—It is common belief in this town that the next time the summit of Marys peak appears among the clouds it will be found to be covered with snow.

—The cause of temperance is making some progress in Germany. The Emperor William decrees that there is no objection should any officer prefer to drink a toast in cold water.

—The Japs and Russians by one who has seen the armies of both, will be topical of a lecture to be given in the college chapel Saturday night. The speaker is to be Consul H. B. Miller.

—It is stated that a cottage for rental purposes is to be erected immediately between the residences of S. B. Bane and Reuben Kiger. Mrs. Kiger, it is said, is to be the builder.

—Lincoln County Leader—August Fischer of Corvallis, manager of the Corvallis Flouring Mills, was in the city Wednesday, enroute home from a business trip to Marshfield and other points in Coos county.

—After fulfilling his sad mission to Corvallis, Ben Woldt returned to Portland yesterday. He is in business at 234 Morrison street, and he would be glad to see any of his old friends who may visit the city.

—The thermometer that was up in the seventies with summer heat, hovers now around the fifties and the fair skies that insisted on being summerful are of late days over-spread with flying clouds and copious of rain.

—Sixty thousand, one hundred and eighty nine dollars, is the amount of taxes collected by Sheriff Burnett during the rebate period. The checks in the sheriff's hands after the last days collecting, totaled up more than $14,000. A large number were received by mail in the last hours of the period.

—There is a long list of aspirants for each of the fat jobs recently made vacant in the Roseburg land office. Of those known to covet one or the other of the positions, three are from Lane county, and six are from Douglas. Other aspirants are residents of various counties of Western and Southern Oregon. The name of G. A. Waggoner is mentioned in this connection. It is understood that Senator Fulton's recommendations will be recognized by the high chiefs of the Interior Department.

The Osler Method.

We'll sow the wheat tomorrow, boys,
And next day, plant the corn;
And then we'll fix the harrow, boys,
And roof the leaky barn.
And then we'll have some leisure, boys,
With nothing much in view,
And time to tend to daddy, boys,
When only that's to do.
He's old, you see, and useless, boys,
At three score years, and odd,
And so we'll chloroform him, boys,
And plant him 'neath the sod.

Just as we'd kill a chicken, boys,
We'll lay our father low;
He's old, you see, and useless boys,
And must take his dose—and go.

LOST A ROLL OF BANK BILLS.

Vicissitudes of a Solo Player.—Something About a "Cold Deck."

W. D. DeVarney sustained a big loss in a solo game Thursday evening. This is not the same incident which happened ten days ago when the friends with whom he was playing wrung in upon him what is termed a "cold deck." In the latter play he received a heart hand which he regarded as a "cinch" on all possible points. But it was otherwise. His opponents raked in 90 points out of a possible 120, before DeVarney could bring his trumps into action. In acknowledgment of his companions' successful work, he ordered cigars for all present, but this was not so disastrous as the heart solo which he played last week.

A good heart solo came to DeVarney, and after satisfying himself that he was not again the victim of a job, placed a roll of bank bills on the table, and jokingly, offered to bet the package that he would make a stated number of points. Nobody accepted the banter, and DeVarney essayed to replace the currency in the outside pocket of his coat. But instead of doing so he dropped the currency upon the floor, unknowingly. After the lapse of an hour or so, when DeVarney had departed, Carl Hodes discovered the money and placed it in his pocket. A bystander asked him what he had found and in answer, Carl remarked, "Oh, nothing but a roll of bank notes," and his manner disarmed suspicion. When Carl left the house however, he told Johnny Zeis that if anybody came around in search of a wad of bills to send the person to him. Next morning, DeVarney was in due season looking for his notes and was soon rewarded with return of the lost money, amounting to $290. One of the bills was of the denomination of $100. Mr. DeVarney presented Carl with one of the $20 bills.

IN THE MORNING OF LIFE.

Gustav Woldt Passes Away After a Brief Illness—There is General Sorrow.

