USING DRAGS

In all Parts of the County—
Testimonials About Them.

Information is that road drags as described in Tuesday's TIMES are coming into use all over Benton. Henry Hector, Charles LeVee, Ben Harris and others are using them in the district to the north of Corvallis while William Jolly and others have them at work on the roads to the westward. Punderson Avery who was recently over the roads to the southward, says the effect of the drags is excellent. From all quarters, the testimony is that no better investment for smoothing up the roads can be made. It develops that several months ago, County Judge Watters sent out circulars to all parts of the county, describing the drag and urging its use upon residents of the various neighborhoods. After describing the manner of constructing the devices, Judge Watters says in his circular:

"At first you will have to drag when part of the road is too wet but after awhile it will dry evenly, and the first few times you drag it will be better for you to merely drive down one wheel track and back the other, moving the dirt towards the center of the wagon track. Gradually widen as you get a chance. This will give a solid foundation. If the wagon track is at one side of the highway, begin right there anyhow. The rest will follow in time. Don't be in a hurry. First make a drag; second, use it every time you can improve the road by dragging.

"The hitch is the next in importance to the time at which the dragging is done. The right time is just after the road dries a little after a rain, or when it is thawed on top during the winter and spring. A smooth surface for travel is thus produced, but a more valuable result is that the road will shed the next rain instead of absorbing it. This is the reason why the road should be dragged every time so that it will always be ready for the next rain.

"Don't drive too fast.
"Don't walk; get on the drag and ride.
"Don't wait for the big grader to come up and shape the road; all that you can do first will help make the work of the grader permanent.
"Don't try to drag with one piece; use two. With one piece you would scoop out the hollows in the road and deepen them. When two are used the one keeps the other up; and in a short the hollows will have filled and become level and hard like the balance of the road."

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by Graham & Wortham.

To Be or Not to Be.

O. Pshaw.

I sometimes think I'd rather crow
And be a rooster, than to roost
And be a crow. But I dunno.

A rooster he can roost, also,
Which don't seem fair when crows cant crow
Which may help some. Still I dunno.

Crows should be glad of one thing, though:
Nobody thinks of eating crow
While roosters they are good enough
For any one, unless they're tough.

There's lots of tough old roosters, though
And any way a crow cant crow,
So maybe roosters stand more show.
It looks that way. But I dunno.

SINCE CORVALLIS WENT DRY.

Interesting Facts Published in the "Searchlight."

The April issue of the "Pacific Searchlight," published at St. Johns, has reached Benton readers and it is certainly of considerable interest. This is designated the Benton county edition, and much pains has been taken to give interesting data with reference to Corvallis and Benton county conditions.

On the first page appear nearly a dozen signed statements from Corvallis business men telling how business has increased and conditions been bettered since the local option law went into effect in this county. Among those who signed are John H. Simpson, Horace Lilly, E. B. Horning, O. J. Blackledge, F. L. Miller, F. P. Clark, L. Hollenberg, Vidito Bros., Miles Starr, Ingle & Tozier, Ambler & Watters, J. M. Nolan, W. S. Gardner, J. T. Phillips, J. H. Harris, M. M. Long and others.

A half tone of B. W. Johnson, and a report of conditions at the Corvallis post office; half-tones of Judge Watters, J. D. Wells and E. R. Bryson; others of Miss Mary Sutherland, Miss Hill, Merle Strain and John Schroeder; besides group photos of the Corvallis churches, an interior view of Mechanical hall; pictures of the campus and cadets, Cauthorn hall, Mechanical hall and other public buildings in Corvallis are shown besides an excellent birds-eye view of the city.

An interesting letter, from the pen of Judge Watters, and there are bits of general and useful information about Benton county scattered throughout the issue.

In addition to the Corvallis views there are many from Philomath including churches, residences and citizens, that render the paper one of deep interest to all Benton readers.

The "Pacific Searchlight" is the organ of the Prohibition forces of the Pacific Northwest, and is published semi-monthly, at St. Johns. The editor is Bert E. Emerick, who was in Corvallis recently, gathering data for this special edition.

Robert Johnson, secretary. Corvallis, Oregon. April 6, 1906.

