—Frank P. Sheasgreen expects to have his planing mill in Portland in operation Tuesday.

—Miss Mamie Crawford arrived Wednesday from Portland for a visit at her home.

—Mrs. R. M. Gilbert, after a several weeks' visit with McMinnville and Salem relatives, returned Thursday.

—Miss Helen Holgate and Mrs. J. F. Fulton expect to listen to Emma Eames Monday evening in Portland.

—A surgical operation was performed on Mrs. Marshall Miller in St. Vincent's hospital at Portland, Monday.

—A carload of special scenery and stage properties are to be used in the great production of "A Human Slave" at the Opera House next Tuesday evening.

—Albany Democrat: Coach Bishop of the Willamettes discovered that Pullman didn't play near the game against OAC that it did against Willamette. A good reason for it, it couldn't.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church are planning for the annual chrysanthemum show they are to give next month. A prize list is shortly to be issued, and those interested should keep it in mind.

—A horse buyer of Portland has been in town for a day or two, looking for 1,400 and 1,500 pound horses for use in Portland. He left this morning and is to return in a few days. Jesse Wiley has been assisting him in making purchases.

—Eugene Register: Coach Shorts was over to see the OAC-Pullman football game Saturday at Corvallis and says the farmer team is the fastest one he has seen on the gridiron this season and a close game is expected with the local Varsity team.

—"A Human Slave" is a big city show and on account of some misunderstanding regarding dates has some open time next week and the management of the Opera House secured the company for a one night engagement here next Tuesday evening. The show is on its way north from California, and opens for a week in Portland, Nov. 5th, and the following week plays in Seattle. It is a Chicago company and carries a carload of special scenery.

—R. L. Taylor, proprietor of the new store in Job's addition, has his sleeping apartments on the second floor of the building, and this fact probably saved him a big loss Tuesday. Mr. Taylor had retired, when thinking that he smelled smoke, he got up and went down stairs. Someone had thrown a partly lighted cigarette into a pan of ashes, and a fire had started, a good sized hole being burned through the floor when Mr. Taylor arrived on the scene.

—They talk but 11 cents for the best quality of hops. Johnson Porter returned yesterday from Salem where he went to get an insight into the conditions of the market. The best offer he could get was 10 cents. The impression among local buyers is that present low prices are the consequence of artificial influences brought to bear by buyers in the hope of getting the crop at bottom prices. Nobody here has sold.

—Eugene Guard: Distance racing, sham battles, midnight speeches, dips in the cold waters of the millrace and paddling contests forced on freshmen by sophomores Monday night has caused President Campbell of the University, to call a meeting of the two classes for tonight when he hopes to put an end to hazing. It is said that the practice of hazing at the University has been more frequent this year than any previous year in the history of the institution. One victim, who was thrown into the millrace the other night, became seized with cramps and fainted, and it is said, would have drowned had not timely assistance arrived.

—A divorce case of more than usual notoriety was on trial at Dallas three days of the present week and a well known Corvallis lawyer was one of the attorneys. The defendant was Mr. Yater a well to do farmer near Dallas, and his wife was the plaintiff. Judge McFadden and N. L. Butler were the wife's counsel. The lawyers on the other side were Judge Hayter of Dallas, and James McCain of McMinnville. A decree of divorce and one third of all the realty as alimony, the costs and disbursements of the suit, including her attorney fees was the judgment of the court for the woman.

—Ambrose Houck left Thursday for his home at Gold Hill after a visit with Benton county relatives.

—The U. of O. football team plays Chetawa at Eugene tomorrow.

—Mrs. R. M. Gilbert has returned from a visit to her daughter at Salem.

—Misses May Hurt and Attie Bray arrived home Tuesday from a three weeks' visit in Portland and Oregon City.

—William Graham is employed in the drug store of Graham & Wortham during the absence of Henry Wortham in California.

—Henry Flickinger, a well known resident of Polk county, is the guest this week of his daughter, Mrs. Caroline Maxfield.

—Tuesday evening the ladies of the Presbyterian church are to give a halloween party at the home of Mrs. J. H. Simpson to which all are invited. Refreshments 10 cents.

—The receipts of the local post-office increased more than eleven per cent during the last year, advancing from $6,600 in 1904 to $7,330 in 1905.

—An "Afternoon Tea" is in progress this afternoon at Alpha Hall from 3 to 5. The guests number thirty and are assembled by Mrs. Horner in honor of Mrs. W. E. Yates, who with her family leaves tomorrow for her new home at Vancouver, Wash.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lay are recent arrivals in Corvallis from Eastern Oregon, and occupy the Ingle house on Third street. They come from a country where snow is now two feet deep on the mountains, and it remains there until the middle of June or first of July. A letter from their son received within the past few days, states that it is snowing every day at the old home.

—"A Human Slave" is the title to the bill to be given in a theatrical performance at the Opera House Tuesday night. It is by a Chicago company, and the local management believes it to be first class in all respects. A carload of scenery is among the effects. The week of the 5th is to be the period for a Portland engagement by the same company, the Corvallis date having been secured by the local management while the company waits for a Portland theatre.

—Today's dispatches tell of activity in the wheat market, with a rise of one to one and one-fourth cents in Liverpool, and a two cent advance in Chicago. The changed conditions are due in part to political troubles and a shortened crop in portions of Russia. In the local market the price remains at 62 cents. There are claims that Europe has no wheat, and that later on, there is bound to be a big advance in the cereal.

