—Mrs. McKellips returned Tuesday from Comstock where she attended the funeral of her grandmother.

—Miss Flora Mason of Albany leaves Monday for New York City, where she will be joined by Maud Hoffman, the actress, and together they will journey to Paris.

—Leon Montgomery left Thursday for Scio, his home. He is a student of O. A. C.

—Lets go fishing at Hodes Gun Store. Biggest and most complete line of fishing tackle in town. All kinds of repair work guaranteed.

—At the Episcopal church Sunday there will be celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 and at 11 a. m., evening prayer at 7.30. Rev. H. B. Chambers will preach.

—Miss Mary Jones left yesterday for Silverton where she has been engaged to teach in the city schools. She received the appointment on the recommendation of President Gatch over 15 other applicants. She graduated at O. A. C. in 1901.

—Thomas Fawcett arrived Tuesday, and is likely to be joined by his family to remain for the summer. They have resided at St. Johns since they left Corvallis last year. Mr. Fawcett's announcement in a business way is to be found elsewhere in the Times.

—While working in the planing mill Thursday, Ed Buxton had a narrow escape from losing the sight of one eye. A stick flew up, striking Mr. Buxton on the side of the nose, almost in the corner of the eye, but only a slight gash was inflicted.

—The Artisan lodge of Lebanon this week sent word to the Corvallis lodge of the order, requesting that the local team and officers pay a fraternal visit to that lodge this evening, and assist in the initiation of a class of 25 candidates. The local lodge has a large membership, and has achieved some repute in the work that is done by the degree team.

—Misses Mary Nolan, Edna Irvine and Louise Cooper, Messrs Lyman Bundy, Rae Walker, Sam Damon and Kenneth Cooper leave on tomorrow morning's early train to attend a house party given by Helen and Karl Steiwer at their country home near Jefferson.

—A Parent's meeting is to be held at Bellefontaine on Saturday, April 7th. Features of the programme are, address, "What should the school expect from home," L. N. Edwards; "What should home expect from school," M. M. Waltz; "Formation of character," J. H. Edwards; "The old and the new," J. B. Irvine; "Education, its value to the individual and the state," E. H. Belknap, remarks, T. T. Vincent and G. W. Denman. There will be a literary programme for which each school in the south end of the county has been invited to contribute two selections. The music will be in charge of Mrs. J. H. Edwards. There will be a basket dinner.

—Matt Wilhelm of the big mercantile firm of Southern Benton, was down today from Monroe. The Maud farm owned by him near Monroe has been sold through Ambler & Watters, to Mr. Howlands and Mr. Chatterlin, lately arrived from Iowa. The farm comprises 190 acres, and the price paid was $20 per acre. The purchasers are to return East for their families.

—Next Monday taxes become delinquent. After that it takes a 10 per cent penalty and 12 per cent interest to get squared with the county. Many who did not get the rebate are now paying half their taxes and taking until October for the balance. One man who took that tack today explained that it had been his purpose all along to get the rebate. He had money enough to do it, but a friend came along and borrowed some to pay his taxes and get the rebate for himself. Number 1 then dug up more money with which to get the rebate and another friend wrote asking him to pay his taxes. Again number 1 dug up money for himself but the borrowing went on until finally the time limit expired, and number 1, who was in fact, County Clerk Moses, failed to get the rebate.

—Up to last night the total registration was 1,418. Only ten days remains for those who want to vote in the nominating election, to register as the books will close on the 10th, and remain closed until after the primaries.

—Forest Grove Times:—Mrs. Day of Corvallis who came down here from Corvallis a couple of weeks ago to visit her friend Mrs. F. F. Knight, has been quite sick since and is unable to return home yet.

TWO INDICTMENTS.

After a five days session, the grand jury reported this afternoon and was discharged, following which, court was adjourned to June 9th. At the last minute an indictment was returned charging W. H. James with libel. He is the man mentioned by the Times as having been sued for $5,000 damages by G. W. Parker. The charge of libel is based on the article he wrote about Parker.

Another indictment is against Mrs. Janette Huggins and Andrew Campbell, who are charged with giving morphine without a license and without being a physician. The morphine is understood to have been administered to the late Chas. Tower at the poor house.

THE LAST DAY.

For State and District Candidates to File—The District Judgeship.

It looks very much like Judge Harris would have to trot alone in the race for circuit judge in this district. Today was the last day for filing nominations for state and district offices, and up to noon no information had been received to the effect that a competitor either for the nomination, or a rival on the democratic ticket had come to the front. The office is open to any lawyer that is resident of one of the six counties that comprise the district. It was planned once to have the extra judge a resident of either Lane, Benton and Lincoln but for some reason the bill did not pass the legislature in that way. It is probable however, that no resident of other than the three latter counties would seek the nomination. It is also probable that Lane, Benton and Lincoln will be cut off from the second and be made a separate district by the next legislature, in which event a new office of district attorney will be created. It is understood that there is plenty of work for the extra judge, and that since the office was created, Judge Harris' time has been wholly employed with courts and cases.

