GEORGE WALLACE.

Former Resident of Corvallis Buried at Silver Lake.

The following account of the illness and death of George Wallace is taken from the Silver Lake Oregonian: "George Wallace passed away at the home of Columbus Porter a few miles north of this city, Monday, May 16, at the hour of 11 p. m. of heart failure. He had been in rather frail health for some time, but his condition was not considered serious until a few hours before his death which came suddenly.

"Mr. Wallace was born in Wexford county, Ireland, February 5, 1849. He crossed the ocean at the age of 13 years with his uncle and located in South America until he reached the age of 20, when he came to the United States and engaged in business until 1870 when he enlisted in the first U. S. cavalry taking part in the Apache and Moses wars. He was mustered out of service at Ft. Walla Walla, September, 1875. He then engaged in railroading until the time of his failing health in 1899; he was married to Miss Lota Kittridge, in Corvallis, Oregon, in 1886; he spent about three years in California for the benefit of his health. He came with his family to this valley in 1902, where he resided up to the time of his death. Mr. Wallace was a kind hearted man and made many friends in the community where he lived. The survivors are the wife, and daughter, Miss Vena. "The funeral services were held at the grave, the last resting place of George Wallace, in the Silver Lake cemetery. The address was delivered by Rev. Howard of the Baptist church.

THE GRANGERS.

What They did, and What was Done is Their Honor.

This week has been a busy one in Corvallis. Since Monday, the town has been practically in possession of the Oregon Grangers and they have been feasted and made much of by the whole city. Strange faces have filled the streets and bright badges have been much in evidence on all the thoroughfares.

Tuesday forenoon at ten o'clock the first meeting was called to order by State Master Leedy. Four important officers were absent and the offices were filled by appointment. Of the 56 delegates, 55 were present, which is considered quite a remarkable fact by those familiar with such meetings. Reports occupied the greater part of the forenoon Tuesday, and an invitation was extended the visitors by President Gatch, to attend chapel exercises and witness the battalion drill on the campus, the following day. The invitation was accepted.

Tuesday evening, at the college chapel, there was a program which included a speech of welcome on behalf of the city, by the mayor; a selection by the college orchestra; a welcoming address in the name of the Benton county granges, by Mrs. Mary J. Whitby; two violin solos by Ruthyn Turney, that were rendered in a masterly manner and elicited a prolonged storm of applause; responses by Judge R. P. Boise, of Salem, and Mrs. Clara Waldo of Macleay, which were well received. After the exercises the audience repaired to the Armory, where a reception was held and refreshments were served to 300 guests.

Wednesday forenoon was given over to the hearing of reports, and the afternoon was devoted to the election of officers. The latter are: Master, E. G. Leedy, Tigardville; overseer, J. Clem. Freewater; chaplain, O. Eaton, Oswego; lecturer Mrs. Clara B. Waldo, Macleay; steward, C. L. Shaw, Albany; assistant steward, W. A. Young, Clatskanie; treasurer, H. Hirschberg, Independence; secretary, Mrs. Mary Howard, Mulino; gatekeeper, S. N. Warfield, Alsea; ceres, Mrs. Roby Boyd, Beaverton; Pomona, Mrs. Anna Creswell, Gresham; Flora, Miss Lela West, Scappoose; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Ida M. Thorp, Gresham; member executive committee, Austin T. Buxton, Forest Grove; members legislative committee, J. Vorhees, Woodburn; W. M. Hilleray, Turner.

Wednesday evening, the visitors attended a lecture on good roads at the College chapel given by Prof. Hyde of Eugene. Thursday forenoon was devoted to routine work and the revision of by-laws, though the latter passed with only a few minor amendments. A report was passed, after a discussion of dormant granges, calling on county deputies to be more vigilant and efficient in their labor. During the afternoon there was an explanation of the unwritten work of the order. In the evening at Odd Fellows' hall, the fifth and sixth degrees were conferred on 114 members, and a banquet was enjoyed. It was the general verdict of the visitors that in the work of conferring the degrees, the ceremony was the most perfectly carried out of any similar ceremony in the history of the State Grange.

Yesterday forenoon was devoted to the report of the county deputies, and a resolution of condolence was passed in honor of the members who have died during the past year. The passing of the latter took on the nature of a memorial service, and an appropriate song was sung at the close. A rising vote, the first of the session, was taken, in which it was the voice of the convention that hearty thanks be extended the citizens of Corvallis, the people of the college, the daily papers of the state and all others who have in any way contributed to the pleasure or success of the 31st session of the State Grange. The was read at the forenoon session, an invitation from the mayor and the city council for the Grangers to hold their next convention in this city. The invitation was not prompted by selfish motive, but it was cited that in view of the pleasant relations established between the city and the visitors during their brief sojourn it would be fit and proper that the next session be held in this city. The convention closed last evening and most of the visitors will depart for their homes on today's trains.

THE CARNIVAL.

Opened Wednesday Night, and Many were There—A Successful

Wednesday night the Carnival of Nations opened at the Opera House, with the ladies of the Presbyterian church in charge. There was a large crowd present at the opening performance, and also at the Thursday and last night's meetings.

The programme Wednesday night included, the march of the nations, the crowning of the queen, Miss Mary Danneman, by J. W. Kilpack, music by the Corvallis orchestra and a vocal solo by Miss Lulu Spangler. There were "living pictures" that were very beautiful to behold. There were seven booths, presided over by attractive queens and sales ladies. In these booths one could purchase nearly any article desired, from a Japanese knick-knack to a dish of ice-cream. After the queen was crowned, the keys of the city were presented, and she was escorted to the throne by Misses Pauline Davis and Gladys Moore, her attendants.

Thursday night, there was a repetition of the march of nations, followed by two vocal solos and encores by Mrs. Norton of Albany, which were the gems of the evening, a vocal solo by Mr. Pruett, and the usual rush of business at the various booths. The crowd Thursday night was even larger than that of the opening night, and everyone enjoyed to the utmost the pleasures of the occasion. Last night was given over to the rose show, but the result of the competition for prizes is not known as the TIMES goes to press. The Presbyterian ladies are to be complimented as well as congratulated, on the success of the entire carnival.
