—Miss Maud Mordson leaves today to visit friends in Albany. —W. S. McFadden returned Thursday to his Junction farm. —Miss Mabel Cady left yesterday for a visit with her brother at R. seburg. —Travis McDevitt is enjoying a vacation at Newport. He left Tuesday. —Miss Maud McBe left this week for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Salem. —W. C. Swann is spending a brief vacation, visiting his mother at Crawfordville. —Mrs. W. C. McCoy of Oakesdale, Wash., has a rived on a visit to her sister, Mrs. John Wyatt, and other Benton relatives. —Mrs. M. Jacobs and Miss E.ia Jacobs are enjoying an outing at Boswell Springs. They left a few days ago. —After a year's absence in the Des Chutes country, William Bogue returned to Corvallis Thursday, where many old time friends were glad to welcome him. —B. W. Johnson and E. R. Bryson returned Wednesday evening from a hunting trip of several days in the Kings Valley country. —Charles Heckert has the contract for building the Buxton residence at the corner of Jefferson and Eighth. The house will be one of the best in the town. —On account of the shortness of the stalk much spring oats has been mowed by neighboring farmers. In many instances the grain was too short to be bound. —Alex Donaldson, proprietor of the Deaton stock ranch at Deaton, Wyoming, and J. D. Stump, the well-known Polk county stockman were looking over the sheep industry in Benton Thursday. Both are extensively engaged in the sheep business. —A harvest excursion is to run over the C. & E. from Detroit to Newport and return, tomorrow. It is extensively advertised, and will no doubt attract a large crowd. The rate from Detroit is $2.50 and from Corvallis the same as other excursions. —Walter Hayes and Harry Moore, two Albany boys who have just returned from a trip by wagon road to Yaquina Bay, suffered an accident on the way home which compelled them to adopt a rather unique mode of travel. Hayes made the trip on a horse, while Moore rode a bicycle. When about 35 miles from home the chain of the bicycle broke. The boys tied a rope to the front of the bicycle and to the saddle on the horse, and thus made progress slowly, being compelled to untie the rope to make the ascent and descent of large hills. —A dispatch from Logan, Utah, to the Oregonian, says: Coach Campbell, of the Utah Agricultural College football eleven of Logan, has arranged for a trip to the Coast which will start about October 22 and will last about two weeks. During his trip the eleven will meet the University of Washington, the Agricultural College of Oregon and the University of Nevada. Negotiations are now pending for a date with the University of California and if possible a game will be secured with Stanford also. The team this year promises to be very strong. —After an absence of a year, William Bogue and family arrived Thursday and will remain. A year ago last July they left for the Cascades and after a visit of a few days in September, they left again, going to the Des Chutes, from where they have just arrived. Floyd, on account of whose health the trip was made, is well and strong again. The family will spend the winter in Idaho, but Mr. Bogue will remain in Corvallis and devote himself to the care of his farms. —It is apropos to think about mountain water now. The legislature meets next winter. If nobody else will put in a mountain water system, the people can do it themselves. There are many who think the latter would be the better plan. Ownership of public utilities by cities is widely in vogue and everywhere popular. Corvallis has not authority to sell bonds now, and can only get it from the legislature. That is why it is not too early to discuss mountain water. Does Corvallis want it? Does she want homeseekers and parents of students everywhere to know that she has the best and purest water that is to be had? Does she want the best health and best development? —Thoroughly cured of smallpox, and glad to regain his liberty, St Bradley was released from the pest house Wednesday. Thursday afternoon Chief Lane was engaged in fumigating the premises. —A new light system for the store was installed in the E. B. Horning establishment Thursday. The light is furnished by a large pressure gas-oil lamp, and the system is said to be one of the best and most economical in use in town. —The George Smith property, sold by him sometime ago to Mr. Lamley, an Easterner, has again changed hands. The deal was closed Wednesday evening, and the new purchaser is J. J. Thatcher, of the firm of Dunn & Thatcher. —M. E. church Sunday: 11 a. m., anthem by the choir; sermon, "The Children and the Church," solo, Janet Blackledge, followed by the baptism of the children. Evening, sermon, "What About so Many Denominations—Are They Signs of Federation and Union?"

