

LOCAL LORE.

(Advertisements in this column charged for the rate of 1 cent per line.)

—Wheat 73.
—Homer Davenport, tonight.
—Wiedemann's at the Opera House all next week.

A large shipment of apples, grown in the Meeker orchard, left by boat yesterday morning for Portland.

—Ernest Miller went to Independence this week where he has accepted a position in the S. P. office there.

—The cartoons to be drawn by Davenport in his lecture in the Armory tonight are to be given away to holders of reserved seats.

—The reserved seat sale shows that a big audience will greet Homer Davenport, the world-famed cartoonist in the Armory tonight.

—Press notices from all Valley towns are loud in their praise of the Wiedemann Company and its performances. The company presents a bill every night next week.

—The republican congressional convention for this district happens at Salem Wednesday, and the state convention at Portland, Thursday.

—Theatre-goers are expecting much of next weeks visit of the Wiedemann Company. The company played last week in Albany to crowded houses, and the newspaper reports of the performances are extremely favorable.

—Theo Wellsher, whom a telegram called to Hoquiam Washington to be at the bedside of his mother, arrived home yesterday. The condition of his mother is improved, and though for some time the worse was expected, there is now hope of a recovery.

—The fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Radir was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Graham Wednesday evening. The couple was married in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania April 6, 1854, and later became pioneer residents of the vicinity of Corvallis. As a maiden Mrs. Radir was Miss Margaret Leethman and is a native of the Emerald Isle. Mr. Radir is a native of Germany. The anniversary was celebrated with supper and a subsequent period of social conversation, in which many old time friends participated.

—Great sympathy was expressed by bystanders on Main street Thursday afternoon for a stranger, who was in deep grief. The evidence of the mental and heart agony through which he was passing was observable by everyone. He was a traveling agent for a California nursery. About mid-afternoon he received a telegram from San Francisco, announcing the death of his wife. Five minutes before, he had dropped a letter in the local post-office, addressed to her. Later, he called at the office for the letter, explaining through sobs and tears that it was no use now, and the incident moved deeply those gathered in the vestibule.

—City authorities have been bothered for several days with the problem of what to do with rubbish. A general cleaning up is to be inaugurated when things dry up a little, and the town is now afoot to build a chute off the high bank to the river near Dixon Creek and from there drop rubbish into the Willamette. If this arrangement is effected, then there will remain the dilemma of what to do with dead animals. In the past, the city has had various burial places. Things have developed however to make all of them unavailable. A dead horse was started on the way to one of them the other day, and when half way there the procession was halted by the owner and ordered back to town. For the present the animal that dies in danger of being denied decent burial.

—Mordant A. Goodnough, at present director of the piano department at the Oregon Agricultural College, has resigned his position at that institution, his resignation to take effect at the end of this term. Mr. Goodnough has been elected principal of the piano department of the Western Academy of Music, Portland, Oregon, and will assume his duties at that place next fall. While his friends will be pleased to hear of his good fortune in securing such a position of distinction, still it will be mingled with regret on their part, inasmuch as Mr. Goodnough is a pianist and teacher that it will be hard to duplicate in this part of the country. His mother and sister will continue their residence in this city and Mr. Goodnough will make frequent trips to Corvallis in the interest of his music business.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

One Used Shotgun and the Other a Revolver—Happened in Aلس.

Our unusually quiet valley was thrown into a state of excitement Tuesday morning by the report that a battle royal had been fought out on Mill Creek, with A. D. Huard and E. M. Kimball as combatants.

During the skirmish, Huard relied upon a double barrel shotgun while Kimball yielded a .38-caliber revolver, 3 1/2 inch barrel. Huard took first shot at about 30 steps range, the shot taking effect in Kimball's face and chest. Kimball returned the fire. When Huard fired the other barrel, the charge sprinkled Kimball about the abdomen, hands and forearm.

Kimball continued to fire until his gun was empty, when both finding themselves out of ammunition, they retreated in good order. Huard was unhurt and Kimball is not seriously injured, although eight shot took effect in the face. Bad blood has existed for some time and all diplomatic and other relations have been cast off long ago. The trouble is over territory both claim and a road which Kimball wants to cut across the corner of Huard's place. No complaint will be charged by either of the parties.

The battle took place in front of Huard's house on a vacant portion of Huard's place. The men had engaged in a war of words a few minutes before on Kimball's land. Both went to their houses about two hundred yards, and later Kimball started over Huard's land to where a neighbor was cutting wood. Huard emerged with a shotgun and Kimball turned to walk away. Kimball turned his face to look back just in time to receive the charge of shot from Huard's gun. The blood ran down Kimball's face and is believed to be the cause of the latter's poor marksmanship.

TOO MUCH MAIL.

By Albany Route—Change of Arrangement Under Consideration.

F. W. Vaile, assistant superintendent of the railway mail service, with headquarters at Portland was in Corvallis for a few hours Wednesday morning. His trip had chiefly to do with the new Albany-Corvallis mail route. The volume of mail carried by that route has become so great that something of a problem has arisen in handling it. Ten big sacks of matter are not infrequent, constituting a weight far beyond what was expected and offering serious inconvenience to the carrier. It is possible that arrangements will be made for less urgent mail like public documents and other franked mail to be held in Portland for the morning westside instead of coming out on the east-side the evening before.

Mr. Vaile is the man who organized the mail service in the Philippines over which he presided as Director of Posts for three years.

TO HOLD A MEETING.

Of Stockholders of Independent Telephone Company Wednesday Night.

Next Wednesday evening, in the county court room, there is to be a meeting of stockholders of the proposed independent telephone company. The session will not be public, but all present stockholders, and all who expect to subscribe for stock, are urged to be present. The election of a board of directors, and many other matters vital to the new organization are to be considered.

Mr. DeVarney, representing the Kansas City company whose propositions will be the basis for the new organization, will attend the meeting. He was in Corvallis Thursday. He is asking for a franchise for a similar system in Albany, and the matter is to be decided by the Albany council next Tuesday night.

The fifty shares of stock required by Mr. DeVarney as a condition for his company to build a system in Corvallis have all been taken. Some local citizens are anxious for Corvallis people to own a majority of the stock and control the company. An article urging that course appears in another column. Mr. DeVarney is in for that arrangement if Corvallisites prefer it. Or, he will sell a controlling interest any time, or the entire interest of his company to local stockholders at construction cost, plus six per cent interest. His plan is to put in up-to-date, express phones, not more than two on a line, so arranged that only the phone of the party wanted will ring when the central office calls.

The whole plan, with the business questions and facts incident to it, will be up for consideration at the meeting to be held next Wednesday night. One share of stock costs $25. Every Corvallisite who has subscribed for one, and all those who intend to do so, are invited and urged to be present.
