OFFICE OF
J. W. BAILEY
STATE DAIRY AND FOOD COMMISSIONER
ROOM 19, BREEDER BLDG.

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 25, 1905

The two Mason Jar caps has been examined. Upon examination the metal of the new Mason cap was found to be pure zinc. The small pin holes in the old Mason cap were undoubtedly caused by the action of vegetable acids. As a result the fruit in the jar must have been greatly contaminated with poisonous zinc compounds.

I regard the use of jars with zinc caps as very unsanitary and even dangerous.

Yours very truly,

J. W. BAILEY,

State Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Dog Fed on Adulterated Foods
Staggered in his Weakness—
The Williamson Trial—
Agricultural Day at Fair—Other News.

Las Vegas, H. M. Sept. 15.—Mrs H. D. Maynard, wife of a Santa Fe conductor, was reported dead by the physicians and members of her family. The body was laid out ready for the casket, arrangements were completed for its removal to the undertaker, when to the unbounded astonishment of all the woman arose from the bier and walked into the room where the mourning members of the family sat. Since reviving from a comatose state the woman is rapidly improving and it is believed will recover.

Berlin, Sept. 14.—A striking story of love and self sacrifice comes from Russia, Sergei Palkin, a well known poet, had for years corresponded with an unknown girl, who had first written to him to express her admiration for one of his poems. This correspondence continued, and so sympathetic and intelligent were the girl's letters that in course of time, Palkin felt that she and none other must be his wife.

He had never seen her, and the distance between St. Petersburg, where he lived, and Krasnoarsk was great. Last month Palkin paid a visit to the home of his beloved. He set out full of hope and expectancy, and reaching the house of his unknown bride-elect, was told that she had died about an hour before.

Filled with anguish he made his way to the death chamber, where, instead of a blooming girl, he found a corpse of diminutive cripple, hunchback and malformed. Her face, however, still wore a strange loveliness, and her beautiful hair was an ornament of which any woman might have been proud. A letter was waiting for him. He opened it. It was from his bride.

"Dearest Sergei" it began, "for over a year I have deceived you. You thought I was a young and beautiful girl; and all might have been well had you not declared your love for me in one of your dear letters. Had you seen me as I am, without loving me, neither of us, perhaps would have minded; but when you told me that you loved me, I had neither the courage or the heart to tell you of the misshapen creature to whom you were writing. To know that I was loved by you had been everything to me this glorious year. I die happy, knowing that for many months, at least, I was your chosen bride.

New York, Sept. 16.—News reached here today that Nan Patterson had been married in her father's home in Washington to Leon C. Martin her divorced husband, Nan's friends were not greatly surprised at the news. The marriage took place at noon today. It was originally set for last night but was postponed. Martin was devoted to the former Florodora girl during her term of imprisonment at the Tombs.

He called at the prison often and was the only man except her father and lawyers who got to see her. He sent food regularly among other things. Nan Patterson shared her meals with the women prisoners and told them that there was a man who wanted to marry her as soon as she was free. This man was Martin.

After her failure on the stage last spring, Nan Patterson came back to New York where she was once more a Broadway butterfly. She recently disappeared after a scandal with a Duluth man and not heard of until the news of today.

Martin was in California with Nan Patterson when she met Caesar Young. He was a hotel clerk and had no fortune. Nan said on the stand that Young had furnished her with money which procured the divorce from Martin.

Portland, Sept. 15.—The third trial of Congressman Williamson and his codefendants in the federal court is nearing a close. District Attorney Heney informed the court this morning that the prosecution would conclude its case today. Counsel for the defense expect that not more than a day will be required for the presentation of their evidence so that arguments to the jury will probably begin on Monday.

In important respects the case against the defendants has been materially strengthened since the former trials. Some entirely new evidence has been adduced and several of the witnesses have testified much more fully than before. Two of them have acknowledged that on the former trials they colored their testimony in favor of the defendants.

How far the defense will be able to offset the gains made by the prosecution remains to be seen. It is expected that all three of the defendants will take the stand but what additional testimony will be offered is not known.

Ask Your Dealer for Economy Jars

And take no other

Economy Jars are sanitary, no zinc, no poison, no mould, no separate rubber ring.

Salem, Oregon, January 31, 1904.

Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company.

Portland, Oregon. Dear Sirs:—

I used six dozen of your fruit jars last season and am very much pleased with them. The Economy Jar is the nicest looking and the best jar I have ever used.

