Anti-Jewish excesses have been raging here for three days and all the Jewish shops and many private houses have been totally destroyed. The number of Jewish victims is very large, and children and old people have been barbarously murdered while the military and police looked on with cynical indifference. The number of dead on both sides is about 100, but many hundreds of persons were wounded and mangled and the city presents a horrible appearance.

Rostoff-on Don, Russia, Nov. 3.—This city presents a scene of desolation, but the rioters are exhausted by last night's excesses and the rioting was not resumed this morning. Of the Jewish quarter, only smoking ruins remain. In other sections stores are still burning. The Jews are seeking refuge where they can. The mob outrages continued all night. Snots were continually heard.

Tolland, Colo., Nov. 3.—While a train on the Moffat road was snowbound at the summit of the Rockies last night, Mrs. J. W. Miller was visited by a stork which emerged from a blinding blizzard and left a wee girl in her lap. There was no doctor on the train, and but one other woman passenger, but the stork proved a mascot, for after it spread its wings and disappeared over the crest of the mountains the storm ceased and the train pushed through drifts and hurried to Tolland, where a physician had been notified by wire, and was waiting to care for the mother and her babe.

Washington, Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt has issued his proclamation naming Thursday, November 30, as a day of Thanksgiving as follows:

By the president of the United States of America.

A proclamation: When, nearly three centuries ago the first settlers came to the country which has now become this great republic, they faced not only hardship and privation but terrible risks to their lives. In those grim years the custom grew of setting apart one day in each year for a special service thanksgiving to the Almighty for preserving the people through the changing seasons. The custom has now become national and hallowed by immemorial usage.

We live in easier and more plentiful times than our forefathers, the men who with rugged strength faced the rugged days, and yet the dangers to national life are quite as great now as at any previous time in our history. It is eminently fitting that once a year our people should set apart a day for praise and thanksgiving to the giver of good and at the same time they express their thankfulness for the abundant mercies received, should manfully acknowledge their shortcomings and pledge themselves solemnly and in good faith to strive to overcome them. During the past year we have been blessed with bountiful crops. Our business prosperity has been great. No other people has ever stood on as high a level of material wellbeing as ours now stands. We are not threatened by foes from without. The foes from whom we should pray to be delivered are our passions, appetites and follies; and against these there is always need that we should warn.

Therefore, I now set apart Thursday, the 30th day of this November as a day of thanksgiving for the past and of prayer for the future, and on that day I ask that throughout the nation the people gather in their homes and places of worship and, in rendering thanks unto the most high for the manifold blessings of the past year, consecrate themselves to a life of cleanliness, honor and wisdom, so that this nation may do its allotted work on earth in a manner worthy of those who founded it and of those who preserved it.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this second day of November in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Five and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Thirtieth.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, By the President.

ELIHU ROOT, Secretary of State.

Washington, Nov. 4.—For obvious reasons, no member of the administration can be quoted on the matter of Mitchell's case, but if the president's views and those of his various cabinet officers could be printed, the people of Oregon would have no doubt as to the position of the administration. So far, the administration has done nothing to force Mitchell, Hermann or Williamson out of Congress, though some officials of the department of justice have been urging the attorney-general to ask for an advancement of the Mitchell case on the docket of the United States supreme court. If this is done, and the supreme court sustains the findings of the lower court, Mitchell will be deprived of his seat some time this winter and Governor Chamberlain will have an opportunity to appoint his successor to serve until March 4, 1907.

Warsaw, Nov. 5.—Great patriotic demonstrations were held in the street today by crowds estimated at 200,000 persons. Processions headed by the clergy and singing "God Save Poland," paraded the principal streets, which were elaborately decorated. The balconies and windows of the houses were filled with spectators. A citizen guard kept exemplary order, and the military massed in the side streets had no reason to object.

Loyalists endeavored to organize a demonstration, but it was a complete failure, barely 4500 persons taking part in it.

A Jewish military, armed with revolvers, is guarding Jewish houses in the outskirts of the city. The militia shot and killed four disguised detectives found trying to provoke disturbances.

The government warned the Polish newspapers that unless they submitted to the censorship their offices would be closed. Two papers persisting in their disregard of this order have been shut up and sealed by the troops.

The houses of all Polish nationalists were illuminated tonight.

The funerals of the victims of the disorders at Lodz, which were held today, were attended by 40,000 persons. There were revolutionary speeches but no disorders.

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 5.—Three children are dead and 13 people are injured, one fatally, as the result of an explosion here today which completely destroyed the Miers' National Bank.

A gas leak in the basement of the bank building was responsible for the explosion and loss of life.

The victims were all church attendants on their way home. Anderson and Peterson, steamfitters, had been engaged to make repairs to the heating plant, and as they entered the building they detected the smell of gas. They thought little of the circumstance, however, and as they passed into the furnace room they struck a match to a gas jet.

There was a terrible explosion. The steam-fitters were thrown through the doorway at the rear of the building, while the building collapsed, falling into a mass of ruins. A crew was switching cars on a sidetrack near the bank and the cars blocked the crossing when the explosion occurred. Many persons were standing on the walk, awaiting the passage of the cars and thus were within reach of the explosion.

There was a number of narrow escapes from death or serious injury. James Mullen was in his office in the bank building when the accident occurred, and he was not taken from the debris until the rescuers had worked for two hours in clearing away the wreckage. The bodies of the killed were fearfully mangled. The safety-deposit vault in the bank is uninjured.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Devere of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill with cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "It happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by Graham & Wortham.
