FROM LOWLY SOURCE

Interesting Light Thrown on the Foundations of Large Egertunes of Present Aristocrats by an Old City Directory,

Death as a leveler is not in the same class with an old directory. The wonder is if on the shelves of the mighty of Manhattan island there is a copy of a little book which has just found its way to Chicago. In these days when those in high places seek the assistance of the librarian of congress to get a tight and exclusive grip on their names, it would seem to the humbler persons that a perusal of the pages of this little directory of New York of the year 1822 should teach a pricesless lesson of humility, says the Chicago Evening Post. It was in an old book shop in New York that John C. King, of Chicago, brought to light the volume in which are found the names and the occupations of the dwellers in the metropolis before the last century had turned its first quarter. What an opportunity is here given for those who wish to look back to the rock whence they were hewn and the pit-from whence they were digged.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the elder, has invoked the aid of the law to make her Mrs. Vanderbilt. She will have none of the Cornelius end of it. The shade of the original Cornelius doubtless will look disapprovingly on this action of its greatgranddaughter-in-law. The original Cornelius was proud of his name— both ends of it. He asked permission of the city of New York to paint it in full and in large letters so that his fellow-citizens might read it. Permission was granted, and the father of all the Vanderbilts proudly wrote on each side of his wagon this legend:

Cornelius Vanderbilt, licensed cart-

Cornelius has a place with his brother and cousin Vanderbilts on page 452 of this old-time register of Manhattan citizens. Like Cornelius, the cartman, the three Jacobs and the three Johns of the Vanderbilt family found no good reason for hiding their names and their professions from an inquiring world. As good craftsmen should, they believed in hanging their signs on the outer walls, and thus they respectively appeared: Blacksmith, painter, shoemaker, carpenter, sexton, grocer.

Wild animal life was abundant in the United States in 1822. There was no necessity then for the existance of protective societies for four-footed game The members of the Astor family should adopt some furred forest creature as their crest, for a glance at the ancient volume in hand shows that three Astors of that year were engaged in skin sales, or, to put it more elegantly, the sale of skins in New York city.

Mr. Longworth, who compiled the directory of the city of New York 80 years ago, is to be complimented on the general appearance of the letter press. Ile apparently, however, allowed one typographical error to creep into his Everybody who keeps in touch th the throbbingly interesting does of the New Yorkers of this date ws that the favorite Christian ne of the Lorillard family is Pierre. at name is the pride of the Lorilis. It is said that the directory n allowed the original Lorillard to into the book as plain Peter. The never has been questioned. They always have been, as it were, "up to souff." "Tobacconist, 44 Chatham street," appears after the name of Peter Lorillard in this record of fourscore years ago.

But there are other names in this book of the olden time. Good old Peter Cooper is set down as a mason, living in Bedford street. Aaron Burr, counselor, had an office at 41 Nassau street, which is still a lawyers' location and his house was at 22 Reed street. Not far from Burr was situated the office of the son of Alexander Hamilton, whom Burr had killed at Weehawken 19 years before. The Roosevelts, the Goelets, the DePeysters, the Stuyvesants, the Kermits, the Kips and the Schuylers have places on the directory pages, but, curiously enough, there is only one Vanrens-

Newfoundland is probably the only country in the world where venison, salted or fresh, is a staple article of diet for the masses. The coast folk make their plans with method and deliberation, says Outing. From the harbors where they reside they go in their boats to the rivers and fords which strike into the interior. When navigation is no longer possible they debark and continue on foot to the deer country. They carry barrels filled with salt and sometimes go in large companies When the rendezvous is reached they camp. Then they ambush themselves along a promising "lead" or deer track. armed with a long, six-foot muzzle-load ing sealing guns, which they charge with about "eight fingers" of coarse gunpowder and "slugs" of lead, fragments of iron or bits of rusty nails, whichever they may have. They fire point blank into a herd of caribou, as it passes, and being usually good shots. contrive to kill almost anything they aim at, or to wound it so badly with these dreadful missiles that it soon collapses. Then they skin and cut up the meat, for these men know a little of every trade, and pack it in the barrels with the saltana preservative.

good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent

MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black - Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney com-plaints and found nothing to excel it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Mar-blehead, Ill.