GOVERNOR REVIEWED IT.

O. A. C. Cadet Regiment—And Made a Speech in Chapel—What he Said.

Upon invitation of the president, Governor Chamberlain today reviewed the Oregon Agricultural College cadets and addressed the entire student body with many visitors from the town. In spite of the disagreeable weather, several hundred spectators witnessed the various evolutions of the College cadets. The governor, accompanied by President Gatch, Dr. Withcombe and Major Edwards, took much pleasure in watching the regiment throughout the review.

At ten o'clock College chapel was crowded with students and visitors so that standing room could no longer be obtained on the stairways in the adjacent halls. Following the regular morning devotions, two selections by the Bach quartette, consisting of B. W. Johnson, John Allen, Otto Herse and Prof. Fulton. President Gatch introduced Governor Chamberlain as the chief executive of Oregon and as an alumnus of Washington-Lee University. After words of praise for the college, he imparted much good advice to the student body, frequently referring to President Roosevelt as America's model of fearless integrity. During the address of twenty minutes he was roundly applauded repeatedly; and at the close of the exercises, the entire student body gave nine raps for Governor Chamberlain. In part, his address was:

THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

As commander-in chief of the Oregon National Guard, it afforded me great gratification to review your battalion. I say without disparagement to any institution, that I have never seen so large a body of men so well trained, physically and so thoroughly in the arts of a soldier. In common with other citizens of the state, I am proud of the progress you have made and congratulate you upon your magnificent showing as soldiers. Your training along military lines is for two purposes; first, so that our common-wealth and country may be able to rely with confidence upon the trained soldiery, and second, but by no means least, in order that you may thereby develop physically, because without a strong body it is difficult to maintain a strong mind, and I am sure that good results will follow from the efforts you are making.

"In common with the people of the state, I am proud of you, and I am proud that we are citizens of one of the most magnificent commonwealths. When we read the history of Thomas Jefferson, who while yet a minister of Paris, more than 100 years ago, and of his determination to send out to this coast as emissaries, Lewis & Clark, with a letter of credit against the world; when we read of the hardships encountered by our men and women, your ancestors; when we read of the struggle instituted at Champog in 1843 and the part played by Joseph Meek and the sole survivor of that honorable band F. X. Matien. when it decided Oregon to be a part of American soil, when we read of all this and the hardships endured by those who have preceded us, it seems like an epic poem and is more like romance than history.

"There is everything here to inspire you to higher aims and ambitions. Off to the right and left are magnificent valleys, schools and churches on every hillside; higher upon sides stand splendid forests and above them the snow capped peaks. All these things while adding to the beauty of the state do not constitute a state; it is citizenship that makes it great and this institution of yours is engaged in a work that will do more than any other factor to teach our people to strive for higher ideals in public and private work.

PRAISE FOR ROOSEVELT

The time is not far distant when you, young gentlemen, the students of this splendid institution, must assume the affairs of government and it is your duty to study the life and character of those men who have done and who are doing so much for uplifting citizenship in public life. And first let me say that our President, Theodore Roosevelt, has done more the last few years to lift the standard of citizenship than any other person. He has made it the text of his speeches and of his life to teach that the public office is a public trust and to punish those who are delinquent in the discharge of their duty.

Then too, Joseph W. Folk several years ago started a movement to purify the government offices that is to be followed by others. He punished those who betrayed their trust as they should be and they were lodged behind prison bars. As a result of his work, the people of his State have honored him by making him their chief executive. And so others might be named.

The time is not far distant when all will come to realize that no man can be dishonest and not be detected by those who have honored him in the conduct of their affairs. I might call attention to innumerable instances to show that delinquency in office is not confined to any party; a rascal in politics is a Democrat in a democratic community and a Republican in a republican community. He knows no rite of political faith and honor.

PEOPLE MUST LEGISLATE

"In this connection I wish to call your attention to the fact that Oregon is a pioneer in public legislation. The time has been when the responsibility of legislation rested upon the legislature; that responsibility no longer rests upon legislative bodies; but the people can undo laws they make as they can veto any measure that meets their disapproval. In other words, the people are the legislators and can defend their interests. Thus the purpose of this institution is to teach you not only the proper methods of raising the varied crops that Oregon soil produces most bountifully, but to teach you as well to strive for loftier and better and higher citizenship so that when the responsibilities of which I have spoken rest upon your shoulders, you will not only know how to administer affairs, but you will administer them faithfully and well. I know those who have the interests of the Oregon Agricultural College at heart, have also at heart your welfare and are striving in their instruction to make you better and help to place our state in the first rank of the great states of the union.

"I congratulate your distinguished president and his splendid corps of assistants, who compose the faculty of this institution; and in conclusion let me bid you God speed in the splendid work you are doing for the people of the state and the advancement of its best interests."
