—The sermon to the Congregational church on Sunday evening, like the one of the morning to the college congregation by Dr. House of Portland, was a masterpiece of thought, erudition and eloquence. The congregation that filled the house to its utmost capacity was held by the magnetism and personality of the speaker in high tension from the first word to the last. Many who had heard the preacher in his home church in Portland came to hear him and remained at the close of the service for a cordial handshake. The choir maintained its high record in the service. The church was beautifully decorated in cut flowers representing the color and spirit of Harvard the Alma Mater of Dr. House.

—Miss Wavelle Cunningham, once a popular student at O. A. C. committed suicide in Portland Thursday night. She was at the college about four years ago, and attended a year. Then she went to Stanford. A long account of how she passed a check at a Portland jewelry store, and of the further fact that there was no money in the bank to cover the check, appeared lately in the Portland papers. That was, perhaps, ten days ago. Then came the other and final tale, a tragic narrative of how the young woman turned on the gas in her room, and paid with her life whatever of obligation her act had made her owe the world. Her father had made good the check by straightening out the affair with the bank, and there was no charge against Miss Cunningham. Her home was in an Eastern Oregon town. There are many mournful aspects in this unfortunate case, which those who knew her as a pretty and interesting girl at O. A. C. view with deep regret.

—Under authority by telegraph from Washington, the local post office will observe Corvallis day as a holiday.

—Tickets for Thursday's excursion can be bought this afternoon at the postoffice, at Blackledge's, at the S. P. and C. & E. depots. All who can should buy today, for there will not be time before the train starts tomorrow.

—One of the most enjoyable social affairs of Commencement week was the dinner given the O. A. C. football team at the home of Dr. James Withycombe Monday evening. The rooms presented a pretty picture arranged in green and white. Mrs. Withycombe was assisted in serving by Misses Helen Steiwer, Mabel Davis, Luella Van Cleve, Louise Cooper, Edna Irvine, and Mabel Withycombe. The guests were, Bert Pilkington, Dow Walker, Floyd Williams, Earl Rhinehart, A. B. Bower, W. G. Abraham, J. Emily, Will Dunlap, Karl Steiwer, Kenneth Cooper, and Ray Walker.

—Baccalaureate Sunday was one of the most successful in the history of OAC. The sermon by Dr. House, of Portland, was of a kind with one by a Methodist divine from Spokane a number of years ago. The Armory was simple but beautifully decorated. The graduating class, 48 in number, occupied front seats, and city ministers, the faculty and others were on the platform. Music by the vocal department was most excellent, and the sermon wonderful. A great audience of perhaps more than 1,200 people filled the auditorium. A more imposing scene or an occasion more eloquent of the glory and greatness of OAC was never seen.

The recital of the Vocal department of O. A. C. under the direction of Mrs. E. F. Green, in the College chapel, on Monday evening a well deserved success, and a fitting completion of the year's work. A full house and an appreciative audience greeted those who took part in the programme. The platform displayed tasteful decoration and the class presented a splendid appearance. Flattering applause was accorded all those who had numbers. Among those on the programme were Miss Buchanan, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Ingle, Mr. Knapp, Miss Allen, Miss Keady, Miss McBee, Miss Stewart, Miss Von der Hellen, Miss Herron, Miss Phillips and Mrs. F. L. Miller. Ruthyn Turney added much to the pleasure of the evening by his artistically rendered violin obligato. Gratifying success has attended the vocal department under Mrs. Green with an enrollment of eighty pupils this year.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.

In Department of Instrumental Music—Took Place Saturday Evening.

In college chapel Saturday night occurred the Piano Graduation Recital by Louise Smith Glanville, a pupil of Prof. Taillandier. In spite of the field meet in Salem, which took many people from this town, the recital was largely attended, and the applause of the audience showed their appreciation. The program was a very exacting one, including a Beethoven Sonata, Liszt Rhapsody, several pieces by Henselt and Chopin and the difficult Concerto by Hummel in a minor. The orchestral accompaniment was played on a second piano by Prof. Taillandier.

