Corvallis Times

Official Paper of Benton County.

CORVALLIS, OREGON, TUESDAY EVENING MAR. 20, 1906.

THE SENATE EXPOSE.

The exposure by Lincoln Steffens of the motives and influences that control the American senate make interesting reading just now, when there is a movement in Oregon to prevent the selection of senator by direct vote, as is now possible under the Primary law. In language so plain that it cannot be misunderstood, Mr. Steffens charges that the senate is in reality the agent and champion of rich express companies, railroad companies, of syndicates and combines and that it legislates in the interest of these rather than for the benefit of the people. In fact, some of the senators have admitted to Mr. Steffens the very things he charges against them as will be seen in an article on the first page of this paper. The exposure makes it important that the primary law with reference to direct vote for senator be adhered to in Oregon by requiring legislative candidates to sign statement number 1. With Oregon thus leading the way the other states will soon adopt similar plans, and in but a little while all the senators will have to run the gauntlet of the people which will mean that the senate will soon be purged of trust agents and corporation lawyers like the Depews, the Platts, the Aldriches, the Forakers, the Elkins and all the others of their ilk.

COUNTY CLERK MOSES.

If his friends are urging Victor Moses to again allow the use of his name for county clerk, it is no more than might have been expected. No man who has served as county clerk has been more capable, more painstaking, or more obliging. Both as a private citizen and as a public official, he has been all his constituents could have desired, and the consequence is that they do not wish him now, as he proposes, to retire from his position, but to stand for re-election. There is no better way to promote the interests of the county, as well as to encourage faithful service, than by electing and re-electing to office as faithful an official as Victor Moses has been.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by Graham & Wortham.

HAS BEEN INVITED.

But Has Not Accepted—County Clerk Moses and His Constituents.

So far, the democrats are without a candidate for county clerk. In short, no man among them is a seeker after office. The function of the late gathering of their clans was to awaken in them a willingness to allow their names to be used. From the very first it has been the understanding that County Clerk Moses did not wish a re-nomination. His friends, both democrats and republicans, in all parts of the county have urged him to stand for re-election. In all cases, he has returned the invariable answer that he is not and does not wish to be in the fight. At the democratic meeting Friday evening he was further urged to allow his name to be used for clerk. He has made an exemplary official, and his friends realize that his record is such as to make him almost invincible, if he enters the field. The vote, asking him to go on the ticket was unanimous and enthusiastic. Speeches in his favor, and referring to his splendid work as an official were greeted with enthusiastic applause. The meeting adjourned, however, without an acceptance from him. There has been no acceptance since. At the meeting, he made a brief address, thanking his friends of all parties for their support in the past. He said:— This evening, while we are gathered here in an informal way to plan for the general welfare of the local democracy, I trust that a few words from one of your servants will not be out of place. There are times, when men who are public servants should render to those who reposed confidence in them, an account of their stewardship—this is an occasion of that kind. The honors you have conferred upon me, I have endeavored to wear with becoming modesty, and with a consciousness of my faults and shortcomings; the responsibilities you have entrusted to me, I have met and discharged to the best of my ability, and yet not my ability alone, but I have had, and been upheld by your support, and constant co-operation; I have tried at all times to meet these responsibilities and measure up to these requirements; in the letter as well as in the spirit; the confidence you reposed in me I have been careful not to betray, either in the small or more important interests committed to me.

That the work of my office might have been done better I will not deny; but in all I have sought to do my best. In my official acts, I have known no man, nor party, but all men and all parties. The office you gave me by your suffrage, and the assistance of my friends of the other political parties in the county, and the honor conferred upon me in such act, I have sought to merit, and I expect to retire from the office of clerk at end of this term, fully trusting that not one who gave me his vote, has ever had occasion to regret such act. The honor of having been your servant, I will always cherish.

I feel that whatever may be preference of my friends, or the political views of those who have voted for me, I have this consciousness, that I have not done an act to gain a friend; but have so acted as to merit the good will, confidence and friendship of every man.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by Graham & Wortham.
