

SIX TO NAUGHT.

OREGON MEN SQUARE THE SCORE WITH WASHINGTONIANS AT FOOTBALL.

With one Point to Spare—Seattle Beat OAC Five to Naught—OAC Bested Washington Agricultural College Six to Naught—Wednesday's Game.

Six to naught is the score by which the OAC football team bested the Washington Agricultural College eleven of Pullman, Washington, in a game of football on OAC field Wednesday afternoon. The first half was scoreless, and was mostly played in Oregon territory between the 25 and 50 yard lines, though the Washingtonians were never in real striking distance of the Oregon goal. The touchdown was made in the second half in a brilliant 20 yard run by Root, the big Oregon half, who brushed three Washington players out of his way before he finally crossed the goal line. It was the net result of 55 yards of yardage made by Captain Pilkington in two brilliant runs, a long punt by the same formidable player, on which Copper in a beautiful coup captured the ball for OAC on Washington's 25 yard line, followed by five yards of gain by Bowers and Copper, and the final irresistible rush of Root for the Washington goal. It was followed by bedlam in the grandstand and on the sidelines, and a rush of the Oregon players and rooters for the big half back, who was lifted bodily to the shoulders of his friends and carried about the field. After the touchdown Pilkington kicked a goal, and when the play was renewed, the Oregon men started again with a steady step for the Washington goal and got to the latter's 25 yard line when a fumble by Williams gave the ball to the Washingtonians. After that the ball surged backward and forward between Washington's 25 and 50 yard lines when the game closed enthusiasm broke loose among the 500 students at the college who carried the Oregon players to their dressing rooms, and surrounded the Armory in a demonstration that lasted as long as there was a football man in hearing distance.

The game was replete with interest and abounded with good playing on both sides, particularly in defense work. The detail below shows many of the plays and by whom made, and in addition to these there should be mention of Bundy and von der Hellen at guard, Walker at center and Bowers and Abraham at tackles, whose work for Oregon was faithful always, and at times brilliant.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Von der Hellen kicked on and Washington was downed off 30 yard line. Washington got away for seven yards, tried line for two downs without gains and then punted to Williams, who was downed on Oregon's 45 yard line. Pilkington bucked two yards, Bowers one and Washington held for downs on Oregon's 50 yard line. Washington took off four yards and Oregon held for downs. After two downs Pilkington punted and the ball was stopped for Washington on her 45 yard line, Pullman clipped off five yards and Oregon was penalized five yards. Washington clipped off eight and five yards and then added three and five yards to their gains. Two trial at line netted nothing and then Lobaugh, Washington's left half got away for 15 yards, Oregon stopped Washington for losses in the next two downs, and Washington punted to Williams, who was downed on Oregon's fifteen yard line. Pilkington returned the punt and Washington was stopped on her 45 yard line. Washington tried for no gains and Williams received her punt on Oregon's 20 yard line. From this time on, throughout the first half the play was a kicking game, Pilkington always returning Washington's punt at once and Washington always trying for two downs with little or no yardage and followed it up with a punt. Oregon gained steadily by the exchange of punts, even with what yardage Washington made on two downs, and the ball gradually advanced until Oregon was finally ready to punt from her 35 yard line when time was called.

THE SECOND HALF.

Washington kicked to Oregon's 10 yard line and Pilkington carried the ball 25 yards before he could be stopped. Oregon made one assault on Washington's line for a small gain, and then Pilkington got away for a 30 yard run, laying the pigskin down on Washington's 45 yard line. Copper fumbled and Washington took the ball and got away for five and then for four yards. The next two formations were stopped for losses and Washington made a long punt to Oregon's 10 yard line, but the ball was run in 25 yards. Pilkington punted, and it was Washington's ball on her 45 yard line. In three downs Washington lost yardage, and Pilkington punted to Washington and the ball stopped on her 35 yard line. Washington tried three more formations and it was Oregon's ball again on downs and Root went around end for three yards and fumbled to Washington on her 35 yard line. Washington tried end for no gains and fumbled to Rumbaugh who picked up the ball and skipped out for five yards. Pilkington punted over the Washington goal line, and Washington took a free kick from her 25 yard line. Oregon was stopped on Pullman's 50 yard line and Pilkington punted. Washington, from her 25 yard line tried line for no gain and netted 10 yards on quarter back kick. Another kick of the same sort netted five yards, but when the play was tried again it was stopped with Abraham on the ball. Pilkington punted, and Copper captured the ball for Oregon on Washington's 30 yard line. Then Oregon tactics were changed, and an assault of the Washington line began. Bowers was sent through for four yards and Copper skirted for three more. Pilkington bucked two and then Root got away and tore through the 20 yards stretch for the only touchdown of the game. Pilkington kicked goal. Washington kicked to Root, and Pilkington punted. Spagle of Oregon captured the ball, and Williams rounded ends for five yards, but fumbled to Washington on her 25 yard line. The rest of the game was an exchange of punts between the 25 and 50 yard lines in Washington territory.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Graham & Wortham.