—A divorce has been filed in the circuit court in which Harvey Sargent is the defendant, and his wife the plaintiff. The couple were married in Apr 1902. Mrs. Sargent's complaint alleges that since May 1904 the defendant has continually lived apart from her, all without just cause or provocation. She asks for a decree of absolute divorce, for the costs and disbursements of the proceeding, and for her maiden name, Emma C. Ingram.

—Apparently the Lebanon edition of Mike Kline and his flunkies are getting into trouble in the Linn county circuit court. A dispatch from Albany to the Portland Journal says: "Luke Jennings and G. B. Hansard, two Lebanon social club members, were indicted by the grand jury today, charged with violating the local prohibition law. Both were arrested, arraigned and placed under bonds for trial."

—Eugene Register:—The supporters of the university ball team are awakening to the possibilities of the great games now so near at hand. For the first time a band is being organized to assist the rooters in their demonstrations of loyalty. College songs are being arranged for band, and the game Saturday will be the occasion of a grand rehearsal of the performance that will be presented to the O. A. C. people on Nov. 11.

—Portland Journal:—Unusual interest is attached to the game on Saturday next between the elevens representing the University of California and the Oregon Agricultural college. It is stated that Corvallis has the strongest team in her history, and that the feeling among the Oregon rooters is that California is going to get a sound beating on Saturday. On comparative scores Corvallis should defeat California. The strong, steady game that O. A. C. played against Pullman stamps Coach Steckle's eleven as one of great strength, unusual speed and considerable strategy. The outcome of this game will be eagerly awaited.

—Mrs. J. A. Henry is visiting in Portland. She left Tuesday.

—Miss Louise Cooper left Thursday for a week's visit in Portland.

—Mrs. Mary Thompson arrived home Thursday from a three weeks visit in Portland.

—Miss Villa Fields of Forest Grove is the guest of Miss Lavina Woods.

—Mrs. J. H. Simpson entertained the Ladies' Afternoon Reading club Tuesday afternoon.

—Frank Thrasher is clerking this week for Thatcher & Johnson, the latter being absent from town.

—Miss Lura Flett leaves in a few days for Portland where she is to enter a business college.

—Joseph Ingram left Thursday for his home in Ritzville, Wash., after a visit of several weeks with Benton relatives.

—Mrs. Mary Ingram and daughter, Miss Ethel, were guests Wednesday and Thursday of relatives in Corvallis. They reside near Mon-10e.

—There is to be a football contest tomorrow afternoon on O. A. C. field between the Seniors and Juniors. Both teams will be composed of raw men and the game promises to be very interesting to witness.

—The Times has perfected arrangements for securing news from tomorrow's game at Berkeley, both between and after the halves. Shortly after six o'clock a complete story, giving some of the details of the game is expected by wire.

—Mrs. Susan Starr has leased her dwelling on Eighth street, and as soon as arrangements can be made, is to leave for Ballston, to make her home with her son, Rev. M. Clay Starr.

—Miss Addie Horton is to leave tomorrow for Waterville, Washington, where it is stated, she is to be one of the chief actors in a wedding that will occur shortly after her arrival.

—The roast beef supper given Wednesday evening by the Episcopal ladies was a very profitable affair. The attendance was large and the receipts amounted to $61.

—The girls of the Feronian literary society are to be entertained tomorrow evening by the young gentlemen of the Philadelphian society. The event promises a good time for those who will attend.

—A. R. Prescott has been a Corvallis visitor since Wednesday. He is an uncle of J. J. Cady and Mrs. Ellen Mundy. Tomorrow Mr. Prescott leaves for Spokane, to spend the winter with relatives, his home being in Iowa.

—At the Methodist church Sunday morning there is to be Sunday school rally at 10 o'clock, to which all the young people and children are invited. There will also be an opportunity for all who desire, to join the Sunday school. Every one is invited to be present, and make the occasion a grand success.

—Salem Statesman:—Friends of Harvard college express some surprise that the attendance this year shows a falling off. President Eliot says it is due to the fact that Harvard is a rich man's college. Harvard's failure at football in recent years is a much more probable cause.

—William Spencer who arrived last week has completed operations in Cascara bark peeling in Washington for the present. He and his associates have sold a carload of bark, and have three carloads yet on hand, which will be held for higher prices. Cass Harrison, yartner of Mr. Spencer, is still in Washington.

—After November 1st the starting time of all the R. F. D. carriers out of Corvallis will be at 9.30 a. m. All summer the starting hour for carriers 1, 2 and 3 was at 12.30. The earlier start is necessary for the winter schedule because the 25 mile trip involved on each route cannot be made during the daylight hours.

—The Benton county exhibit has arrived from Portland, and still boxed, is in the corridor at the court house. As yet there has been no determination of the question of what will be done with it, and there will not be until the commissioner's court meets. It is, however, the general idea that it should be permanently displayed in some convenient nook at the court house.

—About a dozen people are engaged in gathering the Meeker apple crop out on college hill. The crop is one of the largest in this section and is of excellent quality. There are no worms, and only a limited amount of scab, and by next year, with the proper amount of spraying, it is confidently expected that the crop will be entirely free from scab or other blemish.
