CUT IT AWAY.

Piece of Bone From Skull—And Took Blood Clot From Brain.

An important surgical operation was performed on Henry Seits of Alsea, Sunday evening. A piece of skull an inch long, and half an inch in width was removed and a large clot of blood that rested on the brain was taken away. The patient was on the operating table for two hours, but he rallied afterward, and at last accounts was much improved.

Two months ago, Mr. Seits fell down stairs at his home in Alsea, and sustained a heavy blow on the head. Not much attention was paid to the matter until a constant and violent headache appeared. The condition grew worse and worse until 10 days ago, when Mr. Seits was brought to Corvallis for medical treatment. Saturday his condition became alarming, and an operation was determined upon. Relatives were sent for and after their arrival Sunday evening, the knife was applied. Dr. Cathey was in charge of the case, and Drs. Pernot and Farra were assistants. After the operation the patient rallied, and Monday morning was able to converse intelligently with relatives. He was in a state of unconsciousness before the operation, and shortly afterward explained that he remembered nothing that had transpired since leaving home a week before. The patient's wife, and his brothers, Frank, A. L. and M. L. Seits were all present during the operation. Mr. Seits is at the Farmer's Hotel.

A DOCTOR'S TOUCHDOWN.

Saw One Football Game and Played in Another—All in One Day.

Dr. Bennett and Ray Waltz of Bellfountain journeyed to Corvallis Saturday to see the football game. They started home afterward. The horse shied and threw the man of medicine out of the buggy. In the parlance of the day, he made a touchdown in the muddy road. Meantime young Waltz, the buggy and the horse had a scrimmage in a mud hole, and in the pile up the horse broke away and started off in an end run without interference to stand off the doctor's touchdown by making another goal at the family stable up at Bellfountain.

Then the other two players figured it out that they were skinned, and started to hoof it to Off Wilson's to telephone for another rig when their horse came charging back, headed apparently for a touchdown in the direction of Corvallis. He was playing fierce and they managed to stop him. This play ended the game, which was spectacular in its features, and after some delay, the three journeyed together in the direction of Bellfountain. As a result of the two games in one day the doctor was laid up Sunday with a stiff neck and Mr. Waltz with a lame back.

A PATHETIC STORY.

Illustrating the Importance of a Course in Household Economy.

"Why, my dear," said a Corvallis husband to his young wife, as he began the carving process at dinner. "You failed to remove the crop from this chicken when you dressed it."

"Oh, I certainly was not so careless as that," rejoined the wife.

"I think you were. Are you acquainted with that portion of the poultry's anatomy commonly called the 'crop'?"

"Why certainly. Its tough skin on the inside of the gizzard."

"No it isn't. There is the weak link in your chain of poultry lore."

And the husband proceeded to substantiate his contention by puncturing the membranous organ and exposing its contents.

Notwithstanding, the young wife contended against the disclosure and bathed her arguments in tears, and did not entirely collapse until the heartless husband called in a neighbor lady to add to the already overwhelming testimony of the prosecution. Further particulars are likely to appear in the divorce proceedings.

FRUIT, CEREALS AND GRASSES.

A Fine Display Collected By Benton County Court.

A pretty sample collection of Benton county fruits, grains and grasses is on exhibition at the office of Ambler & Watters in Hotel Corvallis. The collection is the result of efforts of the county court to secure suitable and creditable products for exhibition at the Lewis and Clark fair. To that end the court offered small cash prizes for the best samples, the awards to be made November 22nd. But the time for awards, in the expectation of receiving additional samples, was later fixed at 2 o'clock next Saturday, the 26th. In the meantime, it is hoped that Benton county farmers and others having samples of fine apples, pears or dried fruit, will bring them to County Judge Watters for exhibit and competition for the awards. A platelut of any sample of dried fruit is sufficient. Not less than three apples or pears are necessary for a sample of these. The best among all the samples are to be preserved in the green state and so placed on exhibition at the fair.

About 20 varieties of apples are already in the preliminary exhibit, and the whole number of samples 52. The fruit is nicely polished and is especially attractive. There are on exhibition 25 samples of wheat and oats and a large variety of grasses including vetch, clover, rye, alfalfa, orchard, red top, etc. Samples of Benton county corn in the ear, are also a surprise to many on account of their size and perfection. It would be well for every citizen to call and take a look at the display. A visit will prove instructive as well as pleasurable.

It was hoped that the delegation of Grangers that visited this locality yesterday might be shown the exhibit, but the time of the members was limited and they could only be shown about the Oregon Agricultural College, the primary object of their coming being to visit that institution. Nothing gives a more favorable impression of a locality than a creditable display of its fruit, cereals and grasses.
