CORVALLIS, OREGON, UESDAY EVENING MAR... 27, 1906.

IF NOT TOO LATE.

The statement that private parties are securing control of Cascade streams is of vast interest to all the people of Oregon, especially of Western Oregon. The streams that rush down the declivities and canons of the Cascades have in them the power with which to move every car wheel, every factory, every electric light plant, and every other established in the Willamette valley.

Scarcely a spot on the face of the earth is so favored for the uses of electrical power. The narrowness of the long valley and the prodiglousness of the available electrical forces makes a combination for cheapest possible power that is scarcely to be found elsewhere in the United States. The people of the locality have within their reach if it is not yet too la'e, a means of wealth beyond computation, if they do not sit listlessly by and fiddle while their inheritance passes into the hands of Eastern millionaires already stuffed with the gains of their greed.

If nothing more ought to have been realized by the towns of the Willamette, each of them should have secured power enough from these streams which the Omnipo. tent provided for all the people and not for a few capitalists, to supply themselves with low-priced electric light and power for local manufacturies. If towns like Corvallis Albany, and Lebanon, for instance, had gone together and secured water rights for present or future uses in this line, mighty good from two hoodlums who had dogwould come to their people later in the privileges the forethought would have guaranteed. Indeed, girls had taken refuge in the Hurd it seems possible that, in some way, some how, some time, the state of Oregon might obtain and hold a tentions that they were afraid to reserve of these magnificent streams proceed the rest of the way home and defend them from monopolization by a few millionaires. Electric lights for farm homes at prices cheaper than coal oil light, machines on the farm that, with electricity pectable you g women. When for motive power, will begin to Chief La e arrived at the Hurds, for motive power, will begin to move when a button is pressed, brilliant lighting in the homes of disappeared. The chief saw the all the poor at a minimum cost.— girls safely home and has since want to do it. By the new plan he is when heading his company all there and many other blessing thright to slip from our grasp.

THAT SILENCE.

The Rosebu g News advises republicans not to listen to what democratic papers say just now, because, it says the advice might be wrong. How then are the people to get information? Such papers as the News are mum as sphinxes on the merits or d merits of republicthem. Thus the News and its kind in spite of his past are afraid to speak the name of Bourne above a to get out of his "bar'l."

Besides, what of the man who what will he do when he has the chance?

If there ever was a time when all papers, democratic or republican, should discuss cand d tes and their merits, it is prior to nominating day. Silence now is the best friend of men like Bourne. Publicity is the only hope of the really meritorious man. Failure to speak out, and leaving all there is to be said to what caudidates say in their advertisements, puts journalism in a

DRIVEN TO REFUGE.

Two Young Girls Pursued by Hoodlums Sunday Night-Much Indignation.

There are a lot of indignant people about town. They have ample cause for their indignation. It is abolishment of a certain practice prevalent here will be inaugurated. The practice alluded to is the habindustry now established or to be it of boys and young men to congregate at the Opora House and at the doors of churches, and to spend the time in pranks on the outside while entertainments or worship is in progress inside. The thing has been in vogue for years. It is especially manifest now while the evangelistic meetings are in prog-ress nightly at the Opera House and the Methodist church. Sunday night at least forty boys and young men were congregated at the Methodist church corner. At the same time there was a large bunch at the Opera House corner. The scuffling, joshing and jostling disturbed the services at both places, and the police was called to disperse the noisy mobs. A number of college boys were in the crowd and when ordered to leave by Chief Lane. they went away. Some of the others also disappeared, but others refused to do so, and two were arrested

Phased 5wo Young Girls.

The main cause however, for the indignation is the sequel of the facts above related. Shortly after the services were over, Chief Lane was called up by telephone at his home. Mrs. Hurd, wife of the pastor of the United Evangelical church, was the speaker. Two young girls were at her house, asking for protection home when the boys had been so persistent in their unwelcome atwithout protection. Both girls live in the outskirts of town, one in Job's addition and one north of town. Both are eminently resthe young ruffians of course, had been engaged in a rigid inquiry as in view of the stupendous electrical to the identity of the two hoodforces stored for us in our Cascade lums. Oaths, obscenity and every streams, are within the easy grasp variety of vile remark fell from of our people if we do not allow our their lips as they dogged the foostepe of the girls. It is their conduct that has aroused much public indignation.

Warning to Parents.

Of course the dogging of the footsteps was by two of the youngsters who congr-gated on the church corners. Not all the boys who con gregate there expect to chase girls afterward, but some of them do. Some of them did it Sunday night. The pursuit of the girls was the fools if we don't insist on getting an caudidates, hoping of course to c nsequence of the gathering of it." usufruct in adv rtising from all of hoodlems on the corner. When the girls started home, the hoodlums followed. Perhaps the boys had the plan in mind all candidates in town Saturday. He whisper, because if what they hope the time they stood outside. For while other people go in, is a sign of mischief. The father or mother who sees a sin there may be very sure that he is not out on a sensis ble or good errand.

Identity of Hoodlums not Known There are a lot of indignant people who want the practice stopped. Chief Lane wents it stopped, and it is at his request that these facts about the matter are printed. It is bitte ness. Possibly that considera sort of watning to parents before-hand of trouble that is ahead for in the present instance as in some shameful light, and office seeking their youngsters who congregate past fights, never heless, it is more at places of entertainment and wor- or less a feature. THEY TALK POLITICS.

In Town Saturday-Many Statesmen on the Streets-Some Gossip.

The local statesmen were nearly all in town Saturday. Ed Belknap was on the streets early, and did not leave until a fairly late hour. So was Joe Edwards, and so was Virgil Carter.
