TWO LETTERS.

Farmer to Professor and the Answer - Chittim Pest.

Editor TIMES:

A few days ago we found a young chittim tree on our farm covered with a peculiar white scale. I sent a piece of bark to OAC. Enclosed is Prof. Cordley's reply:

If it is anything like as bad as it's name it must be a holy terror. Should your stray printer meet it in a dark and lonely canyon behind Alsea it may go hard with him.

George Armstrong.

Corvallis, Oct. 9, 1903.

Prof. Cordley's letter is as follows:

Mr. George Armstrong,

The insect pest on Chittim bark, which you sent, proves it to be one of the scale insects known as Chianaspis Salicis-Nigre. It is a somewhat common species of scale insect, widely distributed in the United States and Southern Europe and occurs, as the name indicates, most abundantly upon willows. It has also been reported on poplars, dogwood, service berry and several other species of trees; never, however upon Chittim bark until last summer when Prof. Lake found it upon a single specimen in his journeys in the Cascade mountains.

Probably the only practical thing to do to prevent the spread of this pest, now that Chittim is becoming so valuable, is to cut down and burn such trees as are found to be badly infested. Of course it would be possible to destroy the scale by spraying the trees with kerosene emulsion or whale oil soap solution but under present conditions this probably would not be practical.

SUES THE CITY.

For Ten Thousand Dollars Damages—What a bad Sidewalk did for Albany.

The importance of keeping sidewalks in good repair is frequently emphasized. When walks are dilapidated, a pedestrian may at any time break a limb, or sustain other injuries. The result always makes a good case for damages against the city. Albany is up against it in such a suit now. E. A. Truelove, a Southern Pacific bridge carpenter injured himself on a bad walk in Albany, March 29th, and he has sued the city for $10,000 damages.

His complaint alleges that the city of Albany "willfully, wrongfully, unlawfully, carelessly and knowingly neglected to keep that portion of the sidewalk on the east side of Lyon street between Second and Third streets in said city in repair and allowed dangerous holes to remain open in the walk without guards, barricades or lights. It alleges that on the night of March 29th, the plaintiff without fault or negligence on his part stepped into a hole in the sidewalk mentioned above and was forcibly thrown down. That he thus received great bodily injury. The complaint states that because of his accident the plaintiff is incapacitated to do manual labor, that he has been to great expense for medical treatment, that he has suffered and still suffers great pain and distress of mind and body "all of which is to his great damage in the sum of $10,000."

The case will come up for trial at the fall term of the Linn county circuit court.

Two houses to rent—one six and one even rooms, with barn. 15 sheep to let on shares. S. H. Moore.

To Close Today.

From three to four o'clock this, Saturday afternoon, all Corvallis business houses will close on account of the game of football between the OAC and the University of Washington elevens to take place on OAC field. The determination to do so is the result of an agreement reached to that effect yesterday morning. The business men took the action at the request of the student body at the college, whose committee circulated an article of agreement which no house refused to sign. The student body requested publication of this notice so that all who desire to make purchases or transact business may have ample notification of business places to close.

THEIR RALLY.

College Students Stormed the Town, Music, Noise and Speeches.

A football rally, the like of which was never before seen in Corvallis, occurred Thursday night. A display of enthusiasm and college spirit that bodes all manner of good things for OAC was manifested in a way that left no room for doubt that it was genuine. Speaking of the demonstration, Coach McFadden said he had seen no display of the kind to equal it since he left Stanford after a victorious athletic season three years ago.

The demonstration was a faithful duplication of the usual political outbursts in times of presidential elections. The student body at the college convened in the Armory at seven o'clock, and headed by the college band marched down town parading Main and other streets, assembling finally at the court house. A vast number of townspeople followed them, and when they all got there, the circuit court room was far too small to accommodate the crowd. All the seats were occupied, the people stood in the aisles, corridors and vestibules, and the overflow of the huge crowd extended into the halls below and out into the court house yard. It has been a long time since so large a crowd was in the court house, and none ever there was more noisy. Compared with the demonstration, a similar rally of last year was as a pigmy to a giant.

The exercises comprised music by the college band and addresses by several citizens, students and others. B. W. Johnson was a graceful and accomplished presiding officer. W. E. Yates made an enthusiastic speech, that provoked frequent rounds of applause, and in a brief address, Dr. Withcombe inspired the young folks to explosions of enthusiasm. Coach McFadden was another of the speakers and his remarks added much to his deserved popularity. A brief address was also made by W. G. Emery. After the regular program was over, there were calls for Captain Bert Pilkington. Three cheers and a tiger for him finally brought the young man to the platform, where he made a brief address. Roderic Nash was also called out, and he made a graceful response. There were similar calls for Root, Williams, Abraham and other members of the football team, but most of them, as the boys say, "took a sneak," and escaped the ordeal. If the success of the rally means anything, the OAC football men have a fair wind and a smooth sea before them. No such college spirit was ever manifest before at old OAC.

Summons.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Benton County.
Sarah S. Ball, Plaintiff vs
Cyrus Perham, Ed Perham and Lona Chamberlain, Defendants.
To Cyrus Perham, Ed Perham and Lona Chamberlain, the above named defendants In the name of the State of Oregon, you and each of you are hereby summoned and required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled suit, in the above entitled court, on or before the 21st day of November, 1903, said day being the last day of the time prescribed in the order for publication of this summons made by the county judge of Benton county, Oregon, (which said order is hereinafter referred to) to wit:

On or before six weeks from the day of first publication hereof.
And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as herein required, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the above entitled court for the relief demanded in her said complaint, namely for a decree determining all conflicting and adverse claims, interests and estates in and to all that part of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of Section 32 Twp. 10 S. R. 5 W., Will. Mer. which lies north of the Alameda Writman branch or creek, in Benton county, Oregon; that defendants have no claim, interest or estate therein, and that defendants be forever barred and enjoined from asserting any claim whatever in and to said premises adverse to plaintiff; and for general relief and costs and disbursements of said suit.

This summons is published in the Corvallis Times once a week for six consecutive weeks, beginning with the issue of October 10th, 1903, and ending with the issue of November 21, 1903, in pursuance of an order made by the Hon. Virgil E. Waters, county judge of Benton county, Oregon, (being the county where the above entitled suit is pending in the above entitled court) dated October 9, 1903. Date of first publication, October 10, 1903.

D) Good—It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: My good friend cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Eggs 25 cents at Turner store.
