—The Evening Tribune, published at Everett, Washington, has the following to say about Harold Belt, a former Corvallisite and OAC student: "Further proof of Belt's efficiency was given at the Sunday matinee, when that estimable pitcher trimmed the inland crew and passed them the unlucky end of a thirteen inning affair. The good or bad luck attached to a baker's dozen depends upon the point of view, and Mr. Belt seems to possess the optimistic temperament that reflects the sunny side of the thirteen hoodoo. This is his second thirteen-inning victory on the local field, the first being taken from Bellingham but a short time ago. In that instance Belt shut out the enemy. Owing to a slight error of judgment on the part of Mr. Irby, Spokane was allowed the consolation prize of one run in the first inning, but after that Mr. Belt and his assistants became exceedingly stingy and the final score stood 2 to 1."

It swept over the major portion of a stubble field and under the impulse of a light wind threatened for a time to grow beyond the control of the fire fighters. By dint, however, of extreme exertions the trouble was finally arrested, but not until $100 worth of fence had been reduced to ashes.

BIG ALFALFA YIELD

Six and a Half Tons of Hay per Acre—A College Farm Crop.

Alfalfa on the College farm made a yield of green feed this season that measured in cured weight would have made six and one-half tons of hay per acre. It is a yield strikingly at variance with the grain crop, because it is fifty per cent larger than any former crop, all in spite of bugs and the drought conditions of the late season. It inspires wonder that more farmers do not grow alfalfa, since this college alfalfa crop was produced on land no better than the ordinary wheat land, without a nickel's worth of artificial fertilizer, and under circumstances applicable on nearly any wheat farm in the Willamette Valley.

The two acres yielded four cuttings of alfalfa, that all told aggregated 82,775 pounds of green feed. The highest yield in any former year since the field was seeded to alfalfa was 55,744 pounds of green feed, equivalent to nine and one-fourth tons of hay for the two acres. The average yield per acre during the four years that the field has been cropped is four and a half tons of hay per acre. The yield in green feed during the four years has been as follows: 1902, 27,142 pounds; 1903, 55,744; 1904, 59,970; 1905, 82,775. The field was cut during the season of 1905 on the following dates, April 19th, when the yield was 40,080 pounds; May 31st, 22,030; July 14th, 10,525; August 25th, 10,140.

A young man and his sister want rooms for light housekeeping, if possible with private family. They are coming from Grants Pass to enter OAC. Information on the subject may be telephoned or written to the Times.

A Card.

To the Public: It has been falsely reported by interested parties that, when I have been unable to make a sale, I have been in the habit of running home-seekers out of the country. I desire to say that all such reports are unqualifiedly false and without foundation. I have lived in Benton county through a period of more than 30 years, and have done an humble part in aiding to upbuild it. I am not the man to seek to tear down the community that I have made my home through so many years. The statement that I ran Mr. Brandt out of the country is its own denial as a few weeks will prove. I sold him a farm with in a few miles of Corvallis, and as soon as he can close up his interests in Iowa he will be out with his family to occupy it. James L. Lewis.