I canned all kinds of fruits, vegetables, meats, fish, pickles and chicken, and had fine success with the Economy Jar.

I was awarded all the first prizes, consisting of 8 blue ribbons, at the Oregon State Fair, 1903, for my exhibit of canned fruits and jelly.

The Oregon commissioners bought all my fruit to represent Oregon at the St. Louis Fair. I have been requested to put up fruit for the Lewis & Clark Centennial Exposition 1905, and I will use your Economy Jars. They are a sure seal, easy to open, and I prefer them to any jar I have ever used.

Yours very truly,

Mrs. S. R. Foster.

It is worth your while to know YOUR preserved fruits and vegetables are free from poisonous compounds? You know this if you use the ECONOMY JARS they are endorsed and used by the district of Sonora, Mexico, it is feared may prove the last that will ever be found of four Arizonans, T. F. Grindell, Olin Rolls of Douglas, David Ingram, of Bisbee and Lieutenant Hoffman, who was an officer in Roosevelt's Rough Rider regiment, who passed through Nogales last June, with the intention of exploring Tiburon island in the Gulf of California.

The grewsome find was made by a Mexican cowboy while hunting cattle. It is reported that E. P. Grindell of Tucson was at Hormosilla a few days ago, seeking information of the party. The tragedy indicated by the horrible find is unexplained.

Tiburon island is a large island inhabited by a savage tribe of Indians who have resisted all attempts on the part of the Mexican government to civilize them by retreating to inaccessible mountains.

The natives are cannibals and a few years ago killed and ate the captain and crew of the curio schooner "The World," of Santa Diego, for which many of them were deported by the Mexican government.

It is feared that Grindell and associates may have shared the same fate, as the natives often ravage the mainland.

Atlantic City, N. J. Sept. 15.—Doctored for two weeks upon adult rated foods until what once was a magnificent and powerful animal had been reduced to a whining, miserable wreck, Carlo, a dog, was led today upon the rostrum in the audience hall of the Hotel Rudolf, where the convention of International Steward's association was being held. He is now to be doctored, back to health unless this feature of the tests under way should fail.

Staggering with weakness and whining with misery, which looked out of his big dull eyes, the aspect of the unfortunate beast was so pitiful that he furnished really a sensational object lesson of the perils of adulteration.

Professor Eugene Girard of Niagara Falls, the chemist of the association, under whose supervision the dog has been treated, explained the food upon which he had been fed for the last two weeks. It had been colored with coal tar dye, exactly in the same proportion as the ordinary jams, jellies, catsups and candies sold at the groceries.

Reno, Nevada, Sept. 15.—Hazel Dean, wearing men's clothing, entered Good Friends Hall, at Goldfield, dressed like the male habitues of the place, and joined in the festivities. The first woman in the crowd met her fancy and soon the two were engaged in dancing. Two or three times they glided around the hall, the Miss Dean gazed at her partner's face. The next moment recognition came and with it a scene never before witnessed in Goldfield. The daughter had recognized her mother.

For many years Hazel Dean believed that her mother was dead and buried near her old home in Montreal, Canada. Each year she sent flowers to bedeck the grave.

Explanations followed the recognition. Mrs. Dean in her new life, had buried the memories of friends, even of her daughter.

"Come with me, mother," the daughter asked last night.

"No, child, I cannot," Mrs. Dean, replied, and Hazel, her head bowed in shame, leaned upon the arms of friends, and was taken from the hall.

The dance of pleasure, the clinking of glasses and the voices of merry-makers, the light-hearted miners and painted women had stopped. Mrs. Dean was still in the dance hall, Miss Dean had disappeared

Seaside, Sept. 15.—The first Northwest conference of the Young Womens Christian Association held at Seaside, Sept. 5th to 12th has closed.

The number of delegates from each state were, Oregon, 47; Washington, 32; Idaho, 5; Montana, 6; Illinois, 3, Cal., 1, making a total of 95.

The great success of the conference was in a large measure due to the leadership of Miss Helen Barnes national secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Harriet Vance, secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A., assisted by Misses Margaret Klye and Mabel Cratty, national secretaries, and Constance Mae Corke, state secretary. Reno Hutchinson secretary of Y. M. C. A. of Portland. Rev. John Dean of Seattle, and Dr. Brown of Oakland, California.

The delegates were most delightfully entertained at Hotel Moore where everything possible being
