The report cites that there is $6,073 in the hands of the guardian who has been authorized by the court to pay in full all claims against the estate that have been presented and allowed.

—The final tryout for places on the O. A. C. track team occurs on college field on Saturday of next week. There are more athletes than places, and there will be strong competition in each event. The team, as last Saturday's victory shows is the best the college ever sent out.

—The eyes of the world are on the China sea. Two great fleets of modern warships are there in hostile array. The errand of each is to destroy the other, if possible. Their meeting is one of the things that is inevitable, and it is not destined to be a great while postponed. It is fraught with tremendous consequences, for the stakes may be the naval supremacy of the China Sea, and the final decision of the great war.

—One of the biggest auction sales offered Benton counties in a long time occurs next Wednesday at the brick stable, Corvallis. The lease of Fruit & Waggoner on the building expires shortly, and they are compelled to give up the place. They have determined to sell at public auction their horses, buggies, carriages, hacks, and everything else, including laprobes, money safe, whips and every other device incident to a first-class livery stable. There is not a bit of doubt in the world but that there will be no by-bidding, and that every item in the long list will be sold, if there be a bid at all. The hour for the auction to begin is ten o'clock, and the day is next Wednesday, April 26th.
