He was summoned from there to give testimony in the case of the State versus Wagner, for assault, tried this week in the Benton county circuit court. Mr. Rowland was one of the most important witnesses for the prosecution, having been first on the scene when the trouble between Wagner and Kiger occurred.

—A verdict of acquittal was the outcome of the case of the State versus W. H. Wagner, for alleged assault on the person of R. C. Kiger. The case was on trial in the circuit court all day Wednesday, and was sharply fought. The taking of testimony occupied all the latter part of the forenoon and a portion of the afternoon. The argument was concluded at an evening session and the jury retired about nine o'clock. It was two o'clock in the morning when a verdict was reached. The case was the outgrowth of trouble that Mr. Wagner and Mr. Kiger had on the Island several weeks ago.

—The William Castle farm of 109 acres has changed hands. The buyer is John Pimm, who came to Philomath from Kansas a couple of years ago and purchased a part of the Hacker place. Subsequently the latter farm was sold by Mr. Pimm, and the purchase of the Castle farm at the price of $3,500 is the result. The change of location by Mr. Pimm is in order to get nearer town for educational purposes. The new deal in which Mr. Pimm is a buyer was conducted by Henry Ambler, as were both former trades, is testimonial of the good relations that exist between the well known real estate man and his clients.

—E. M. Cramer, of the organ and wagon factory, of Corvallis, accompanied by Mr. Montgomery, an experienced saw mill man, who is to have charge of the proposed saw mill plant, says the Albany Democrat, met with citizens at the club rooms last night and discussed the matter in a thorough manner. In order to secure the desired addition to Albany's manufacturing interests it will be necessary to raise a bonus of $2,500 to cover the purchase of a site and the shipment of the plant here and secure security for an indebtedness of $5,000 before the plant can be moved. The plant is said to inventory at over $19,000, at half the original cost, making a valuable one. F. J. Miller, C. H. Stewart and C. E. Sox were appointed a committee to go to Corvallis next Monday to make a thorough investigation of the plant and file on it, and then to report to another meeting of the Club.

—A large number of Polk county people chartered a Monmouth and Independence motor train in which they came over the S. P. track to witness the Oregon-Nevada football game. C.'s left half, was among the ardent Polk county rooters for the local team.

—The world looked fair to Corvallis people Friday morning. The sun shone brightly and they did not experience that extremely tired feeling which has been too common after their team had been in a football game. Yesterday morning it was different, and there was a most agreeable cordiality between everybody, excepting, possibly among those who did not allow their local pride to overcome the desire for gain, and who bet on the Nevada team.

—Tuesday evening's session of the Degree of Honor was an unusually interesting meeting. The lodge received a visit from Mrs. Margaret Baker, grand deputy. G. Clark, Miss Hattie Spencer, Mrs. Sheasgreen and Taylor Porter. After the programme refreshments were served.

—One of the graduates from O. A. C. is Will F. Herrin of San Francisco. He was in the same graduating class with Mrs. Clara Harding and others of the class of '73, and is well remembered by old Corvallis residents. Mr. Herrin has been for several years the general attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and in that capacity has been on the pay rolls of the company with a salary of $30,000 per year. At the same time he had the privilege of acting as attorney for the Spring Valley Company, one of the largest corporations of San Francisco, and also as attorney for the Lux & Miller estates, involving millions of money. His earnings for several years have aggregated $85,000 to $49,000 per year. Recently the Southern Pacific advanced his salary to $70,000 per year. His salary now is larger than that of any other man in the west. It is nearly one and a half times that of the president of the United States and almost nine times as great as the salary of a cabinet officer.

SUED THE SHERIFF.

But Another was Real Defendant—Tried this Week in Circuit Court.

One of the principal cases at this term of circuit court was that of Davis and Schryder versus Sheriff Burnett. It was a suit for recovery of $210 damages, alleged to have resulted from the replevin by the sheriff of 325 head of sheep taken from James L. Lewis, acting for Davis and Schryder.

