William McLagan,
City Treas.BY PORTLAND VETERINARY*How They Operated on a Benton County Horse—OAC Students Looked on.

A horse was the subject of a surgical operation out on the College farm Wednesday. The operator was Dr. McLain, the well known veterinary surgeon of Portland. The horse was a valuable three year old, owned by William Knotts. A lump of bony matter on the jaw immediately below the eye, supposed to have been caused by a bad tooth, was the object that it was proposed by the operation to remove. A class of students in the agricultural course eyed the proceedings with keenest interest, as did several bystanders. In spite of the severe character of the operation, no anesthetic was administered. The statement is that anesthetics are bad for horses and should not be used except in extreme cases. In this case the horse was thrown by the methods familiar to horsemen. He was then bound securely in many places, so that it was practically impossible for him to move enough to disturb the operator. During the throwing process the animal fought manfully bawling sometimes in a voice that sent a thrill of awe through the students.

In the operation, a slit was made in the skin the entire length of the lump. Then with an instrument resembling an auger, the bony substance of the lump was attacked, and parts of it were bored away. In the operation quantities of dryish substance were removed, and the belief is that in the course of time, the unsightly lump, which by its prominence disfigured the noble animal, will disappear. After the cutting and boring process, no antiseptics were applied which occasioned remark, but say those things are never applied in ordinary horse operations.

GRANGE AND SCHOOL.*They are to Meet—Bellfountain the Place—The Programme.

A union meeting in which school children, parents and grangers are to be the participants is to occur at Bellfountain Grange Hall next Saturday. The event is under the direction of Superintendent Denman and is designed to benefit the schools of the vicinity. SHERIFF HAS IT.*Berry's Stock of Sporting and Bicycle Goods—Shop is Open Again to Public.

In a room over at the county court house is the stock of sporting goods and bicycle appliances that recently formed the store of James Berry. The stock is in the custody of Sheriff Burnett, with indications that it may become the subject of more or less litigation. The sheriff does not know what minute he will be sued by Berry for possession. The manner in which the goods were seized is unusual. The debt on which it was attached was not due, a part till next September, and the rest not till September, 1906. The legal questions raised in consequence are said to be numerous. Rumors are flying around to the effect that there might not only be suit against the sheriff for seizing the property, but against the plaintiff, Mr. Fischer. In any event, it looks now like the stock would be tied up in the sheriff's hands until the November term of the circuit court, when there can be an adjudication of the rights of the parties.

Meantime, the sheriff is right handy with firearms and fishing tackle, and with every shape of gun, revolver, and fishing appliance that the world knows of, it will be his own fault if he doesn't have a good time. Meantime, also, Berry's shop is open again for business. The law cannot take his tools away from a workman. They are his means of livelihood, and have been wisely placed beyond the reach of sheriffs, writs and debts. The appraisal showed the value of the stock to be about $700.

THE LAST OF THE FUND.*Wiped it off the Slate—A Relic of old Bicycle Times in Benton.

For a long time, $20.30 has been an unexpended, balance carried over year to year, by the county treasurer. It is what remained of the bicycle road fund that for a year or two engaged so much attention. It was paid in by bicycle riders when wheeling was more of a pastime with the multitude than it is now. A state law required every wheelman to pay the tax, which was directed to be expended in building bicycle paths. When the law finally went out of effect, the balance referred to was on hand and it so remained until Wednesday, when the county court, wearied with its presence as an entry on the treasurer's books and reports, made an order directing that the balance be paid into the general road fund of the county, where it can be used, not on bicycle path building, but in a cause quite as worthy.

Their Wedding Anniversary.

Wednesday was the forty-seventh marriage anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Moses. They were married April 5, 1858, in Van Buren, Arkansas. They spent seventeen years in that state and came to Oregon, arriving in February, 1875 and settled in Tangent, Linn county, where they raised their children. They resided there until the latter eighties. Mr. Moses filled a number of ministerial charges in his church. In 1890, he took charge of the church in this city and remained its pastor four years, since which time they have remained residents of Corvallis. Of their six children, three live in Benton county, one in Linn county, and one in Nevada. The ancestors of Mr. Moses landed in Philadelphia, Sept. 2, 1746, in the ship, "Loyal Judith."
