

THE COLLEGE.

The annual report of the treasurer, presented at Wednesday's board meeting, shows that the sum of $83,899.13 was paid out at the college last year. The money went as salaries to instructors and for supplies, and was largely spent among the business and other enterprises in Corvallis. The total enrollment at the college last year was about 540, and a low estimate makes it certain that these students spent another $100,000 in the town making a total of nearly $200,000 distributed through the agency of the college among Corvallis people during the year. The sum is not far short of the aggregate received from the sale of all the surplus wheat of Benton county, marketed in Corvallis for the same period. It is one of the greatest, if not the greatest asset of the town, and at the present rate of growth is destined to be by far the biggest resource of the place. A few years ago the attendance was 217. Now it approaches 600. What is not possible for it to be in a few years more? Then what will be the sum that will be annually distributed by the institution? How important it is for all Corvallis to foster, encourage, aid, and by every word and act, to help safeguard the Oregon Agricultural College.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Wedding Scene at Home of Bride, and Numerous Guests Present.

With roses, carnations and honeysuckles sending their fragrance through the rooms, and the mellow light of even-tide lingering still, Miss Nelle Glassford and Heber V. Swann stood hand and hand at eight o'clock, Wednesday evening, while Rev. T. T. Vincent pronounced the words that united for better or worse, their destinies. Forty-five guests witnessed the ceremony and extended well-wishes after the event took place. White silk organdie was the bride's gown, and white lilies were the flowers that she carried. Miss Grace Glassford was bridesmaid, and Bert Yates, groomsmen. The groom is a lineman for the Independent Telephone Company. He came to Oregon from the East about two years ago, and during his residence here, he has made many friends. Miss Glassford is the daughter of a respected family of Corvallis, and a young woman of amiable disposition. A large crowd gave the newly married couple a charivari party, Wednesday evening. For the present the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Swann will be in Corvallis.

Oregon Development League.

The Portland Commercial Club has issued a call for a convention of the Oregon Development League, to be held at the Marquam Grand Theater in Portland August 2nd and 3rd. All commercial, agricultural, mining, stock-raising and irrigation interests will be represented; every editor in the state will be invited to attend as a delegate; County Commissioners and Mayors of all towns and cities will also be called upon to name delegates. The Portland Women's Club will look after the comfort of ladies accompanying delegates, and, among other entertainments, have arranged for a trolley ride on August 2nd, taking in the most interesting and beautiful environs of Portland, and on August 3rd ten street cars will be provided for a trip over the entire city. The Southern Pacific Co. will sell tickets at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, from all points on Oregon Lines to Portland and return, for this occasion, and it is hoped that every section of the state will be well represented at the convention, to work in harmony for the development of Oregon.

HAULED FOURTEEN MILES.

Big Horse was—Is Worth $2,200—Was Sick and too Weak to Walk.

A sight on Main street the other evening, was a huge horse, weighing 1,800 pounds, mounted on an ordinary truck and being hauled through town. In this way the animal was conveyed a distance of 14 miles, to the home of his owner near Halsey. The trip began at seven o'clock in the evening, and the destination was reached about midnight. The trip was made by night in order to avoid the oppressive heat of the daytime, all on account, not of the driver and his team, or the owner, but to save the horse himself. The hauling was done by Lee Henkle.

The horse was ill. He is a thoroughbred stallion, purchased last April by James Sheridan of the vicinity of Halsey, of a firm of fine horse importers at Spokane. The animal cost $2,200 in cash. He is a thoroughbred English shire, three years old, and is a very fine horse. Fifteen days before he was taken home from Corvallis as described above, he was seized with violent illness. Water founder is set out as his ailment, and from the effects of it, he suffered much. All the horse experts within a radius of many miles were summoned to attend him, and every remedy known to the profession was applied. For several days it was expected that he would die at any time within an hour. He grew slightly better, however, and his owner desired to get him home. The animal was too weak to walk, and it was determined to cart him the 14 miles necessary to traverse in order to reach his own comfortable stable. This was done, the horse occupying a standing position throughout the journey.

TOOK HIS CASH.

And Told Him to Right>About-Face and March—Young Garrow in Hard Luck.

The Portland Journal of Tuesday evening contains an account of the hold-up of Theodore Garrow, a Corvallis boy who left here a few days ago to enter a business college. It says:

"T. A. Garrow, who arrived in Portland from Gazelle, California, Sunday afternoon, for the purpose of attending business college, was held up by two men on Tenth street between Main and Madison, and robbed of $26. The highwaymen were frightened away by a pedestrian and left $1 in their victim's pockets. They also left his gold watch and ring and walked rapidly away. The case was reported to the police and Detectives Kerrigan and Snow were detailed on the matter.

"I was returning to my home, 343 Tenth from a visit to my cousin's residence Fifteenth and Marshall streets when I was held up," said Mr. Garrow. "I had reached a place on Tenth street between Madison and Main where it is quite dark. Two men suddenly walked out from the shadows and, pointing guns to my face, commanded me to throw up my hands. I obeyed, of course.

"One of the men, still holding his gun at my head, walked off about ten feet, and stood guard, while his companion rifled my pockets. Footsteps were heard approaching, a half a block distant, and the robbers gave up their task and walked away. I followed but they turned and commanded me to right about and go the other way."