Charles V. Galloway, candidate for the democratic nomination for representative in congress from the first district, was born on a farm near Bellvue, in Yamhill county, January 6, 1878. He is a member of one of the honored pioneer families of Oregon; his father, William Galloway, is at present circuit judge of the third judicial district. In 1895 while a member at McMinnville College, he won the state contest of the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Association. He graduated with honors from the University of Oregon with the class of '99. During his university course he took a prominent part in student enterprise; was a member of the debating team which in 1899 won the championship of the state. Upon leaving school Charles V. took up the management of the Galloway farm near McMinnville. This has been his principal occupation since that time. In 1902, he was elected to the lower house of legislature by a substantial plurality, leading the legislative ticket and being the first democrat elected to either branch of the legislature from Yamhill during a period of ten years. In the session of 1903 his record was one of which any man might well be proud. Declining re-nomination in 1904, he accepted the position of superintendent of the Oregon horticultural exhibit at St. Louis; and during the constructive period of the Lewis and Clark Exposition he was general superintendent of exhibits for the Oregon state commission. In experience and habits of thought Charles Galloway is much older than his years indicate. Most of his life has been spent out of doors on the farm; he is rugged in body and alert in mind. In disposition he is happy and genial; his view of men and affairs is broad and many-sided. He is a student, not only of books, but of nature and humanity; and has abiding faith in the gospel of honest hard labor. He is simple and democratic in habits and thought, never afraid to speak out plainly and definitely. If nominated he can be depended upon to state his position fairly and positively on every question that may properly be called an issue of the congressional campaign. If elected to congress he will, regardless of circumstances, keep and carry out every pledge and promise that he may make to the people of the first district. At the democratic rally and banquet in Salem on February 27th last, Charlie Galloway was one of the principal speakers, responding to the "Democracy of Jefferson." In its report of this meeting the Daily Oregon Statesman (republican) said:

"Mr. Galloway was warmly received and made a splendid oratorical effort, declaring Jefferson the grandest representative in history of government by the people. Political parties have arisen to harmonize and equalize the forces of government. Two great parties have always existed in opposition and these have been the respective parties of Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton, no matter by what names they have been known. He quoted from Jefferson and Hamilton to show that the spirit of the latter dominated the republican party of today and that Jefferson was today's democracy. He eulogized in eloquent terms, the life, principles and teachings of Jefferson, whom he styled 'the patron saint of national democracy.' His address was probably the finest, most comprehensive and most complete exposition of democratic doctrines in their most acceptable forms of dress that has ever been presented in Salem, and was an exhibition of charming oratory that is rarely heard from any platform. Mr. Galloway certainly made a grand effort and excellent impression on his hearers. The whole affair was a grand success and a social event, all the speeches were entertaining and instructive and were warmly applauded in each instance, Mr. Galloway receiving a perfect ovation."

The democrats in Yamhill county in open mass assembly at McMinnville on March 16, 1906, adopted this resolution: "We commend and unanimously endorse the candidacy of Yamhill's splendid young democrat, Charles V. Galloway for representative in congress."

THE BOOKS CLOSED.

Seventeen Hundred Voters are Registered in Benton—The Figures.

Below is a table showing the actual figures for the registration for the nominating election in Benton. It shows 300 more republicans registered than democrats, together with a considerable sprinkling of independents. It is conceded that there is a greater percentage of republicans registered, by reason of the fight over the senatorship and other offices, which waxes daily warmer and warmer. One well-known democrat figures it out, however, that there as many republicans unregistered now as there are democrats.

The books re-open on the 25th when all those unregistered can get their names on the books. They will remain open until May 15th, when they will close for good and aye. Of course, any of those unregistered, can vote at the primary election by use of blank A. The figures as they stood when registration closed on the 10th are:

BIRKS—MICHAEL.

Former Corvallis Girl is Married in Portland.

At the home of the bride's parents, Portland, on the 11th inst, Mr. Roy P. Birks and Miss E. Laurie Michael were united in marriage. About fifty friends of the groom and bride attended the ceremony. The house decorations were begonias and potted Easter lilies.

At the appointed hour, Miss Winnie Michael began the wedding march of Mendelssohn. The bride was beautifully gowned in white organdy and carried white Easter lilies. The bridal couple were unattended. Rev. E. H. Mowre, resident pastor of the M. E. church South, performed the ceremony, assisted by Revs. R. C. Michael and McCaustland. Mr. and Mrs. Birks were the recipients of numerous presents including elegant pieces of cut glass, silver, paintings, etc.

An elegant repast was served, Miss Lura Flett of Corvallis, and Miss Bessie Michael assisted in serving, while Miss Bessie Yates of Vancouver presided at the punch bowl.

The groom is a favored employe of the Portland Street Car Company, and is a young man of refinement and integrity. The bride is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Michael, who were until recently, residents of Corvallis. She is a member of, and was salutatorian of the OAC graduating class of '04. She is a young lady who has always been held in high esteem in Corvallis, where there are many friends to wish that Mr. and Mrs. Birks may receive a bountiful share of happiness.
