Crawford, Gene Simpson, Hammel, Wells, Nolan, Waggoner, and Hare of Albany, Misses Snell, Kline, Gatch, Holgate, Crawford, Fisher, and Leverett.

O A C WON.

DEFEATED UTAH FOOTBALL PLAYERS BY BIG SCORE.

Fifteen Hundred People Saw the Game—Excursionists Came from Neighboring towns to See the Play and the Utahans.

Fifteen hundred people saw Oregon snatch victory from Utah at college football on O. A. C. field last Wednesday. They saw the swift and powerful lads sweep constantly around the ends of the heavy Utah line, driving the heavy Utah backs before them, and saw them dash over the Utah goal line for no less than eight touchdowns in but forty minutes of play. Forty-five to naught was the final score, and the figures represent but part of the difference in the power and speed of the two elevens. Longer halves and a desire of Oregon to more humiliate the inter-mountain state could easily have raised the final total to 80 or 100 to a goose egg. Big as were the invading players and formidable as they were in their desire to hold up the colors of their state, they were far out-classed by the swiftbacks and powerful line of the Oregonians. The hopelessness of their cause was demonstrated in the first minute of play. Captain Pilkington won the toss and elected to receive the ball. His men ran it in to O. A. C.'s 30 yard line on the Utah's kickoff and starting at that point and, without a break, fumble or pass, rushed their opponents back through the 80 yards of checkered field for the first touchdown, requiring less than three minutes of play to do the stunt. The story of that first touchdown runs like this: Utah kicked to Bower on the 20 yard line and he ran in the ball 10 yards before a Utah man nailed him, Root rounded end for four yards and Williams finished the required yardage. Williams skirted end for three yards, Rogers for two and Root got away for a long dash of 35 yards. Williams reeled off 16 yards more, Root tore off another 10 around end and Williams went the necessary five yards to cross the Utah goal line. Pilkington kicked goal. As that play went, so went the rest of the game. Utah made yardage but three times in the forty minutes of actual play, and Oregon failed to make yardage but twice. At straight football Utah forced the ball but 26 yards, while Oregon rushed it a total distance of 421 yards. Even at punting, the men from Utah were out-classed, and in a duel in the last half in which several punts were exchanged Oregon gained 10 to 120 yards on every kick. In one instance, Captain Pilkington punted a sheer sixty yards, and the man who caught the sphere was downed in his tracks by both the Oregon ends, Steiwer and Root.

O. A. C. rolled up a score of 28 to naught in the first half. It was twenty-five minutes in length. The last half was reduced to 15 minutes, and in that time another 17 points was added to the Oregon total. The final score is identical with that made by the University of Washington against the Utahans last Saturday, in 10 more minutes of play. In that game the score was eleven to 0 in the first half, against 28 to naught, made by O. A. C. in an equal length at Corvallis.

The game was replete with sensational plays by the Oregon backs and linemen. It was at the latter that the main assault of the Utahans was made, whenever they had the ball. Some of their linemen as well as some of their backs were of very large stature and fine physical proportions. Nearly all were magnificent in size and strength. In their desperate efforts against hopeless defeat these men hurled themselves repeatedly against the Oregon line, which after the first few assaults held without a break.

In one instance, Oregon made a touchdown on a single play, after getting the ball. Pilkington had kicked to Utah's three yard line and the ball was run in 13 yards. The giants began to pound the Webfoot line, but in three plays lost the ball on downs. Oregon took the ball on her 18 yard line, and Williams tripped around end for a touchdown.