AN HONEST PORTER. He Helped Himself to a Tip of Ten Dollars for Being Accommodating and Honest. "The tip-exacting Pullman car porters are the recipients of a good many knocks from press and public, but they are not the worst in the world," remarked a commercial traveler to a Washington Star man. They may have a pretty fierce way of dealing for tips, but when it comes to the matter of honesty I know one of them that's there, with the goods, as the saying goes. "I left San Francisco, or, rather, Oakland, on the Santa Fe line for Chicago at 8 o'clock in the evening a couple of weeks ago last Sunday. The gang that I met in Frisco had been rather too enthusiastic in giving me a good time of it out there on the day of my departure, so that when I woke up on the train along toward 7 o'clock the next morning the sleeper bunk felt pretty warm and my coppers a whole lot warmer. The nearest, in fact, the first stop at which I would have a chance to get those hot coppers out was Mojave, and so I hustled into my clothes to be ready to hop off the train during the stop at Mojave for one of those katzenjammer alleviators. "I asked the Pullman conductor how long the train would stop at Mojave, and he replied that the stop would last ten minutes. I raced into the station cafe when the train pulled into Mojave, and instructed the man in charge of the bar to rig me up one of those long, long damp things. He went at the job in a pretty scientific manner, and the piece of wet work that he set before me was a rare thing to find right alongside of the California desert. It was such a fine and effective creation, in fact, that I asked him to frame up another one, and I got away with this with equal joy. Then I leisurely strolled to the door to take a look at my train—and saw the end of it curling away in the rarefied distance on its way toward the land of the rising sun. It had pulled out without notifying me. I hustled into the ticket office to ask the man in the window when I'd be able to corral another eastbound train, and he said that it'd be along at 8 o'clock the next morning—the mate to the train that had departed without me; there was only one of the overland expresses per diem. So there I saw myself stuck in Mojave, Cal., the most miserable little sand dune on the globe, for a full twenty-four hours. "But that wasn't the worst of it. I had left my Gladstone bag wide open on my bunk, with my wearing apparel thrown around the section every which way, and in the bag I had placed, on the night before, $200 in gold coin, the stuff being too heavy to carry around in my pockets with any comfort. Better at Some Things Than Others. Sir Thomas Lipton is much more successful in causing the pork market to get a move on, says the Pittsburgh Times, than in imparting speed to a yacht. Ancient Sky-scrapers. Numerous conflicting estimates have been made of the height of the tower of Babel, but one fact never has been denied, and that is that it was a skyscraper. St. Jerome, in his commentary on Isaiah, says that the tower was already 4,000 paces high when God came down to stop the work. A pace is about 2 1/2 feet; therefore 4,000 paces must be 10,000 feet; consequently Babel was 20 times as high as the Pyramids (which are only about 500 feet). Father Calmet says the tower was 51,000 feet high, and that the languages were confounded because the architects were confounded, as they did not know how to bring the building to a head. Moreover, it is understood that the Chinese language of to-day was originally the same language as the high German. Those Inquisitive Youngsters. "Papa, you took the scientific course in college, didn't you?" "Yes, dear; I spent two years on sentence." "When you look in a mirror the left side of your face appears to be the right side, and the right side seems to be the left. The looking glass reverses it, doesn't it?" Bellfountain Notes. Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pool, a son. The little daughter of Henry Lamb has been quite sick, but is improving. Quite a number from this vicinity expect to pick hops this year as the price promises to be good. From three acres of fall wheat threshed for S. A. Tharp, he received 106 bushels. Henry French, of Corvallis, is canvassing this part of Benton, to see what he can gather for the exposition at Lewis and Clark Fair. Harold Waggoner, of Eugene, is spending a few weeks with his aunt Mrs. Hall. A drove of goats passed through this place this week, enroute to Alsea. Last winter seems to have served as a lesson to ranchers by the way they are rustling for straw. Some can hardly wait until the grain is threshed before commencing to haul.

BLACK DRAUGHT STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE. This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Theodor's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of "vigorating" digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grows and thrives with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial. It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit. PITTSBURG, KAN., March 25, 1904. I have been using your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine on my stock for some time. I have used all kinds of stock food but I have found that yours is the best for my purpose. J. S. HANSON.
