FOR CEMENT SIDEWALKS.

And Crossings—No More Wooden Walks to be Built in Certain Limits if Ordinance Passes.

If an ordinance now pending in the city council becomes a law no more wooden sidewalks can be constructed within a large area in Corvallis. The ordinance prescribes that the materials to be used, both in sidewalks and crossings shall be of Portland cement, sand and gravel of the usual proportions. On Main street they are to be ten feet wide and on others five and six feet in width. It is understood that the walks around the Farra residence were taken as a model. The latter are six feet wide on the north side and five on the west. The cost is said to have been $55 for 100 feet of the five foot walk, and $66 per hundred feet for the walk six feet in width.

The pending ordinance fixes limits in which the cement pavements are to be used for all renewals, as follows: Beginning at the blacksmith shop east across the street from Wade's store and thence north on the east side of Main to the corner diagonally across the street from the old Salvation Army Hall, thence west to the J. H. Simpson residence, thence south to Mrs. Burnett's residence, thence west to the college grounds, thence south to Jefferson street and east along the south side of Jefferson to the B. W. Wilson corner, thence south a block and east along the south side of Adams to the place of beginning.

The ordinance has passed the second reading, and will probably come up for final action at the December meeting of the council.

AT THE COLLEGE.

The Chapel Filled With Music Lovers, Wednesday Evening.

In spite of the very unfavorable weather, a large audience gathered at the college chapel Wednesday evening to listen to the musical programme rendered by members of the OAC vocal department, under the instruction of Mrs. Green. The first number began at 7:45, being a selection by the Ladies' Chorus. Following was a solo by Miss Gertrude McBee, a nocturne by Miss Juliet Cooper and another number by Miss Edna Allen. "Down in the Deep" was effectively rendered by C. C. Briggs, who was followed by Miss Ruth Lilly with a slumber song. A male quartette, composed of Messrs Knapp, Selleck, Miller and Hill was heartily applauded, and Miss Una Stewart gave a number, "Sunshine and Rain". A duet by Miss Edna Allen and Mr. Briggs, and a solo by Miss Bertha Williams, were followed by a recitation from Tennyson's works, "Crossing the Bar", given by Miss Alice Edwards. A solo by Mrs. Berchtold, bearing the same title, was the last number before the Ladies' Chorus appeared in the closing selection. The recital was much enjoyed by those who attended, and much credit is due all those performers who appeared during the evening.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE PENDING.

For Mountain Water—Committee of Council and Water Company at Work.

Since the arrival from the East of Dr. Farra, negotiations between him and the committee of the city council have been pending with reference to Mountain water. A lengthy meeting of the special committee at which Dr. Farra was present, was held the other night, and the proceedings, as far as they went were without a hitch. Preliminary details of a plan were worked on looking to the extension of a certain amount of financial aid to the local company in the undertaking. The basis of the negotiations is a bid recently made to the council, but the details have been so changed that the original offer could hardly be recognized as being a part of the new plan. It is understood that the committee is negotiating with a view of fully protecting the interests of the city in such credit as it may extend, and that the company is manifesting a willingness to provide ample security. An adjourned council meeting was set for last night at which some development with reference to the negotiations was expected.

FROM ALL OVER.

Prize Poultry is Coming to Corvallis—Poultry Show Next Month.

Letters received by prominent poultrymen indicate that the poultry show to be held in Corvallis beginning December 8 is to be one of most extensive proportions. Letters of inquiry are coming from poultrymen as far south as Los Angeles and as far north as British Columbia. It is certain now that there will be exhibits from the most important poultry yards of California, of Washington and of British Columbia, to say nothing of the exhibits from all over Oregon.

In short, several states will contribute to the success of the show, which will vie with all the other shows in point of excellence and importance to be held during the season. The fortunate fact in the premises that tends to contribute to the popularity of the Corvallis undertaking with poultrymen from far abroad, is that the date comes first on the regular poultry circuit and fanciers will all be anxious to get their prize birds scored at the first opportunity. That opportunity, the Corvallis show will afford and that in particular will be one explanation of the wide attention it is attracting all over the Coast. It is probable from indications that Benton county people will have opportunity to see more fine birds on the 8th, 9th and 10th of December and in Corvallis, than they ever saw before in all their lives.

THREE WEDDINGS.

All Were Pretty Home Events, With Corvallis Brides and Grooms.

Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Starr on Eighth street, occurred the wedding of Miss Corlie Starr and William Schmidt. The bride is a Corvallis girl, and the groom a Benton county young man. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. M. M. Waltz of Bellfountain, uncle of the bride. The march was played by Mrs. Waltz. The bride was charming in a dainty gown of white, with trimmings of ribbon and lace. She carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. Twenty-five guests witnessed the ceremony, and presented many handsome gifts to the newly wedded pair.

The color scheme in the parlor was pink and white, and in the dining room yellow and white predominated. After congratulations, supper was served, and soon after Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt departed by private conveyance for their home in Benton county. Both are estimable young people, and the good wishes of many friends accompany them.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Rose, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, Rev. Feese of the First M. E. church, united in marriage Miss Daisy Rose and Mr. Fred Overlander, both of Corvallis. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, chrysanthemums and Oregon grape being used for the purpose. The ceremony was performed before the family and a few intimate friends, and following congratulations, a sumptuous supper was served by Mrs. Rose. The bride was most winsome in a tailor suit of brown. Many presents of cut glass, china and silver were received. The bride is one of Corvallis best known and most highly respected girls, whose host of friends wish her all happiness. The groom is a young man of good character, a musician of some note in Corvallis, and has the good wishes of all. Mr. and Mrs. Overlander have gone to house keeping in a residence owned by the groom in the southwestern part of Corvallis.

The wedding of Miss Cara Wilson to William Wicks took place at 11 a. m. Wednesday at the home of the bride's mother. The parlor was beautifully decorated with cosmos, ferns and chrysanthemums, and the young couple stood under an arch of ferns while the impressive Episcopal ceremony was performed by Rev. Carrick of Brownsville. The march was rendered by Mrs. Inez Wilson, and preceding the bridal couple as they entered the parlor, was little Mabel Pernot, carrying a basket of flowers. About 25 guests witnessed the ceremony, and many beautiful presents were bestowed on the newly married pair. The dinner was served by Misses Lulu Newhouse, Agnes and Grace Wilson.

The bride looked most attractive in a gown of clinging white over white silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicks are both too well known in Corvallis to need words of commendation from the reporter. Both are former OAC students, and members of two of the best known Corvallis families. They are spending a few days at Newport, and upon their return will be at home to their friends in the Miss Snell house on Ninth street.

TWO STARS OUT.

Of Today's Football Game—Two new Ones in.

The OAC football men have to play in this afternoon's game without their captain, and also without George Herbert Root, one of their famous half backs. A muscle bruise sustained by Captain Bert Pilkington at Seattle, and injured somewhat again in the Utah game, brought on in an aggravated form at practice two weeks ago. It is rapidly recovering now, but it is out of the question for the redoubtable full back, the best perhaps on the Coast, to be in this afternoon's game.

George Herbert Root's trouble is a strained ligament in the shoulder, sustained three weeks ago, and now nearly sound again, but still too weak to allow him to go into the game. He is eager to play and confident of his ability to make good, but Coach Steckle is not willing for the popular and formidable half back to enter the game. The announcement that Root was not to play was only made a day or two ago, but it has been realized for 10 days that Captain Pilkington would be a side liner during the game.

Coach Steckle and his men are not disturbed by the condition, but have already organized another formidable back field. Kenneth Cooper, who played half back on the second team and end on the first team last season, and end on the first team this season until Root's trouble, has been placed as the mate of Floyd Williams at half back. He is a few pounds lighter than Root, but is not less fierce or fast. He has a great man's shoes to fill this afternoon, but his friends declare that he will measure out the fullest.

The new fullback is Ray Walker an Independence boy. He won renown as end, and tackle on the second team last year, and early this season by hard playing attracted the attention of Coach Steckle, who slated him early as a first team utility. When Captain Pilkington went out, Walker was at once put at fullback, and he is now well drilled in the position. He is but 10 pounds lighter than his chief, is almost as swift and his friends are confident that with him at fullback, the new back field will do its work effectively and well.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Down at Buck Creek—And Incidents That Happened There.

Buck Creek is a frontier community down beyond the Alsea, where chittim is the principal commodity. They had a Sunday school there last summer, and one Sunday when the Superintendent asked for announcements just before the close, a member of the Bible class arose and announced that there would be a dance at Mr. Day's house the next Friday night. That, of course, was all right, and so was this other incident that happened on another Sunday in the same school. "There will be no Sunday school next Sunday," said the superintendent; "The base ball team is going to play that day, and I am the captain. Besides, I suppose most of the children will desire to attend the game. You can now consider yourselves dismissed," he ended, and the Buck Creek Sunday school adjourned to take in the base ball game the next Sunday. As before remarked, Buck Creek and her people are all right, and chittim from there is the best there is in the world.