Strayed.

ON ONE CONDITION

GOVERNOR CHAMBERLAIN WILL CALL AN EXTRA SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Members Must Make a Pledge That Legislation Will Be Confined to Correction of the Budget in the Tax Law.

(Portland Oregonian.)

Governor Chamberlain will not call a special session of the Oregon legislature this time unless a delegation representative of senators and representatives call on him and give him a positive promise that only legislation dealing with the error in the Phelps tax law will be enacted at the proposed special session. The Governor does not wish a special session. He said so in an interview in his office at the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday, before he left for Salem. It looked for the first time yesterday that a deadlock between Governor Chamberlain and the legislature on the subject of the special session is extremely probable.

In emphatic tones, the governor stated his position. "I must first be fully satisfied that the legislators will only pass legislation dealing with the Phelps tax law," he declared. "A delegation of the kind I have named must first call and see me stating what they propose to do in the matter. If they will not bind themselves to a definite promise, I will not call the special session called for. Now, understand me, I do not wish to be thought guilty of want of respect for the legislature. Far from it. But the best interests of the people of the state must be protected in the matter of new legislation. I do not believe in tinkering with the tax laws. A tax commission should be appointed to take up the subject. I do not know what a body of men may do when they get together, and I do not propose to subject the state to the heavy expense of a prolonged session."

Then under the present conditions you are not in favor of calling the extra session?" was asked. "I am not."

"What are the people of the different counties to do with regard to the collection of taxes if no special session is called?" was asked. "Oh, the people will get along. Of course there will be some inconveniences, but we must suffer that sort of thing when we make mistakes. Now I am willing to bear my portion of the blame. The governor has only five days after the session closes in which to decide upon bills. I had the assistance of one of the most widely known judges in this state, whose name I cannot give, and also the assistance of my private secretary, who is also a lawyer, and it was impossible within the five days to go over the different bills, as closely as we should have liked. We did our best."

"Only under the condition I have named shall I call an extra session. Nothing must be touched except the tax law. I don't care if all the legislators kick about the matter. They can just kick, unless they give me the promise I wish. I am confident I have the people of Oregon behind me in the position I take. You see, I have been through the state and know what the public sentiment is."

THEIR MEETING.

Corvallisites tell of the Albany Convention of the Y W C A—Man There.

Local representatives handed the Times for publication the following account of the late convention of the Y W C A held at Albany:

The twelfth annual convention of the young Women's Christian Association of Oregon met in Albany November 5-8. The ninety two delegates represented twelve of the colleges of the state, the Portland City Association, the state and American Committees.

Mrs. Louis Burke, chairman of the State Committee and also presiding officer of the convention gave a most comprehensive view of the work of the Association in the state showing the growth and power of the organization, also the broad field for harvest. The secretary of the Portland Association, Miss Abbe McElroy in her address "The City Young Woman," spoke of the origin of the work in cities as the result of the surge of young women and girls toward the great centers. In the multitude of young women coming to the city very few are capable of taking up any special line of work, they have little money and, when work is not found drift into wrong. To prevent this step downward, the association with its "Traveler's Aid," and "Employment Bureau," as well as by its educational classes preparing for useful service, comes and lent a helping hand. Just 20,000 young women in Portland alone, are within the scope of effort; where there is a membership of 1,200 in the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. W. J. Honeyman who visited the London association this year compared the state of life in London and of our own state.

Rev. J. M. Deas of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, Seattle led the class in bible study. Since he is an exceptionally good Bible student the committee was very fortunate in securing his services.

Many other speakers were present whose addresses were highly instructive. Miss Elizabeth Bonn of Portland was in charge of the musical program.