At his home in Corvallis, Gustav Woldt closed his eyes in the sleep of death, Saturday morning, at the age of 14 years, 8 months and 15 days. He attended school as usual up to Wednesday noon of last week at which time he became generally indisposed from causes which were not then apparent and which are not now understood, but it is supposed that death was caused from the breaking of an abscess which there is now reason to believe had formed deep in the left side.

The funeral occurred from the family residence at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Rev. M. S. Bush, of the Presbyterian church, conducting the ceremony. The burial occurred in Crystal Lake cemetery, and the brief ceremony at the grave was very largely attended by Corvallis citizens whose admiration the boy had, perhaps unconsciously, won by his very pleasant manner and other evidences of fine character. Members of the eighth grade of the public school in which Gussie was a cheerful student, attended the burial in a body and carried abundant floral tributes to the memory of their departed comrade. Monday morning his desk at school was heavily decorated with flowers.

In life Gussie Woldt had access to many Corvallis homes and his lively disposition always prompted him to accept their hospitality. He was a bright and well-mannered child, and, having the opportunity of a wide acquaintance he gained more friends than it is the good fortune of many boys of his age to successfully claim. His death, and particularly since it was so sudden, was attended with much sorrow outside the family circle.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to tender to our neighbors and friends our sincere and heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses and the evident deep sympathy shown us in our late bereavement. Their kind offices will ever be remembered.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frantically and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three 1.00 bottles of Dr King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It is absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Allen & Woodward's

TO HONOR HEROINE.

Order of Red Men Will Share Honors in Giving Recognition to Sacajawea.

July 6th has been selected as Sacajawea and order of Red Men day at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. On this date the bronze statue of Sacajawea will be unveiled with formal ceremonies. The Sacajawea Statue Association will share the honors of the day with the order of Red Men in giving due recognition to the neglected heroine.

For this purpose the Sacajawea Statue Association composed of prominent Oregon women, was formed some time ago with Mrs. Eva Emery Dye as president. The association has raised the money for the erection of the statue and chosen the design. The statue was executed by Miss Alice Cooper of Denver, Colorado, and presents a young Indian woman with a papoose strapped to her back. The girl pointing toward the distant sea, her face radiant and head thrown back and eyes full of daring. A short hunting skirt, made of deer skins, and leggings, show a figure full of the buoyancy and animation of youth. The statue is composed of Oregon copper and cost $7,000.

The entire sum necessary for the installation of this memorial has not yet been raised, but it is expected that the total amount will be subscribed to pay off all indebtedness by the time the statue is unveiled. Western women have been enthusiastic in lending their support to this commendable movement.

The statue which is the first ever erected in honor of an Indian woman, will occupy a conspicuous position in the center of Columbia court, the central plaza of the Exposition, facing Lakeview Terrace, where are the statues of Lewis and Clark.

Sacajawea was an Indian girl, a member of the Shoshone tribe, who joined the Lewis & Clark expedition, which crossed the mountains to the Pacific a century ago, while the party was in midwinter quarters among the Mandan Indians in what is now North Dakota. Sacajawea was at that time mother of a young babe. She was the only woman on the expedition, and shared with the men the hardships of the toilsome journey across the continent. She was the friend of Captains Clark and Lewis and generally rode with them in advance of the party, where her presence served to allay the suspicions of the tribes through whose country they passed. On two occasions she saved the lives of the party, pointing the road when every one else was lost and starvation was staring the little band in the face.

Sacajawea accompanied the party through its entire journeyings. Her husband, Charbonneau, was taken along to act as guide and interpreter. When the expedition, on the return trip, reached the country of the Mandans, Charbonneau decided to stay there, and his ever faithful wife remained with him. It is presumed that she died shortly afterwards. It may safely be said that if it had not been for this Indian girl, Lewis and Clark would probably never have reached the Pacific. The women of the country deserve great credit for making it possible for this heroine to share the honors of the explorers at the Exposition commemorating the expedition of a century ago.
