle of Philomath has returned from a business trip to Portland.

—W. H. Steusloff was in Corvallis yesterday to buy beef cattle for his Salem meat market.

—Horace Scott has been in Corvallis a week. He is on crutches having broken a leg in a fall from a telephone pole.

—Mrs. George Bowers arrived recently from Vancouver, B. C., for a two-weeks visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eler.

—S. N. Lilly is on a visit to his son Leslie, who is now a resident of Douglas county. He has a farm about 15 miles south of Roseburg.

—A. J. Metzger has purchased the residence of F. H. Wells, located on Third street. It is the first house north of the Crook house.

—Mrs. Henrietta Randall wishes to tender her thanks to friends for the many kindnesses shown in her late bereavement, the death of her grandson, Floyd Gaylord Watts.

—Mr. and Mrs. Friedman Vanderhoff, who have been visiting a week in Corvallis, leave for their Portland home today. Mrs. Vanderhoff is a granddaughter of Mrs. Gerber.

—Services next Sunday at the regular hours at the United Evangelical church. The pulpit will be occupied by two of the ministers in attendance at the Presbyterian synod. Services at Dixon at 3 p. m.

—Oscar Taylor and son, of Salem, remained in Corvallis Wednesday night while on their way to Alaska to spend a few days in hunting and fishing. Mr. Taylor was a resident of this city many years ago and is well known to older citizens. He is a cousin to J. C. Taylor.

—Dr. V. D. Wells, a veterinary surgeon of experience and high reputation is to practice in Corvallis in the future. He arrived yesterday, and hereafter will be in town every Friday, with office at Fruit & Waggoner's livery stable. His home is in Albany. His card appears elsewhere.

—For half an hour yesterday morning Clinton J. Lloyd entertained the students and faculty at the college with readings from Shakespeare, the Lady of the Lake and humorous selections. The incident happened at the chapel hour, and made that occasion very interesting to all present. Mr. Lloyd is with the Clement-Keefer Dramatic company, now playing a three-nights engagement at the opera house.

—Harold Strong has for a considerable time been attending the law department of Stanford University, and is regarded as a bright student. As a testimonial of his popularity and abilities he was recently elected as a member of the "Court of Abbott's Inn." This is a moot court composed of nine members, and the proceedings are similar to those of supreme courts. When a vacancy occurs in the tribunal, the position is eagerly sought.

—A game of football is to be played on OAC field this afternoon. It will be between the first and second teams. In order to even matters up, all the first team subs and Coach McFadden will be in the lineup of the second team. The second eleven is already a strong aggregation, and with the strength added by the subs and the coach will give the first team men an interesting struggle. Moores, Cooper, Espey, and several other second team men have done some surprising stunts on the field in recent practices, and all the neat plays in the game of this afternoon will not lie with the senior eleven. Indeed, the second team men above mentioned with Rumbaugh, Anderson, Dunlap, and some others are pressing the contest close for places in the present team. Today's game begins at three o'clock, and undoubtedly will be interesting to see. The band will be in attendance. Admission 15 cents.

—The Clement-Keefer Dramatic company is playing a three nights engagement at the Corvallis opera house. The opening bill Thursday was "A Mountain Romance," a pretty story of mining life that gave Mr. Lloyd opportunity for good work, which he fully and faithfully met. Most of the other parts were well sustained, and the performance as a whole was very creditable. The bill last night was "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," and tonight "The Resurrection," a powerful play that ran with immense success in New York last winter, is to be presented. The story in "The Resurrection" is laid in Russia and the question of whether the heroine of the play is to be sent to the mines of Siberia forms an intensely interesting feature of the plot. The play was produced for the first time last year, its production in New York being with such eminent people as Joseph Haworth and Blanche Walsh in the leading roles.

Lost.

Thirty head of sheep, supposed to have strayed from my farm five miles south of Corvallis. Branded figure 2 on the hip; marked with crop and split in left ear and half under slope in right ear. A suitable reward will be paid for information that will lead to their recovery.

Walter Smith, Corvallis.

NEXT SATURDAY.

