FOR MORAL IMPROVEMENT.

Of Its Members-A New Social Club and Its Purpose-Also Some of Its Plans.

The lights are shining brightly of nights nowadays in what used to be the Ben Woldt saloon. Inside, the bar is as usual and there is, if all accounts be true, booze for those who are able to gain admission.

The place is the home of the Corvallis Social Athletic Club, and the Corvallis Social Athletic Club is a new organization, launched the other day with a membership which the promoters place at According to the statement of one who holds membership, it costs a dollar to join, and 40 cents per month for dues. The dollar provides for life membership and the 40 cents per month is to pay for lights, rent, wood, and other incidental expenses. The member walks up to the bar, according to daughter spent last year in Ger- as he wants, and puts the money in a receptacle for the purpose. Or, if the member is in good standing financially and otherwise, and has frequent occasion for drink, an account may be kept of the amount of wet goods furnished him and he be permitted to pay this bill once a week or once a month. The claim is that this manner of conducting the business removes it from the operation of the local option law, the member when he pays his money for the drink actually performing an act wherein he pays a part

--- Elsewhere in this issue, appears the story of the will of the late Edward D. Sharrett, made shortly after he was shot in Lincoln county, and published now for the first time. It and other details of Sherratt's acts immediately after the shooting are made remarkably interesting by reason of the insistsistance by Lincoln county authorities that Sherratt was murdered by Mr. and Mrs. Green, to whom before death, he conveyed through the will, all his earthly belongings. The story was prepared especially for the Times, and is well worth