The sheep were originally the property of a man named Staats who resided at Monmouth. The Polk county bank had a mortgage on them. In spite of the mortgage Staats sold the sheep to Lewis who drove them into Benton county, enroute to Davis and Schryder in Linn county. While the sheep were in Benton, Sheriff Burnett replevined them in behalf of the Polk county bank, holder of the mortgage, and the band was taken back to Polk county, and kept there for a time in a pasture. After that Staats paid off the mortgage at the bank, and then the sheep were released and turned over to the purchasers. The latter then claimed that a number of sheep had been lost, the price was not as good, and that on account of poor pasturage there had been a shrinkage in the value of the flock. They figured out that the aggregate of all these items was $210, and brought suit against Sheriff Burnett for that amount. Of course the real defendant was the Polk county bank, Sheriff Burnett having taken the precaution of securing a proper indemnity bond covering such a contingency.

The case came up for trial at noon Monday. All that day and all of the following day was consumed in hearing evidence and argument in the case. The jury went out about nine o'clock, and it took three hours to reach a verdict. The jury found that the defendant should pay plaintiff $39, which amount had been tendered formerly, to cover the loss of 12 sheep, admitted as having disappeared while the band was in the bank's custody.

THROUGH MUCH TRIBULATION.

Two Holy Rollers Receive Unwilling Baptism in Five Rivers.

Wednesday news reached Corvallis of a misfortune which came to Frank Hurt and Creffield, the holy rolling apostle, who so suddenly came into world wide notoriety. The men left here Thursday their destination, as stated by them in Alesia valley, being the Yachats country, where they expected to carry on the religious work of which has recently received so much attention. Their conveyance was a buggy drawn by a single horse. Friday, they passed through Alesia Valley, and on Sunday crossed over the Preacher Creek mountain and down onto Five Rivers. An unfortunate feature of the conditions in that locality as well as in Lobster, is that although the county roads frequently cross both streams, there is but one bridge on either. This fact is what led to the misfortune which befell the travelers mentioned. It is not certain at which ford they experienced their difficulty, but at one of the crossings of Five Rivers, the men, horse and conveyance were washed down by the swollen stream. In a brief time all the detachable parts of the entire outfit became separated. After being carried down something like 200 yards the men managed to reach the bank. A little below, the horse regained his footing and clambered to a place of comparative safety. The vehicle, tumbling over and over, was swept on to a distance of a quarter of a mile below the ford. The horse, with much difficulty was taken up a precipitous bank and through a tangle of undergrowth to the road. A portion of the buggy was dragged from the stream, the only portion recovered being the gear and springs. The top, box and shafts, it seems, were wholly lost. When the Fisher-Alesia mail carrier passed over his route Monday the remains of the buggy occupied a trail which he travels to avoid two of the fords. The settlers in the vicinity were rendering the unfortunate travelers what assistance they could to put them on their journey.

Next Monday to Tuesday noon Dr. Lowe, the well known oculoptician will be at the Occidental Hotel in Corvallis. Have him test your eyes for glasses. His glasses are good glasses.

THE CITY BEATEN.

Cannot Punish Those who Give Liquor to Minors, Except in Case of Saloonists.

A decision in the circuit court this week seems to indicate that the city of Corvallis is without authority to provide punishment for those who give liquor to minors, except in the case of saloon keepers. Last summer Mrs. Mary Smith was convicted in the city police court of giving liquor to minors, and the case was appealed to the circuit court.

The appeal was heard by Judge Benson yesterday. The appellants pleaded that the city charter did not confer authority on the council to pass an ordinance providing punishment where other than a liquor dealer supplied minors with intoxicants. The court held with the appellants and the city was defeated.

Fortunately, there are state penalties for such offenses, and they are much more severe than those prescribed under the city ordinance involved. Corvallis police officers may at any time invoke the state authority for a proper punishment of the offense.

The city was also skinned in the Blumberg skin case, Jacob Blumberg was arrested and fined for keeping hides in his place next door south of J. H. Harris' establishment, which hides were in the nature of a nuisance. His case was appealed and the circuit court held that the terms of the ordinance were not sufficiently specific in character to apply to the Blumberg case. The cases were argued for the city by F. P. Morgan and for appellants by E. R. Bryson.

Nov 30th till noon the next day Dr. Lowe, the well known eye specialist will be in Corvallis.
