PASSED AWAY.

Miss Isabel Whitby—Her Funeral at the Family Home Yesterday.

The funeral of Miss Isabel Whitby occurred from the family home near Willamett. Grange hall yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Miss Whitby died about noon Tuesday after a lingering illness. The operation six months ago in a Portland hospital for removal of a tumor, is familiar history to all the county. It was not a successful operation, because vital organs and ligaments were so involved that complete removal was impossible. With great fortitude, however, the young woman maintained the unequal struggle, and for six months subsequently survived a fate that physicians thought at times could not extend beyond the ordeal of the terrible operation.

Three weeks ago, Miss Whitby was taken to Portland for further treatment, and after a few days, was brought home, unimproved. All that affection and medical science could do was bestowed in the vain hope of finding relief, but Tuesday the end came.

The funeral was attended by many from Corvallis, including school chums, college mates, and family friends. The interment was in the rural cemetery near the family home. The service was conducted by Dr. Thompson, and was simple. A wealth of flowers testified to the high esteem in which the dead was held.

Miss Whitby was a graduate of the state college in the class of 1904. She was a talented, brave and amiable young woman, and a wide circle of friends of herself and family mourn her passing.

MORE BUILDING.

For the State College—Million Dollar Appropriation Bill Passed.

Within a short time, funds will be available for the construction of a woman's building and drill quarters for the cadet regiment at the State College. The sum is $65,000, and it is probable that building operations will be undertaken in the very near future. One result of the election is that the people have voted to approve of the Million Dollar appropriation bill. It will be remembered that the measure was a huge omnibus bill in which appropriations for state institutions were indiscriminately grouped together with Normal School and other appropriations. It was passed during the last day of the legislative session, but not until after Governor Chamberlain had induced the legislature to eliminate the emergency clause so the referendum could be applied to the bill. This the people did, and at Monday's election, they voted on the question of whether or not the bill should be vetoed, or approved.

According to the returns announced, they voted to approve the bill. It is believed that thousands voted for the measure that intended to vote against it, due to the manner in which it was stated. However that may be, the bill has the sanction of the popular ballot and will become effective as soon as the formality of an official count and the issuance of the governor's proclamation can be made. This formality will require two or three weeks, probably. The law says that the official vote shall be canvassed by the secretary of state in the presence of the governor within 30 days after the election. Immediately thereafter, the governor shall issue a proclamation declaring the result of the referendum vote, and the measure so proclaimed shall become operative on the date of the proclamation. The law is as follows:

Section 9. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state, in the presence of the governor, to proceed within thirty days after the election and sooner if the returns be all received, to canvass the votes given to each measure, and the governor shall forthwith issue his proclamation, which shall be published in like manner as other proclamations herein provided for, giving the whole number cast in the state for and against each measure in question, and declaring such measures as are approved by a majority of those voting thereon to be in full force and effect as the laws of the state of Oregon from the date of said proclamation."