Many people look upon pupils recitals as tedious, but this recital was a revelation to many present, and all who attended last Saturday went home enthusiastic in praise of the performance. Mrs. Glanville played with ease and artistic finish and delighted her audience with the different pieces, which on account of their contrast gave new interest to every number.

Prof. Taillandier is to be congratulated upon his pupil and also on the standard which he has set for graduation. We are told that is following here in Corvallis the same standard that he followed during the seventeen years that he taught in Boston.

EVERYBODY GOING.

More Than a Thousand Expected—Something About the Great Banner.

Arrangements for celebrating Corvallis and Benton Day at the Fair are perfecting, and it becomes more and more apparent that the thing is to be unanimous. It looks now as if, not only the whole town but the whole county is to go. The proposition to make the day a hummer is without a dissenting voice. The features for the Portland event are taking shape fast and indicate that there is genius behind the plan. The most conspicuous arrangement perhaps is a banner to be carried in the parade. The statement seems impossible and yet it is a fact that this banner, now ready for use, is actually 150 yards or 450 feet long. Portland never saw anything like it before and open mouthed wonder will certainly stare from every pavement and street corner at the mammoth streamer. How it is to be carried and what will be on it, cannot be described here. Fine art has contrived a way for it to stream its full length and flaunt in the gaze of the multitude while Benton people parade Portland. It is worth the while of home people to go to Portland to see how it is all to be done, especially when with the low fare it is cheaper to go than to stay at home.

The great banner bears many a legend. There is a column of good reading matter in it about Benton. "Benton still grows hops, even if she is dry." is one inscription and "thermometers do not have to be kept on ice in summer or blanketed in winter," is another.

The Coffee Club of Corvallis is to be at the City hall all this afternoon to tie up sample products to be carried in the parade in Portland. Flowers are wanted and contributions of them are solicited. Can those who have them send them to the city hall this afternoon Coffee Club people will arrange them for use at Portland. Strawberries, cherries, vegetables and other products are also desired for use in making up a feature for the parade quite as spectacular as the banner will be. It is also requested that every person who goes take along if at all possible, a bouquet of roses or other flowers to be borne in the parade.

To the Citizens of Corvallis, Thursday, the 15th day of June 1905, has been set apart by the management of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition as Corvallis Day. It is desirable that as many as possible of our citizens should be present and take part in the exercises in celebration of this occasion and to this end I, A. J. Johnson, as mayor of the city of Corvallis do recommend and strongly urge that all places of business in the city be closed on that day and that our citizens make of this a grand holiday and gather in the Oregon Building on the Fair Grounds and appropriately celebrate Corvallis Day. This the 12th day of June, 1905. A. J. Johnson, Mayor.

TOOK A SPIN.

Delivery Horses Did—And ran Amuck With Farmers Family's Carriage.

A runaway with more than usual of the spectacular in it, occurred Monday afternoon, and for a time supplied plenty of excitement. The outfit was the delivery wagon with the gray team of which Harlan Taylor is driver. The horses took a spin on their own account, several weeks ago, but in that affair the damage was only nominal. The second appearance in the role was attended with vaster consequences in all respects. The start was somewhere in the south end of town. The flight involved Third street, going north, until Jackson was reached, when the speeding veered eastward on to Main, where they turned south, clearing the street as they ran. Near Miller's store the wagon collided with an electric light pole. The reach gave way and all of the vehicle except a portion of the front works was left there. The fright of the horses was now worse than ever, and leaving Main, they turned out to third again. At Mrs. Lee's corner they collided with George Armstrong's family carriage. A wheel of the latter was spoiled, the double tree broken and other damage done. The Armstrong team started also to run, but it was caught before a good start had been effected. Meantime, the delivery wagon had been reduced to a condition of almost total wreck. The outfit is the property of Captain George Robinson.