University of Washington and OAC Men to Play Football in Corvallis.

Almost before they are aware of it, Corvallisites will have opportunity to see a big game of football on OAC field. An agreement was reached by wire Thursday morning for a game between the teams of the University of Washington and Oregon Agricultural College to be played at Corvallis next Saturday, the 17th inst. It is an early season game, but the schedules for each team were so filled for the month of November that the only open date that remained for each was next Saturday, and after a brief telegraphic correspondence negotiations ended Thursday in a decision, to play the game as above stated.

But little is known here of the relative strength of the two teams. They met in Seattle at the beginning of last season, and the college team was defeated in a score of 17 to 6. The larger score of the Washington men was made by two place kicks, counting five points each. One of the kicks was made by Speidell in the last moments of the last half, the call of time coming but a minute later. OAC men were all inexperienced then, many of them having been in but a single game, while nearly all were playing their first season under a coach. Pilkington, one of the most formidable players in the team was not in the game on account of a sprained ankle, and Nash was entirely out of condition by reason of a threatened attack of pneumonia. In spite of all these handicaps, it was by good luck and good kicking of Speidell that the score looked best to the Washington men.

How the two teams will make it in the coming game is a question that it will take a week to determine. In the main OAC men are experienced players now, while last year they were raw. The Seattle team may be equally experienced. Neither have had time to develop ultimate strength so early in the season. The meeting will be the third of its kind between the two aggregations. The first occurred six years ago, when the Washington men were defeated in a score of 17 to 0 on OAC field, by which event the OAC men won the Northwest intercollegiate championship. The players on OAC team then were, McAllister, center, Elgin and Bodine, guards, Thurston and Walters, tackles, Stimpson and McBride, ends, Holgate and Scoggins, halfbacks, Kruse quarter, and Gault, fullback. Nobody knows yet what OAC's completed lineup in next Saturday's game will be.

PRICE THEY PAY.

For Kegs of Beer—Two Jails—Two Sentences—A Trial.

There was a short trial in the justice court Thursday. The defendant are Joseph Day and Ed Kizer, charged with assault and battery. Their offense was the part they played in an affair north of the saw mill in which two young men en route in a buggy to Gus Hardings were taken out and beaten.

In the trial the lads were defended by F. P. Morgan, and Deputy Attorney Bryson appeared for the State. There was no jury, and the question of guilt or innocence rested with Justice Holgate. A conviction resulted, and a fine of $10 each was imposed. Neither had the money with which to meet the fine and both were sent to the county jail for five days.

Both have just completed serving a sentence of 10 days for drunken and disorderly conduct, resulting from the same affair, in which, by the way a keg of beer figured. The boys first drank the beer and, then got into trouble. The officer discovered that Blacksmith Austin supplied the beer, and arrested him for it, on the ground that the lads were minors. Austin pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to pay a heavy fine. At first he went to jail, but after a day or two there, paid the balance.

After all, it was the beer that made the fools of the boys, and that was incidentally the cause of the trouble. Of course the beer did not seek the boys, but without the intervention of Austin or somebody else willing to violate law they could not have obtained it for the giving of intoxicants to minors is forbidden. The 10 days service of the boys in the city jail and their added five days yet to be served in the county jail is the fruit of the completed incident. It would appear to the ordinary citizen under the circumstances that whenever men are caught supplying intoxicants to minors, the law should be applied quickly, impartially and severely, regardless of the name of the man, his pedigree, his standing or his business.

A term each in two jails for two boys of about 18 or 19 years is one of the pathetic things of life. Boys that ought to be in school or college learning the things necessary to good citizenship, serving one term after another behind steel bars is a source of deep grief to their parents, of keen regret to all good people and ought to be a source of intense humiliation to themselves. Yet they wanted beer and they got it, and the two terms in jail is the consequence. Their plight is their own making and their punishment no more than they deserve. Still from their standpoint, it would look like two terms behind steel bars and the shame and humiliation that go therewith are a mighty price to pay for their hour with the keg of beer.

Two boys, two courts, two sentences and two jails.—That is what men who hand beer out to minors bring to a community.
